STORM KILLS MANY IN SASKATCHEWAN

Sweeps Regina, Causing Death or Injury to 200 and $1,000,000 Property Loss.

ELEVATOR BLOWN ON TRACK

Puts Wires, Power and Light Plants Out of Commission—Only Hand Presses for Printing Papers.

Special to The New York Times.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, June 30.—Meagre dispatches from Regina, Saskatchewan, state that at 5 o'clock this afternoon a cyclone struck the southwestern portion of that city and tore its way northeasterly through eight blocks in the business part of the city.

Falling walls and flying timbers killed people as they walked in the street or hurried along in automobiles.

The estimated number killed and injured is 200.

All available conveyances were called to pick up the dead or injured, who were hurried off to hospitals or homes.

The telephone office was in the heart of the ruins, and all lines were put out of commission, the operators being removed from the débris.

The power plant was also put out of gear, and the town is without electric power or light.

The morning papers will issue sheets from hand presses. All telegraph wires are down except two, one of which has been reserved for death messages.

A large elevator was blown across the railway track. The only skyscraper in the city was in the path of the cyclone.

The property loss is roughly estimated at $1,000,000, including the building and plant of The Regina Standard.

Two fires started, but the brigade got a stream working, and appeared to have the situation under control.

Qu'Appelle, forty miles east of Regina, and Melville, further north, also suffered severely from the storm.

A special train left Winnipeg shortly after 9 o'clock with doctors and nurses and telegraph and telephone repair men.

The central path of the storm in Regina lay between Hamilton Street on the east and Albert Street to the west, including between them the greater portion of the financial, business and shopping districts.

Before it entered the city the storm passed directly over the Provincial Parliament buildings south of Wascana Lake, but it is impossible yet to obtain word of the damage there. Crossing the lake, its path north was over the Dominion Jail buildings, when it struck the most select residential section included on Sixteenth, Fifteenth, Fourteenth, Thirteenth, and Victoria Avenues. On the latter is the Land Title and other public buildings, and a number of big churches. Next it swept Twelfth and Eleventh Avenues and South Railway Street, which cover the financial and business districts.

Not abating a whit in fury, the storm passed over the Canadian Pacific Railway, taking down in its course half a dozen elevators. It then passed to that portion of the city lying north of the railway, where the wholesale houses are largely situated, while beyond it is a big residential district.

Although the fury of the storm was most apparent between Hamilton and Albert Streets, a good deal of damage was done elsewhere particularly in the Western Railway yards. The cyclone was so sudden that at first indescribable confusion reigned, but soon order was restored and relief gangs were organized.

Regina, now the capital of the Province of Saskatchewan, up till three years ago was the capital of the North West Territories and the seat of the Legislative Assembly, with a resident Lieutenant Governor. It has a population of from 8,000 to 9,000, and is situated in the centre of a great wheat belt, whence the plains roll out in every direction for hundreds of miles.

The buildings in the town are mostly of wood, with the Government offices, hotels and public offices of red brick. When Regina was laid out the designers appeared to have the idea that it would soon have a population of a million inhabitants, so that the Government offices and the barracks of the North West Mounted Police, the most picturesque feature in that part of Canada, are about two miles away from the Canadian Pacific station, on the plains, and the town has not yet caught up to them, but it will do so shortly, as it has been spreading rapidly since the Territory of Assiniboia was converted into the Province of Saskatchewan and permitted to borrow money.

The most striking building in the town is the big water works outside the station. Other prominent buildings are the hotel by the station and the Post Office. Regina depends entirely on agriculture and is the market for the wealthy farmers whose lands lie within a radius of 200 miles. A branch railroad from it runs to Saskatoon and Prince Albert, on the Saskatchewan River.

The Doukhobors, a poor sect of religious Russian peasants who migrated to near Regina about twelve years ago and took up farms in the surrounding country after they had learned how to cultivate them by serving an apprenticeship under Canadians, come into the town to sell their products. They live in a community which owns its own steam threshing plant and sawmills which are operated for the benefit of all. At intervals they start on a pilgrimage, clad in light attire, and the Northwest Mounted Police have to go out into the plains and bring them back.

WANTED FRIEND SAVED FIRST

"Save the Other Fellow," Said Dietz, "He Has a Wife and Children."

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 30.—"Don't mind me. Save the other fellow. He has a wife and children," said William Dietz to rescuers digging for Dietz and Edward Mooney, who had been buried in a trench.

Dietz and Mooney were employed by an electric light firm of Newport, Ky., across the river from Cincinnati, and were stringing wires in a trench, when one side of the ditch gave way, completely covering them with rock and dirt. A rescuing party cleared away the débris sufficiently to allow the men to breathe. When they reached Dietz he directed them to free Mooney first. This was done, and Mooney then helped in the rescue of his fellow-workman.

REPORT NEW PLAN BY BRYAN.

Nebraskan Said to Favor an Adjournment for One Month.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Rumors reached here to-day that if the deadlock in Baltimore does not end shortly, William Jennings Bryan was planning to move to adjourn for one month in order that it may reassemble and make a fresh start. This rumor was sponsored by a man who says he saw the resolution in Mr. Bryan's possession yesterday. According to him the resolution of adjournment follows a long statement by the Nebraskan setting forth his reasons.

The resolution, it was said, would come as a great surprise to both of the leading factions at the convention. It will be quite out of harmony with the tactics that developed last night, when adjournment was taken largely at the instance of the Clark men, who were watching in despair the steady fall in the Speaker's strength. The Wilson men, of whom Mr. Bryan is supposed to be one, were in high feather, saying that if they could just have time for enough ballots before Sunday, their candidate, who had been gaining all day, would certainly get the nomination.

The plan proposed by Mr. Bryan is not without precedent in Democratic history. Stephen A. Douglas got the nomination in 1860 on the fifty-ninth ballot from a convention which, after deadlocking on 57 ballots, adjourned without nomination, and then, upon reconvening, nominated him on the second ballot.

That convention still holds the record for number of ballots. Next to it was the convention of 1852, when Pierce was nominated on the 49th ballot. This makes the present convention, with its twenty-six ballots so far, a poor third.

DELEGATES NEED THE TIMES.

Can't Make Out What's Going On in Convention Without It.

John W. Barnicle, Secretary of the Twelfth Assembly District Democratic Club, who attended the Baltimore Convention with the Brooklyn delegation, said last night that he learned more about the convention by reading the Baltimore edition of THE TIMES than he did in the convention hall.

"I read all about it in your paper every morning down there," he said. "I found there more than I could learn myself. Half the time we could not make out what was going on in the convention."

NEW FEDERATION CANDIDATE.

Miss Bacon of Worcester Suggested for President of Women's Clubs.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 30.—This was a day of rest for the delegates to the Biennial Convention of Women's Clubs, although most of them attended service in the city churches.

The Massachusetts delegation presented to-day as candidate for First or Second Vice President Miss Georgie A. Bacon of Worcester. Miss Bacon was President of the Massachusetts Federation for three years, and has served as Chairman of the Civil Service Reform Department of the federation, and is now on the Advisory Committee of that department.

STOP-A-WHILE SOLD.

Charles H. Hyde's Houseboat Goes to William Fox for $10,000.

Rumors that the famous houseboat, Stop-a-While, in which ex-City Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde spent his vacation in Florida when District Attorney Whitman was looking for him with a subpoena to compel his testimony in the case of the Carnegie Trust Company, had been requisitioned as a temporary domicile at Baltimore by some of Mr. Hyde's Tammany friends were set at rest yesterday when the boat was towed to anchorage at the foot of 141st Street, in the North River, in front of the Colonial Yacht Club.

It was learned that the boat had been bought by William Fox, the vaudeville manager, and had been renamed the Mona Belle. She has been repainted and redecorated from stem to stern. The purchase price was $10,000.

SHOT AIDING PICKPOCKETS.

Confederate Killed and Another Wounded by Prostrate Policeman.

CHICAGO, June 30.—A patrolman, William Williams, shot and killed one man and fataly wounded a second early today, when five men attempted to take two prisoners from him. Earl Farrell, 18 years old, was killed, and his brother, Edward J. Farrell, 23 years old, was wounded.

Williams had just arrested two pickpockets at South Halsted and West Thirty-first Street, when the Farrells and three others attacked the policemen, for the purpose of effecting the escape of the prisoners. The policeman fired after he had been knocked down.

The shooting of the Farrells came as the climax of a night in which an unusual number of hold-ups and robberies had occurred.

SEASICK ON PARK LAKE.

"I Am Dying," Says Rower, When Policeman Rescues Him.

Louis Wayne, 20 years old, of 322 East Eighth Street, Manhattan, decided that a little trip on the water would be a fine way of spending Sunday afternoon. Excursion boats would be crowded, he figured, so the best thing to do would be to rent a rowboat. Being unaccustomed to the water, he was of the opinion that if he was going to row it would be wise to select a quiet patch of water undisturbed by waves from tugboats or ocean liners. The lake in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, he remembered, had a reputation for being a fine, mirror-like lake, so he boarded a car and started for the park.

He rented a boat at the boathouse after watching the methods of rowing used by other rowers, and struggled manfully until he reached a quiet island. About twenty yards off this island he pulled in his oars and lay back in the boat for a snooze.

Patrolman O'Donnell, who rows about the lake to warn those who like to rock boats, was on his way over the lake when he heard muffled cries for help. He found the boat containing Wayne.

"I am dying," cried the oarsman as O'Donnell came up. "Call a doctor." The policeman blew his whistle and an ambulance was called from the Swedish Hospital. Wayne was taken to the shore and Dr. Gilbert examined him. A careful examination convinced the doctor that Wayne was suffering from a most violent form of sea sickness. A few hours in the hospital fixed him up as good as new.

PLAN A NEW YORK BOLT TO WILSON

Twenty or More of the Ninety Delegates Want to Vote for Him.

FIRST MOVE DUE TO-DAY

Poll of the Delegation Will Be Demanded When Convention Balloting Begins.

EXPECT UNIT RULE TO HOLD

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, June 30.—Indications tonight are that Charles F. Murphy, boss of Tammany Hall and, since the convention began, of the New York delegation, will have a hard fight on his hands when the convention reconvenes to-morrow to keep the Wilson sympathizers in the delegation from bolting to Wilson.

A movement to start a break in the New York delegation, which has been brewing for two days, developed so far to-day that it is probable that when the twenty-seventh ballot is taken to-morrow at least twenty of the delegation will express their choice for the New Jersey Governor. The Wilson sentiment among the New York delegates has been growing all day, and it does not seem possible that Murphy can keep it from breaking out any longer.

W. G. McAdoo, the tunnel builder, who is a delegate from the Thirteenth District, New York City, is marshaling the Wilson men in the delegation, and if the plan which he framed up to-day does not miscarry, "Boss" Murphy will face an open revolt in his own delegation on the floor of the convention.

The Wilson men realize that under the unit rule they must vote for Clark, now that Murphy has pledged the delegation to that candidate, and they will continue to do so, but they have hit upon a scheme to show the convention that Clark is not by any means the choice of all. When New York State is called on the first ballot to-morrow it is the intention of Mr. McAdoo or some other Wilson adherent to challenge the vote and demand a roll call of the delegation. Under the convention rules this will have to be granted, and the Wilson men will then state their preference.

They expect that Chairman Ollie James will rule that the delegates will have to vote with the majority for Clark, but the moral effect that this switch to Wilson will have upon the delegates from other States who may be wavering is expected to be very great. There are at least twenty Wilson men in the New York delegation, twelve or fifteen of whom come from New York County, and the most enthusiastic Wilson man of them all is Mr. McAdoo. He did a lot of missionary work to-day. He went among all the New York delegates and pleaded with them to join the Wilson movement. Just how many converts, if any, he obtained he would not say, but he seemed very much encouraged to-night.

"I cannot go into particulars now," said Mr. McAdoo, "but there is one thing absolutely certain; Woodrow Wilson is going to be the nominee of this convention. Wilson is inevitable. There is no way of stopping him."

The Wilson Men.

ALONZO McLAUGHLIN, Eighth District.
EDWARD LAZANSKY, Tenth.
ABRAM I. ELKUS, Eleventh.
WILLIAM G. McADOO, Thirteenth.
LAWRENCE GODKIN, Sixteenth.
SAMUEL UNTERMYER, Seventeenth.
JOHN B. STANCHFIELD, Nineteenth.
HERMAN RIDDER, Nineteenth.
J. SERGEANT CRAM, Twentieth.
HENRY L. SCHEUERMANN, Twenty-second.
CHARLES B. ALEXANDER, Twenty-third.
Senator JAMES A. O'GORMAN, delegate at large.

There are also Gaynor and Underwood men who may turn to Wilson if it looks as if neither Gaynor nor Underwood will be the choice of the convention. Even a large number of the so-called Clark men are not opposed to Wilson so much as they are in favor of sticking to Clark, because of Murphy's fight on Bryan. Murphy is worried over the threatened defection in his delegation—not that he is inclined to Clark so much, but that he is using Clark's candidacy to defeat the Nebraskan.

Murphy acknowledged to several who have been in conference with him to-day that he is looking out for the success of the New York State ticket this Fall, and he believes that any candidate who has the Bryan O. K. will be a detriment to the success of that ticket. Murphy insists that Bryan must be eliminated, and it is a question with him as to the best manner to accomplish that purpose. Murphy also believes that Bryan is after the nomination himself, and he is going to circumvent him if it is possible.

"Bryan would be a dead weight on the New York State ticket, and any candidate bearing his indorsement would lose the State," was the way John F. McIntyre put it. "Bryan's overwhelming defeat in New York State and city every time he ran shows conclusively that the people of New York are afraid of him and do not want to have anything to do with him. For that reason Mr. Murphy is determined to be rid of him, and many of the State leaders feel the same way about it. Bryan must be eliminated if the party is to win, and Mr. Murphy will not submit to any compromise to end the

BRYAN SUGGESTS COMPROMISE TICKET

If Need Be, Wilson and Clark Might Give Way to Kern, James, or O'Gorman.

MODIFIES BAN ON NEW YORK

Nomination Not Tainted by Their Votes If There Were Enough to Win Without Them.

BALTIMORE, June 30.—"I see no reason why we should not conclude the convention to-morrow with the nomination of both a President and a Vice President," said William J. Bryan late to-night. "The friends of the various candidates have fought out their differences, and in their loyalty to the men of their choice have consumed more time than is usually devoted to balloting. There is every reason why the Progressives should get together and select a ticket.

"The antagonisms which have been aroused during the preliminary campaign, antagonisms which ought not to have been aroused, should not prevent the coming together of delegates upon some common ground.

"New York is not necessary to a nomination, and under the circumstances should not be permitted to dictate the nomination. I do not mean to say that the vote of New York would vitiate a nomination if the candidate had enough votes to nominate hihm without New York, for in that case the party would not be under obligation to Mr. Murphy for his nomination.

"But if Mr. Murphy furnishes the votes necessary to carry the candidate across the line, the candidate who accepts the nomination under these circumstances puts himself under obligations to Mr. Murphy and to the influences which speak through and control him, and I contend that a candidate so obligated would not appeal to the confidence of the public, and would not, if successful at the election, be free to serve the public with singleness of purpose.

"There is not an aspirant for the nomination who would have dared to go out before the people of any State and say, 'I have the promise of Charles F. Murphy that he will deliver to me ninety votes which, under the unit rule, are in his control as soon as I have enough more to give me the necessary two-thirds.'

"I believe, therefore, that all Progressives are justified in refusing support to any candidate who desires the New York support and justified in withdrawing support if after giving it New York should seek to add enough votes to give the candidate the nomination.

Talks Compromise.

"We have any number of available men from whom to make the selection; a number of them participating in this convention, and some are candidates before it. If either Mr. Clark or Mr. Wilson will announce his willingness to rely entirely upon the Progressive vote and his determination not to accept the nomination, if given under conditions which would obligate him to Mr. Murphy, there is no reason why the convention should not agree on one of these. If the feeling that has been aroused between the two leading candidates is such that the Progressive forces cannot agree upon either, it ought to be easy to agree upon some third person who, not having been a candidate, is not handicapped by animosities engendered or by an adverse verdict at the Democratic conventions and primaries.

"I will not discuss the relative merits of the candidates now before the convention who can be counted as Progressive, and I take it for granted that there is now no possibility of the nomination of the two candidates, Gov. Harmon and Mr. Underwood, who were the choice of the reactionaries. I do not mean to be understood as saying that all who favor them are reactionaries, but where he and Judge Harmon had strength outside of their own localities, the support is to be explained, as a rule, by the reactionary tendencies of the supporters.

Some of His Candidates.

"We have several persons taking part in this convention who have not been placed in nomination who are entirely worthy of consideration. Senator Kern of Indiana has already received the support of nearly 6,500,000 of Democrats for the Vice Presidency, and since that time he has not only been elected to the United States Senate, but has distinguished himself among his associates by the prominent part he has taken. He is the leader in the fight against Senator Lorimer. If there can be no agreement upon one of those now being balloted for, it ought to be easy to compromise on a man like Senator Kern.

"Congressman James, our Permanent Chairman, is a National character, one of the leaders of the House of Representatives and a Progressive who has been in the forefront of the fight since 1896.

"Senator O'Gorman, New York's member of the Committee on Resolutions, is a Progressive, who has given to his State a distinction of which she has been sadly in need—he has combined a high order of intelligence and courage with a sympathetic devotion to the rights and interests of the common people.

"In addition to these we have Senator Culberson of Texas, a man whose public record would commend him to the Progressives of all parties, and I would add Senator Rayner of Maryland after hearing his strong plea before the Resolutions Committee in favor of a progressive platform. These are but a few of the names that might be suggested. Surely, with such a wealth of Presidential timber, we should have no difficulty in nominating a winning ticket.

For the Vice Presidency.

"Just a word in regard to the Vice Presidency. This office should not be regarded lightly, nor should the selection be made carelessly. No man is fit to be the Vice Presidential nominee who is not equally worthy to be the nominee for President. The Vice President should be selected from those available for the Presidency, and he should be in harmony with the Presidential candidate on all public questions and on the fundamental principles which determine the bias and tendencies of men.

"In submitting the above views I recognize that I speak merely as an individual, but I am not less interested than the candidates themselves in the nomination of a winning ticket and in the prosecution of a successful campaign. It is a momentous hour, and we shall disappoint those who sent us here if we fail to measure up to the occasion."

TREND IS TOWARD WILSON

BREAKS IN CLARK LINES

SPEAKER'S FRIENDS ANSWER

Denounce Bryan for His Charge of a Deal with "the Interests" and Pledge Loyalty Anew.

NEW GAME FOR "BOSSES"

Cannot Work as of Old with Delegates Instructed at the State Primaries.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, June 30.—Men who in Democratic National Conventions of other years have been in a position to foretell with every degree of accuracy what the morrow would bring admit to-night that they are completely at sea with regard to the future of the convention, which to-morrow will enter upon its second week.

To-day there have been conferences between leaders representing every factional shade in the controversies that have kept the present convention deadlocked through twenty-six ballots. The conferences are still in progress, and it is probable that they will continue throughout the long night and up to the very moment the convention is called to order again at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

At the present writing it is admitted by those who have attended the councils of the leaders that the end of the long deadlock is not in sight. The fact is that leaders who were all-important factors in National conventions of the past, men who only four years ago might have broken a deadlock and settled a situation like the one that has arisen here in their own way, are well nigh impotent in this year of direct primaries and preferential choices of Presidential candidates at primary elections in more than a dozen States.

To-night the lieutenants of leaders such as Charles F. Murphy of New York, Roger Sullivan of Illinois, Thomas Taggart of Indiana, and ex-United States Senator James Smith of New Jersey are talking vaguely about some dark horse as a way out of the deadlock dilemma. The leaders themselves have little to say about dark horses. They have tried that sort of talk behind closed doors on the followers of the strongest candidates in the field, and by this time are well aware of the folly of dark-horse discussion.

To-night every one concerned in the situation surrounding this most remarkable convention is looking forward with forebodings to to-morrow's session, and guessing. Since it began there has scarcely been a session at which political dynamite sufficient to wreck the fortunes of the Democratic Party has not been exploded. Every one foresees that with William J. Bryan new explosions may come at any moment to increase the havoc wrought by those that have gone before.

Every effort has been made to-day with a view of bringing about a settlement of the situation before the convention meets to-morrow, so that the delegates may enter the convention with a slate made for them and go on during the day from the nomination of President to the naming of a man for second place on the ticket and the adoption of a National platform.

All these efforts have been in vain. The campaign managers of each of the leading candidates has remained adamant, and no agreement has been reached that indicates a lifting of the deadlock in the near future.

Wilson in Best Position.

Of all the candidates in the field, Gov. Woodrow Wilson appears to hold the best position. He has gained strength with every successive ballot that has been taken until at the end of the twenty-sixth ballot, just before adjournment last night, he had 407½ votes, a gain of 83½ votes since the balloting began.

Speaker Champ Clark, who entered the convention with a greater number of votes than any of the other candidates, and whose strength was swelled by the addition of the ninety votes from New York, has been losing strength in proportion to the gains made by Gov. Wilson. After the twenty-sixth ballot had been taken last night he was only sixty votes in the lead of Wilson, whereas in the tenth ballot he led New Jersey's Governor by an even 200 votes.

At the session yesterday there were indications aplenty of a general weakening of the Clark lines, which the unit rule, imposed on the delegations from many States, alone prevented from being fully demonstrated. The Wilson managers to-night believe that there will be new and even stronger manifestations in that direction when the convention begins balloting to-morrow, and that many of the Clark delegations will split before the day's balloting is done.

Delegates Who Want to Vote for Wilson.

The following table shows States the votes of which are cast for Clark under the unit rule, in which there are delegates who would vote for Wilson if the unit rule did not exist, with a conservative estimate of their number:

States.	Full No. of votes.	Favoring Wilson.
Alaska	6	2
Arizona	6	3
Arkansas	18	3
Colorado	12	4
Idaho	8	1
Illinois	58	25
Iowa	26	12
Kentucky	26	4
Maryland	16	5
Missouri	36	0
Nevada	6	3
New York	90	20
Rhode Island	10	6
Washington	14	3½
West Virginia	16	4
Total	348	75½

The Underwood States, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, and Alabama, are under the unit rule, but it is not thought that any of their delegates will vote for Wilson, merely because of the removal of the unit rule, so long as there is possibility of Underwood's nomination. Should Underwood withdraw there is little doubt that a majority of the delegates from all of these except Georgia will favor Wilson and in that event the unit rule will work in his favor.

Indiana is also under the unit rule and instructed for Gov. Marshall. If the rule were removed about 12 of the delegates would vote for Wilson.

It is reported on good authority to-night that California will desert Clark on the first ballot to-morrow and under the unit rule will cast 26 votes for Kern.

The Wilson leaders remained in the most optimistic frame of mind all through the day, and the air about the Wilson headquarters was in striking contrast with the gloom that seemed to pervade the headquarters of Speaker Clark.

Hope for Return to Clark.

The followers of the Speaker manifested an almost feverish activity. Senator William Stone of Missouri, who is looked upon as the chief spokesman of Speaker Clark at the convention, haranged a number of the delegates at the Hotel Belvedere, and afterward declared that there would be a movment of delegates back to Speaker Clark when the convention meets to-morrow.

Branding the implication made by Mr.

BRYAN REFUSES AN APOLOGY TO CLARK.

Believes Missouri Candidate Has Been Mislead in Accepting Murphy's "Ninety Wax Figures"—Clark's Rejoinder.

BALTIMORE, June 30.—William J. Bryan replied to-night to the statement of Speaker Champ Clark demanding that the Nebraskan prove or retract the general charge made in convention that the Clark forces had allied themselves with the so-called privileged classes. In his statement Mr. Bryan said:

"I have received notice by publication only. The only criticism I have made against Mr. Clark is not that he has acted wrongfully, but that he has failed to act. I may overestimate the importance of the Presidential office, but I have felt that an aspirant for that office ought to manage his own campaign and not allow people to do things for him without his direct and specific authority.

"The papers announced that Mr. Clark was neutral between Mr. Parker and myself in the Temporary Chairmanship fight, and that he advised his supporters to vote as they pleased. If that contest were purely a question between Judge Parker and myself as individuals, his refusal to take part would not be material, although he never sent out a piece of literature or had a speech made in his behalf that did not represent him as my special champion for sixteen years. If he distributed any literature in which he associated his name with Mr. Parker's, I shall be glad to withdraw this statement upon inspection of the literature.

"But the contest between Judge Parker and myself was not a personal contest, and everybody but Mr. Clark knew this. It was between progressive Democracy on the one side and reactionary Democracy on the other, and I contend that in such a contest it was Mr. Clark's duty to take one side or the other, if, in his judgment, there is any material difference between the two kinds of Democracy. If he insists that there is no difference, he has no right to complain of criticism at the hands of those who believe that there is a vital difference.

"But the activity of Mr. Clark's managers is as objectionable as his own inactivity. They have been in constant co-operation with the reactionaries. If Mr. Clark did not authorize them to act, he has, so far as I know, failed to rebuke them for acting. I take it for granted that he does not object to the action of his managers in soliciting, or, at least, in accepting without protest, the support of the ninety wax figures which Mr. Murphy under the unit rule uses to carry out the will of the predatory interests.

"The public is not much interested in Mr. Clark's opinion of me; he will have ample time in which to express his opinion after the convention, whether he is nominated or not; but, if I am any judge of the news value of items, the people would like to know immediately whether he believes that the New York delegation, which is completely under the domination of Mr. Murphy, and which contains among its numbers, representatives, attorneys, or agents of nearly every predatory interest that is oppressing the people—whether he considers this delegation, thus controlled by one man who is controlled by the interests, stands in the same position as delegates which represent the masses, and whether he has any objection to a nomination made possible only by the support of the New York delegation.

"I have tried to advise Mr. Clark in his own interest, as I believe, as well as in the interest of the party, and it is a source of great disappointment to me that he should have listened to personal enemies of mine more than he has to me. In using the word 'disappointment,' I do not use it in a personal sense, for I have not come here to impose my advice upon him; but I feel that it is not presumptuous for me to assume that I am better acquainted with the sentiment of the people than those who have had his ear, and I am sure that I speak for a larger number. I am sure, too, that I am as disinterested as those upon whose counsel he relies, for I have no interest in the subject except my interest in the principles and policies which can be advanced through the election of a Democratic President.

"I believe that Mr. Clark is right at heart, but during the last few days he has been misled and has failed to take advantage of the opportunities presented to throw his influence entirely into the balance when questions of great importance were at issue."

SPEAKER CLARK'S REPLY.

Speaker Clark in a letter to Senator Stone, dated at Washington to-day, makes this reply to Bryan:

"Replying to the communication of my supporters, forwarded to me by you, I beg to say that, in ordinary circumstances, I would be the last to encourage any movement which might tend to create a deadlock in a Democratic National Convention, and thereby perhaps imperil the standing of our party in the estimation of the country. I believe that I am speaking the exact truth when I say that no personal interest would weigh with me for one minute against my lifelong devotion to my party. As a majority of the delegates have declared their preference for me as their candidate, I could not entertain your proposal. The fact that they have done so on eight consecutive ballots creates an exceptional condition, which surely merits careful and conscientious consideration.

"It is undoubtedly true that the custom of our party was violated when the convention refrained from ratifying by a two-thirds vote the expressed wish of a majority. This was done, according to my understanding, at the instigation of Mr. Bryan, who successfully solicited the co-operation of others in an effort to prevent such ratification. Mr. Bryan set forth his reasons for pursuing this course in his speech explaining his own change of vote.

"He declared that I was a candidate at the primaries of Nebraska as a Progressive and that upon this understanding he was elected a delegate and instructed to vote for me in the National Convention. This is correct. I was regarded then, and had been regarded for years, as a Progressive by the Democrats of Nebraska and by Mr. Bryan.

"What has since transpired to convince Mr. Bryan that, though in his judgment a Progressive only two months ago, and even only a week ago, I am not a Progressive now? Have I suddenly proved faithless to the principles which I have held steadfastly for twenty years?

"No. Have I been recreant to my trust as Speaker of the House of Representatives? No. Mr. Bryan cites no act of mine as evidence of his assumption. He withholds his vote from me because he 'will not participate in the nomination of any man whose nomination depends upon the vote of the New York delegation.'"

Mr. Clark then quotes at length from the statement which Mr. Bryan read in the convention, and continues:

"Although Mr. Bryan's words are shrewdly chosen to avoid making a direct charge upon me the implication is plain. It is that, if elected President of the United States, I would consider myself 'obligated' to those whom he mentions, and that I would be under the 'control of those influences.' It would be unbecoming in one holding my present official position to express the indignation which I feel at these veiled aspersions upon my character.

"My integrity has never before been questioned, for the simple reason that never once during the seventeen years I have served in Congress have I been subjected to the test of temptation through wrongful influence in any form. But whether I shall become your designated candidate for President or not, I am your Speaker at a time when your party is in the crucible of scrutiny, and I cannot, in duty, permit these aspersions to pass unheeded. As Speaker of the House of Representatives as a lifelong Democrat proud of my party, as an American man, I pronounce Mr. Bryan's implied accusations both false and infamous.

"If I am speaking the truth with respect to this matter, it follows necessarily that the reasons advanced by Mr. Bryan for departing from the time-honored custom of our party in recognizing the voice of the majority are not reasons at all, but the shallowest of pretexts put forward to achieve some purpose which I shall not attempt to divine.

"I bid you, then, say to my friends that I accept with deepest gratitude their renewed assurances of loyalty, and now declare without qualification that my name will remain before the convention, subject to no trade or dicker, until two-thirds of the delegates shall ratify or refuse to ratify the action of the majority."

Bryan that his candidacy is bac[illegible] Wall Street interests as "both [illegible] infamous," Champ Clark made public to-night a long letter to William J. Stone, Chairman of the Missouri delegation, in which he says that his name will remain before the convention "subject to no trade or dicker" until the end. There is to be no compromise so far as he is concerned, the Speaker says emphatically.

Mr. Stone wrote to Mr. Clark to the effect that it was the opinion of a number of his supporters that the two-thirds rule should not have applied in the convention as affecting the Presidential nomination, as it was designed originally to apply only to the nomination of a candidate for Vice President, and that, having received a majority of the votes of the delegates on eight successive ballots, he should have been declared the nominee of the convention.

Mr. Stone then assured Mr. Clark that if he would not permit his name to be withdrawn under any circumstances his supporters would pledge themselves to vote for him on every ballot that shall hereafter be taken in the convention.

In his reply Mr. Clark says he has never spoken with Mr. Ryan or Mr. Morgan, and only once with Mr. Belmont, and that he has never directly or indirectly solicited their support. He also accuses Bryan of accepting aid in his own campaigns from the very men he now attacks. He also says he knows of no reason why he should insult the ninety delegates from New York by refusing to accept their votes.

Bryan's Qualification.

William J. Bryan, whose dictum yesterday against the acceptance by any candidate of the support of New York in the convention complicated still further the already mixed situation, made it plain in a statement issued by him just before midnight that he didn't consider it fatal to a candidate to receive New York's vote provided he would be nominated without it.

Gov. Wilson's supporters had begun to wonder whether Charles F. Murphy could kill the New Jersey Governor's chances by merely throwing the New York votes to him and thus alienating Bryan's support. Under to-night's interpretation, Gov. Wilson would continue to have Mr. Bryan's support provided New York's vote was not the deciding factor in the nomination.

Col. Bryan said he could see no reason why the convention shouldn't finish its work to-morrow by the Progressives agreeing on a candidate. A number of candidates were available, he said. Either Clark or Wilson would be acceptable if he announced that he would rely entirely on the Progressive vote in the convention, and not take the nomination if it came at the hands of the New York delegation.

Both, he said, had made records that would commend them, but these would not be sufficient if they were willing to take the bribe of office from the hands of special privilege. He said he took it that there was now no possibility of the nomination of Harmon or Underwood, whom he described as reactionary candidates, with the qualification in the case of Underwood that his support outside of the Southern States was reactionary.

Col. Bryan said he had no preference among Progressives, and that there were others in the convention who had not been put in nomination who were suitable candidates. He mentoned Senator Kern of Indiana, Ollie James of Kentucky, Senator O'Gorman of New York, Senator Culbertson of Texas, and Senator Rayner of Maryland as acceptable, and said there were others who might be named.

Col. Bryan also emphasized the importance of the Vice Presidency, and declared that no risk should be taken of a change in policies through the death of the President. This clearly indicates that he will insist on a Progressive ticket clear through, and will not accept a reactionary tail with a Progressive head in the interest of harmony.

In answer to a question Mr. Bryan said he had not attended a conference during the day with Norman E. Mack, Charles F. Murphy, and others.

"Would you have gone if you had been invited?" he was asked.

"[illegible] was there," he replied.

[illegible] about a story that he [illegible] with agents of Roose[illegible] declared that [illegible]

"Has there [illegible] change in the line-up [illegible]" was asked.

"I haven't heard of any. I [illegible] many people to-day," he said.

Statements by Mr. Bryan and Speaker Clark on their controversy are printed in full in another column.

Murphy Not Interested.

Returning from a conference with several of the leaders, Mr. Murphy was told of Mr. Bryan's statement. He did not show any curiosity to learn in detail what the Nebraskan had said about a compromise.

"I will read it in the newspapers tomorrow," said the Tammany chieftain, curtly.

"Will New York continue to support Speaker Clark in the convention to-morrow?" Mr. Murphy was asked.

"I see no reason why we shouldn't."

"Will the deadlock continue, or do you expect to see a nomination made at the session to-morrow?"

"We can tell that better after the votes have been counted."

Mr. Murphy then entered the elevator and was shot up to his suite on the tenth floor.

The proposal of Mr. Bryan for compromise candidates was not looked upon by a majority of the leaders as having been made in good faith or as a very feasible one at this stage of the game. One prominent New York Democrat declared that in his opinion the nomination would go to Gov. Wilson. He said:

"Two-thirds of the delegates want him and whenever the unit rule is modified a sufficient number of votes will be changed to secure his nomination. In my opinion the delegates will run this convention after the leaders have been conferring and intriguing behind closed doors a little longer without reaching any result."

Murphy's Conferences.

Charles F. Murphy held conferences to-day and to-night with leaders from other States and representatives of the various candidates, but no agreement was reached that would indicate a lifting of the deadlock.

Those who talked with Mr. Murphy and Norman E. Mack at Mr. Mack's headquarters at the Belvedere were Senator Stone and ex-Gov. Francis of Missouri, representing Mr. Clark; Senator Bankhead of Alabama, representing Mr. Underwood; Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, representing Mr. Wilson; E. H. Moore of Ohio, representing Mr. Harmon; Thomas Taggart of Indiana, representing Mr. Marshall; Roger Sullivan of Illinois, and Senator Luke Lea of Tennessee.

The whole situation was carefully gone over, and proposals were advanced by all parties. There was much talk of compromise candidates, otherwise known as dark horses, but nothing was done. Pressure was brought on Mr. Murphy by Congressman Palmer to have the Tammany chief desert Clark and come out in favor of Wilson, but Col. Bryan always proved the stumbling block. Murphy would not agree to any scheme that meant a submission to Bryan. The Clark managers said they would not desert the Missourian, and the Underwood people said they would stick to the Alabama man to the very last ditch. Taggart said the Indiana delegation would continue to vote for Marshall.

"After a conference lasting several hours, in which the representatives of all the candidates took part and during which many propositions concerning a possible compromise were put forward, no agreement was reached whereby the deadlock might be ended," said National Chairman Mack. "The situation remains just where it was when the conference began. No one would give way and no result was reached. From the present outlook, the deadlock will continue. We may be able to get together on some plan to-morrow, but I can't imagine what it is going to be."

New York Leader Perturbed.

Murphy and Roger Sullivan would not say a word. Murphy was plainly perturbed. He did not relish the news that the Wilson element in the New York delegation had planned to make a demonstration in favor of the New Jersey Governor.

Mr. Taggart said the situation looked hopeless.

"We have talked the matter over for hours," said the Indiana boss, "and we reached nowhere. All I know is this, that the Indiana delegation is going to keep right on voting for Governor Marshall. We are not going to budge an inch."

That, in substance, was the attitude of every man who took part in the conference.

Senator Stone was not at all in a pleasant humor when he came out of the conference. He hailed a passing taxi and made a flying leap for the first train to Washington, there to meet and report to Champ Clark.

"A great deal happened," he said. "It would make good reading if I could tell you. In fact, I talked to them straight from the shoulder, and I guess they'll remember a few things I said."

One of the proposals advanced at the conference was that Underwood be named on the ticket with Wilson, but the Underwood representatives could not see it for a moment. In fact, the Underwood delegates, it was said later, would remain steadfast to their candidate to the very last. There is less chance of their switching, it is said, than any one else.

CLARK MEN STAND FIRM.

Declare Bryan's Charge of an Alliance with Murphy Is False.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, June 30.—In spite of talk that an effort would be made by all the forces arraigned against Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey to agree upon a candidate who should have the support of the Clark contingent, the Murphy-Sullivan-Taggart combination and the Underwood and Harmon people, there was no evidence to-day that Speaker Clark's backers had any other idea than to stick to him through thick and thin. This is believed to have been the result of Speaker Clark's visit here last night, and the issue of his defiance to Col. Bryan early this morning.

Speaker Clark's statement was to have been made from the platform of the convention if consent could be obtained, but the Wilson men got wind of this plan and rather than take any chances of a stampede being started by Clark's appearance before the convention, they proposed an adjournment, and as Wilson was steadily gaining at the time and Clark losing, the Speaker's friends readily consented.

Mr. Clark arrived here after the convention had adjourned, and said his say in a formal statement. He went back to Washington early this morning, after a long conference with his managers. It is said that he may return to-morrow and appear before the convention.

Clark Men Change Tactics.

Circumstances have caused a reversal in the tactics of the Clark men. Their early expectations of victory were based on the support they were to get from the Murphy-Sullivan-Taggart combination without losing the Bryan element in their ranks. Therefore, they spoke well of everybody and advocated harmony in loud tones. To-day they were trying to shake off the effect of an alliance with Tammany and were denouncing Bryan. Fighting both of the elements, they had hoped to combine in favor of their candidate, they set grimly to work to bind the Clark delegates with hooks of steel in order to prevent the convention from nominating anybody else.

The reflection on the New York delegation was contained in the same statement in which Bryan was most bitterly denounced, which was issued by ex-Senator Fred T. Du Bois, as National manager of Champ Clark's campaign. Senator Du Bois said that Mr. Clark's management was "free from the taint of any combination with the New York delegation." Clark thus repudiates both Bryan and Murphy, as Bryan has repudiated Murphy and Clark. What Murphy may do in the repudiating line remains to be seen, but none of these exchanges of pleasantries is expected to aid in the nomination of Clark. Here is the statement made by Senator Du Bois:

Bryan's Charge False, Says Du Bois.

"Mr. Bryan's remarkable statement in regard to the New York vote demands an answer. His statement that Clark's managers sought to advance his interests by manipulations with the reactionaries is simply untrue. The statement was designedly made to mislead. Mr. Bryan knows that Illinois, Massachusetts, and Maryland, for instance, while instructed for Clark, could not have been controlled against Parker. He knows that California, Nevada, and Wyoming, for instance, while instructed for Clark, could not have been controlled against Bryan for Temporary Chairman. Clark's managers could not control their delegates either for Bryan or for Parker. In consequence, they did not try to do so. It is malicious in Mr. Bryan to undertake to blame Clark because he could not or did not control his followers to vote for Bryan for Temporary Chairman.

"Bryan is deliberately misleading when he says that while Mr. Clark remained neutral in the fight between Judge Parker and himself that his managers were working like beavers for Judge Parker, Mr. Clark's managers were absolutely neutral as between Judge Parker and himself. Mr. Bryan knows as well as I do that Clark's managers were powerless to influence Clark's delegates one way or the other as between him and Judge Parker. Mr. Bryan is engagingly deceptive, and beautifully false, and misleading in his most charming style when he blames Clark for not accepting Senator James for Temporary Chairman after Mr. Parker had been selected by the committee. That statement is equal to the choicest piece of hypocrisy, in which Mr. Bryan loves to indulge. Mr. Bryan's statement, in his speech and in his article about Temporary Chairman, is absolutely untrue.

Declares Bryan Opposed James.

"The truth is that the Clark forces asked Mr. Bryan to support Ollie James for Temporary Chairman two weeks before the convention met, and Mr. Bryan refused. If Mr. Bryan has the temerity to deny this his telegram assigning his hypocritical and sophistical reasons will be published.

"I make the broad statement that Mr. Clark's managers had no understanding of any kind or description with the New York delegation; that no promise of any kind or description was asked for by the New York delegation or anybody representing them. Mr. Clark's management is as free from the taint of any combination or understanding with the New York delegation or anybody representing the New York interests as the saintly and immaculate Mr. Bryan himself.

"As the manager for Mr. Clark I have the right to demand of Mr. Bryan that he either cease uttering these falsehoods or bring forward some sort of proof.

"He should be able to stab his friend Clark to death without resorting to this kind of political trickery, which reflects on the character of men who have been his friends for years."

Two More Official Denials.

This statement was reinforced by the following statements by the Clark Executive Committee:

"The declaration of William J. Bryan that Speaker Clark's managers endeavored to line up the Clark forces against him for Temporary Chairman and for Judge Parker is without the slightest foundation. It is absolutely untrue. The delegates favoring Clark's nomination divided between Bryan and Parker. There was no effort to control them in the interests of Judge Parker nor in the interest of Mr. Bryan. There was no 'deal' of any kind, and none attempted. The delegates supporting Speaker Clark could not have been controlled by any influence for Judge Parker or for Mr. Bryan."

A similar statement was given out by the Clark Advisory Committee. It said:

"We desire to state that the statement of Mr. Bryan that the management of Speaker Clark's campaign 'worked like beavers for the nomination of Judge Parker for Temporray Chairman' is absolutely untrue. Clark's supporters were divided between Parker and Bryan. It could not have been controlled either for Parker or Bryan, and no effort was made to do so. There was no attempt at manipulation in favor of or antagonistic to the interests of Mr. Bryan. There was no 'deal' and no attempted combination of any sort."

Oklahoman Repudiates Bryan.

E. J. Giddings of the Oklahoma delegation, who switched from Wilson to Clark after Mr. Bryan's statement, explained his position fully to-day.

"I have always been with Mr. Bryan because he has always been right in principle; but I reserve the right to do my own thinking, particularly when aspersions are cast upon as good Democrats as Champ Clark, who has always been true as steel," said Mr. Giddings. "I came here a Wilson man; at heart I am still for him. I felt yesterday, and still feel, that a vote for Mr. Wilson, after the reflection cast upon Mr. Clark by Mr. Bryan, would be an impeachment of the integrity of Mr. Clark. I felt then, and still feel, that if Mr. Clark fails of the nomination here and gets it for Congress, as his people will insist, and this impeachment stands, that his Republican adversaries will seek to pierce him through and through and cripple his chances of election and usefulness as a public servant as Speaker of the House, to which the election of a President may go if we keep up our foolishness.

"The position of Mr. Bryan does not need much analysis, and does not altogether harmonize with all his past conduct and utterances. Bryan's attitude, briefly summarized, as indicated in his speech yesterday, is that as long as New York votes for Mr. Clark he will refuse to vote for him and prevent his nomination; and if New York quits Mr. Clark he will turn from Dr. Wilson back to Clark and prevent Wilson's nomination. Was a condition ever more contradictory, humiliating or absurd?

"We came here harmonious. We are now, to some extent, at each other's throats. One man has caused it all. Mr. Bryan is fond of quoting Scripture, but he has yet to say: 'Blessed are the peacemakers.' The delegates have tried to placate, pacify, get together. When this sinks in, the country will take another think and place the responsibility where it belongs.

When Bryan Was for Tammany.

"Mr. Bryan was three times a candidate in Democratic conventions. Did he refuse the vote of New York then? Where is the change? When a Presidential nominee he stood in the City of New York and eloquently and gratefully said: 'Great is Tammany. Croker is its prophet.' Where's the difference?

"None of us desire to have the Democracy controlled by special privileges and predatory wealth. Neither Mr. Ryan nor Mr. Belmont can buy or influence a single vote in the convention. It is impossible to let these things go unchallenged, even for harmony. If we lose this year, the fault will be one man's. Rather than stand it any longer, I would prefer to lose, which is almost impossible, the Presidency, and get together afterward."

Judge Martin J. Wade, National Committeeman from Iowa, when asked if the leading candidates would withdraw and there would be a new line-up, said:

"Bryan has made it impossible for Clark to withdraw. His friends and the delegates instructed for him will stand by him all Summer, now that his honor and integrity have been assailed."

A few days ago the Clark men were talking about getting a two-thirds vote early in the balloting, and undertaking to prove that Wilson, with Bryan's help, could not hold one-third of the votes and prevent Clark's nomination. To-day they were striving to hold their own men in line in order to keep Wilson from getting two-thirds. A caucus was held this afternoon and Clark delegates from all over got up and swore eternal loyalty to the Missourian. After each speech there was applause which could be heard in the corridors below.

The Clark men are so anxious to show that they should not be condemned merely because they have obtained the support of Tammany Hall that they were talking to-day of producing in the convention photographs showing Bryan with his arm around Charles F. Murphy's neck and with Bryan wearing his usual smile. These photographs are said to be in the possession of William R. Hearst.

When the Bryan men heard of this they laughed and said that the photographs had been published during the campaign of 1908. The pictures were taken at Lincoln, Neb., when Murphy stopped off to see Bryan after the Democratic Convention at Denver.

Rejoicing in Wilson's Camp.

In the Wilson camp everybody was beaming. Delegates who had not visited his headquarters before came around to-day, and it was predicted that the band wagon rush was pretty much in sight. The predictions of the Wilson boomers are the only ones that have made good so far. The Governor's managers said at the outset that Wilson would start with about 330 votes and would gain steadily as the balloting went on. This was what happened yesterday afternoon and at the night sessions. On almost every ballot Wilson gained a few. When his managers said to-day that the same thing would happen to-morrow, it found general credence.

Some of the Wilson delegates expressed regret to-day that the convention had not been kept in session while Wilson was gaining in this slow, steady style, and thought it might have resulted in his nomination. They argued that this process was wearing out the Clark men and that adjournment gave them a chance to get themselves together, have a rest, and cinch up their remaining delegates. This, of course, is just what they have been doing to-day. But W. F. McCoombs and the other Wilson managers assured everybody that the recess would make no difference and that the steady gains that marked the other ballots would begin again when the convention resumed to-morrow, and would go on just as if there had been no intermission. From the confident air of the Wilson managers, it appeared that they knew just where their gains were to come from, but they smilingly kept silent about that.

The Wilson men are not disturbed about the fight that some people here think threatens a disruption of the Democratic Party. The fight, they say, is between Clark and Bryan, and Wilson is not involved in it. They evidently expect that its only effect will be to make Clark's nomination impossible and Wilson's inevitable.

Among the most pleased men at Wilson headquarters to-day were William G. McAdoo and Dudley Field Malone of New York, Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, and Senator Gore of Oklahoma. Senator Gore received a telegram to-day from J. O. McCollister of Mangum, Okla., saying that the Clark men there were all for Wilson now, and that Wilson must be nominated in order to win. Another message signed by half a dozen citizens of Ardmore, Okla., reported that a meeting of Clark supporters had been held and the Oklahoma member of the Credentials Committee condemned for voting to unseat the Wilson delegates from South Dakota in favor of the Clark contestants.

"Clark men," said this telegram, "favor the square deal and condemn Chicago steam roller tactics."

An understanding was reached to-night among the West Virginia delegates to disregard the unit rule to-morrow and let each delegate vote as he pleased. There are several Wilson men in the West Virginia delegation.

Underwood leaders met delegates from the stronger Underwood delegations tonight in a conference that lasted for several hours. Senator Bankhead, manager for Mr. Underwood, declared after the conference that there would be no defections from the Underwood strength. The delegations were carefully polled to-day, and it was asserted that all could be counted on to remain loyal.

"Mr. Underwood is the logical choice for President," said Senator Bankhead, "and we propose to stand firm. Our opponents have got to come to us."

CLARK SAYS HE WILL REGAIN LOST VOTES

Declares He Strengthened His Lines by Going to Baltimore and That He Will Win.

HAD BEEN WARNED OF BRYAN

But Believed Until the Last That He Would Play Fair — Underwood Again Declines Second Place.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Speaker Champ Clark asserted to-night that he had no intention of returning to Baltimore to-morrow. His lines there have been strengthened, he says, and he feels confident that when the balloting is resumed his vote will begin to climb back toward the majority he had on seven ballots yesterday, and that ultimately it will reach the two-thirds required to nominate. Senator Stone of Missouri, his floor manager in the convention, came over to the Capitol on the 11:30 P. M. train and was in conference with Mr. Clark at midnight.

When Senator Stone came out of the conference he took the first train back to Baltimore, saying, before he left:

"Champ Clark will be nominated. It may come to-day, and it may not come for a week, but it is certain. We have the men to hold the convention until it ccurs. Mr. Bryan's attack was unwarnted, but has gained us votes. The ympathy of the Democratic masses roughout the country is with Champ lark, and its effect will be felt upon the delegates."

Representative Oscar W. Underwood also continues to express confidence in the possibility of his nomination for the Presidency, and while overtures constantly are being made to him, some of them by friends of Speaker Clark, who think Mr. Underwood should throw his support to the Missourian, the Alabaman sits tight and remains in the race.

Upon his return from Baltimore to-day Speaker Clark said that his main object in going there was to have a heart-to-heart talk at close range with his campiagn managers. He had been consulting them by telephone, but his inability to enjoy a conversation over a telephone was more responsible than anything else for his sudden decision to go to Baltimore. Some of the Speaker's friends thought he would injure his cause by going to the convention city, but they assert to-night that he has helped what seemed to be a waning candidacy by his flying trip. They are confident his following will be able to block the nomination of Bryan or Wilson.

Chairman James Visits Clark.

Senator-Elect Ollie James of Kentucky, Permanent Chairman of the convention, came to Washington this morning and spent several hours with the Speaker. Mr. James has been one of the stanchest supporters of the Missourian, and he also always has been a close personal friend of Bryan. He has been in a trying position at Baltimore because of these facts, but the tactics of Bryan have not weakened the loyalty of the big Kentuckian in the cause of Champ Clark.

Mr. James said that in view of his official position in the convention he could not consent to be quoted on the situation, but he thought that Speaker Clark would again receive the votes which he had dropped on the later ballots yesterday and have a majority of the convention. In that case, he asserted, the necessary two-thirds would be forthcoming. In any event, Mr. James believes that of those being voted for at Baltimore Speaker Clark is the only candidate who can get the nomination. Should the Speaker fail, Mr. James thinks, the indications would favor a dark horse.

Mr. James ridiculed the idea that he imself might be that dark horse, saying e is for Speaker Clark, first, last, and ll the time, and that he does not believe a situation could arise which would ause him to become a candidate in any ense. Mr. James last night took part n the Baltimore conference between peaker Clark and William Randolph earst.

Thought Bryan Would Play Fair.

After his return to Washington the peaker hurried to his home, to snatch few hours' sleep, and then went to his ffices at the Capitol. He returned to ashington at 9 o'clock, and was at the apitol five hours later, remaining there hroughout the afternoon and at night.

"How do you feel?" asked Representative Buchanan of Illinois, one of his allers.

"Oh, I feel all right," said the Speak-r, "except that I would like to have a ttle sleep."

The Speaker was in constant comnunication with his managers and others y long-distance telephone to Baltimore, nd he was kept constantly informed of he canvass of the delegations. Details ere not disclosed, but he and his friends nsisted that the Clark lines had been ightened, his instructed delegates rallied, nd that things would take a different urn to-morrow.

The Speaker is very indignant over the harges leveled at him by Bryan, couping his name with Tammany taint, and hese accusations have absorbed him nore than any other phase of the situaion. He expressed surprise that deleates had left him because of the Bryan ttack, telling his friends here to-day e thought most men had a better coneption of his integrity.

The Speaker felt that he could count pon the friendship of Bryan, and while thers were trying to persuade him that ryan would not play fair, the Speaker ad insisted that he would get a square eal. He had been informed that Bryan, ot later than Friday morning, had given ssurances that he would openly support he candidate first obtaining a majority f the convention. So when Bryan bolted is instructions, and in doing so openly old the convention what he thought of New York's ninety votes and their being ast for Clark, the Speaker's indignation new no bounds.

Interests" Did Not Put Up for Him.

Friends of the Speaker to-day, followg his own repudiation of any alliance ith "the interests," asserted that the peaker from the very start of his preonvention campaign has insisted that his ampaign managers should not accept a ent from anybody representing or idenfied with any special interest. It is nown that one contribution of several housand dollars was turned down beause the man who offered it was unnown to the Speaker. Because of lack f funds the Clark managers were three mes on the verge of closing down their ashington headquarters during the preonvention campaign. One of the Speak-'s friends asserted to-night that at one age of the game Mr. Clark went down to his own pockets for $1,500 to keep e headquarters going.

In this connection Frank P. Milburn, a ell-known Washington architect, tont issued a statement expressing surise that Bryan should have publicly arged that Speaker Clark was being cked by special interests.

"Within the past thirty days," said the lburn statement, "those managing the ark headquarters in this city made the tement to me that they were absolutely [illegible], and lacked 90 cents of having [illegible] to pay the stenographers and [illegible] bills for that week. I then con[illegible] $100 and went across the street [illegible] of my friends and received from [illegible] other contribution of $100, which [illegible] hem to continue paying expenses [illegible] adquarters. It seems to me if [illegible] ved interests were back of Clark [illegible] tion would not have existed. I [illegible] only right and fair this statement [illegible] be made."

[illegible] es who came from Baltimore to-[illegible] rt that there is extreme bitterness [illegible] ted among the Clark delegates [illegible] d the managers of the Underwood mpaign. Some of the Speaker's friends Congress also blamed Underwood toay for not throwing his forces to Clark. The Clark forces say they had every reason to expect that when they got a majority of the convention the Underwood vote would come their way, thus placing them within sight of the goal. Some Clark members of Congress went so far to-day as to assert that Underwood could now expect gains from the Clark vote in the event of the Speaker being forced out of the race.

On the Underwood side of the fence it is claimed that the Underwood vote, if delivered in bulk to Speaker Clark last night, would not have nominated him, and would have weakened the Underwood position. Friends of Underwood say he went into the fight in the expectancy that just such a condition as now exists—a Wilson-Clark deadlock—would confront the convention, and furnish the only chance for the nomination the Alabama candidate ever thought he would have.

Again Declines Second Place.

"My friends tell me that this is the time for me to stay in the race," said Mr. Underwood to-night. "I am relying on their judgment. I can see no change in the situation at this time, and I do not expect any before to-morrow. I contemplate no action which will change the situation before the convention meets."

Senator-elect Robert Broussard of Louisiana, a delegate at large from his State and a member of the Resolutions Committee, brought an Underwood boom for the Vice Presidency to Washington. Mr. Broussard is voting for Gov. Wilson.

"Underwood occupies an advantageous position at this time," said Mr. Broussard, "and I do not blame him for being reluctant to abandon it. At the same time, I believe that a strong ticket could be presented and the convention speedily adjourned if Mr. Underwood would accept the Vice Presidential nomination."

MISSOURI DEMOCRATS PROTEST.

Call Bryan a Bolter for Deserting Clark—Fear Party Defeat.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 30.—Failure of the National Democratic Convention to recognize the majority given to Speaker Champ Clark on eight ballots and to accord him the nomination for the Presidency by making the majority a two-thirds vote is meeting with vigorous protest from Missouri Democrats, who declare that refusal to make him the standard bearer of 1912 will result in disruption of the party and the shattering of all chances for victory in November. Missouri Democrats are appealing to the Missouri delegation and all friends of the Speaker to respect their instructions and stand by him as long as they can hold one-third of the delegates.

Bryan is denounced as a bolter and insurgent who has out-Roosevelted Roosevelt. He is declared to have forfeited his right to bear the name of a Democrat and is called on to cease the trouble making. They charge he is inspired solely by a desire to make himself the dictator of the party and force his own nomination.

The sentiment for Clark is as pronounced and the protest at the failure to nominate him as vigorous throughout the State as in St. Louis. Eight hundred citizens of Saline County sent a telegram to Bryan, in which he was read out of the party. Leading Democrats of Mexico and Audrain County yesterday signed a telegram to the National Democratic Convention criticising the delegates for their failure to abolish the two-thirds rule, and to accept Champ Clark's majority as entitling him to be named as the nominee. It asked that the question of a party choice be referred back to the voters if the convention insisted on disregarding Clark's majority.

BRYAN A BOSS, SAYS HEARST.

Just as Arrogant as Any Other—Accuses Him of Ingratitude.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Monday, July 1.—At 1 o'clock this morning William R. Hearst issued a signed statement in which he joined the general chorus of denunciation of W. J. Bryan by charging him with ingratitude and accusing him of being a boss as insolent and arrogant as any boss could be.

In his statement Mr. Hearst says of Mr. Bryan:

"He has destroyed the opportunities of the Democracy for success and achievement. He has sacrificed his friends and his principles in order to justify a mean jealousy and reap a petty revenge.

"If he is to be the leader of the Democracy there will soon be no Democracy left to follow.

"Mr. Bryan declares his opposition to bosses, yet Mr. Bryan's opposition has always been strictly limited to the bosses who oppose him. Whenever a boss supports Mr. Bryan he becomes by that act so purified and sanctified as to be worthy of Mr. Bryan's approval and association.

"In 1900 Tammany supported Mr. Bryan and Mr. Bryan accepted that support and gratefully acknowledged it. All the newspapers printed Mr. Bryan's remarks praising Tammany Hall, in which he said, 'Great is Tammany, and Croker is its prophet.'

"In 1904 Mr. Bryan was not a candidate, therefore he denounced Mr. Roger Sullivan upon the floor of the St. Louis convention as a 'train robber.' In 1908 Mr. Bryan was a candidate and he went through that campaign arm in arm with Mr. Sullivan and hand in hand with Mr. Murphy. If Mr. Sullivan was a train robber, as Mr. Bryan said, then Mr. Bryan was no less than an accessory after the fact and a willing receiver of stolen goods.

"I came here to support the Democratic candidate even though it were William Jennings Bryan, although I and every other friend of Mr. Bryan have come to know that he is never grateful for a service nor loyal to a friend.

"The convention of the Republican Party in Chicago became odious in the eyes of the people of this country. But Democrats returning to their States will find that this Democratic Convention has become more odious in the eyes of the people."

WATTERSON ASSAILS BRYAN.

Says His Course Is Unforgivable and His Role That of a Dictator.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 30.—Regarding the Baltimore situation, Mr. Watterson will say in The Courier Journal to-morrow:

"The course pursued by Mr. Bryan at Baltimore is unforgivable. It is not alone that he seeks to play the rôle played by Mr. Roosevelt as a dictator, but that, in raising a false issue against his party and his friend, he has sacrificed private duty and public faith, putting in peril what seemed a sure triumph for Democracy. He hoists the standard of hatred and revenge over what should be a marching army of brothers. He plays directly into the hand of the enemy, and invites defeat.

"If the convention accepts such a leadership it will abdicate the principles and rights of true Democracy and surrender all which Democrats hold glorious and great to the selfish rule of the one-man power eager to exploit itself at the cost of the party interest.

"The response of Champ Clark is all sufficient. Replete with manly dignity and feeling, it appeals to the heart of every Democrat in the land and should be followed by his nomination to-day."

STOLE OLLIE JAMES'S BADGE.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Senator-Elect Ollie James of Kentucky, Permanent Chairman of the Democratic National Convention, was in Washington to-day wearing one of the common variety of delegate badges to the Baltimore Convention.

"Where is the badge the committee provided for you?" asked a friend, having in mind the beautiful gold emblem which custom gives to Democrats who preside over the National gatherings of their party.

"Somebody stole it," said Mr. James.

DELEGATES GET HERE ON THE WAY HOME

Weary Missourians Not Too Tired, However, to Predict That Clark Will Win.

SPLIT ON OPINION OF BRYAN

Returning Alternate from Alabama Declares the Nebraska Leader Has Weakened the Wilson Cause.

"If Speaker Clark gets the privilege of the floor in the convention to-morrow he will stampede the convention for himself," declared Lee U. Barton at the Hotel Breslin yesterday. He is Sergeant at Arms of the Missouri delegation and a newspaper publisher and editor.

Mr. Barton is one of a number of Missourians who became tired of the prolonged deadlock in Baltimore and decided to quit the convention city. He hails from Clayton, Mo., just outside of St. Louis, and, while not a delegate himself, is familiar with the conditions which prevail in the Missouri delegation.

Registered at the Hotel Breslin with him are a number of Missourians, including an accredited delegate from that State, Alderman William J. Gallagher, known to fame in St. Louis as "Jigger" Gallagher, the man who, with "Boots" Brennan, held up the Free Bridge ordinance a few years ago against the German-Republican Aldermen in that city.

"Mr. Bryan was wrong in only one thing," continued Mr. Barton, "and that was his attack upon Speaker Clark as being identified with the Wall Street interests. I have known Mr. Clark for a number of years. He is as sincere, but not as great, a Progressive as Mr. Bryan himself. At the same time, however, Mr. Bryan had some reason for his action. The people of Missouri have an underlying suspicion that the delegation as constituted and controlled is secretly in favor of Gov. Harmon of Ohio. If it becomes evident that Speaker Clark cannot be nominated the Missouri delegates must vote for Gov. Wilson for second choice or they had better not return to Missouri."

"Did Mr. Bryan weaken himself in Missouri by his attack upon Mr. Clark?" was the question next put to Mr. Barton.

Bryan Made Himself Stronger.

"On the contrary," was the emphatic reply. "Missouri Democrats are in favor of Mr. Clark, but they are not at all satisfied with the alliances which his alleged representatives in the convention have made. They do not accept Hearst as either a Progressive or a real Democrat. The Hearst alliance with Murphy to deliver Clark delegates to Judge Parker for Temporary Chairman has met with universal disapproval. The alliance of Hearst and Murphy has weakened and destroyed a great deal of the Clark strength.

"I still believe that Mr. Clark will be nominated, because I do not believe he is responsible for every act of his managers. Neither do the people of Missouri believe that he is responsible. They are not dissatisfied with Bryan, however, because they feel that he has led a wonderful fight against the forces of special privilege in Baltimore."

Another Missourian, who declined to be quoted, made the flat-footed statement that several attempts were made by Charles F. Murphy to approach United States Senator Stone for the purpose of promoting a "flop" on the part of the Missouri delegates to Gov. Harmon.

"It was only when all such efforts failed that Mr. Murphy finally consented to abide by the compact made with the Hearst-Harrison forces, and delivered the ninety New York delegates to Speaker Clark," said the speaker.

Mr. Gallagher was certain that Clark would be nominated to-day on the third ballot.

"The Underwood forces will deliver," he said, "and there will be an immediate weakening of the Wilson strength. Bryan has disgusted the entire convention. He was drowned with hisses every time he attempted to talk, and the delegates are anxious to reach a nomination without accepting the dictation of Bryan."

The St. Louis Alderman's view was in decided opposition to that of Mr. Barton, who described the speech of Bryan in denunciation of the Murphy-Ryan-Belmont forces as the greatest speech which the Nebraskan had ever made.

"I have heard Bryan talk more than a hundred times," declared Mr. Barton. "I heard him in Chicago in 1896, and his speech in Baltimore was infinitely greater in every respect. He was interrupted with hisses and cat-calls, but he stood there and pounded the table and stamped his feet with every period. His face was white and his lips compressed. His jaw stood out like a man who was gnashing his teeth at every interruption. He forced the attention of his audience, and he swept the convention against the efforts of all of the leaders and bosses."

Says Wilson Cause Is Injured.

Still different was the attitude of G. L. McCullagh, an alternate in the Alabama delegation, who comes from Birmingham. Mr. McCullagh was certain that Col. Bryan had weakened the Wilson cause. He asserted that the Underwood delegates were angry at the attacks which Col. Bryan had made upon the candidacy of their favorite during the campaign, and he felt confident that they would not support a Bryan candidate under any circumstances.

E. M. Peoples, regular delegate from Ohio, who is also registered at the Breslin, surrendered his seat to his alternate. He declined to criticise Bryan's attitude, but said that he believed Clark could yet be nominated. He appeared to feel that the Harmon delegates, if they yielded, would prefer to cast their votes with the forces in the convention which had supported their candidate.

Michoel Kinney, one of the regular delegates from St. Louis, arrived in this city yesterday morning and left a few hours later for home without making any statement on the situation. Fred A. Reid, an alternate delegate from St. Louis, who is registered at the Hotel Gotham, said last night that the nominee of the convention would be a Progressive, and that the choice lay between Clark and Wilson.

Ex-Lieut. Gov. William F. Sheehan, law partner of Alton B. Parker, who was a delegate from this State to the convention, arrived in New York yesterday morning and went immediately to his home at Roslyn, L. I. When efforts were made to reach him by telephone last night, Mrs. Sheehan told all inquirers that her husband had returned home at her request.

"He is tired out and is taking a rest," she asserted. "He has arranged with Mr. Murphy to have an alternate take his place. He has absolutely no comment to make upon the situation, and asked me to inform the newspaper reporters that he would not be interviewed."

Mr. Sheehan is the second delegate from this State to relinquish his vote to an alternate, the first having been Samuel Untermyer, who sailed for Europe Saturday.

BROOKLYNITES COME HOME.

Secretary Young of Kings County Committee Predicts Compromise.

Members of the Brooklyn delegation who returned from the Baltimore Convention on Saturday night had the first and coolest night's rest they had had since leaving here a week ago. The impression prevailed among them yesterday that the deadlock over the choice of a candidate would result soon in a compromise, but none of them ventured an opinion as to the probable nominee.

George N. Young, Secretary of the Kings County Democratic organization, said that with the possible exception of one or two of the sixteen delegates from Kings County all would remain in Baltimore until somebody was nominated. He regarded the selection of a compromise candidate as certain.

William F. Delaney, the leader of the Twentieth Assembly Democratic District, said the convention was a fair and open one.

"The decisions of the Chairman were evidences of fair play," he said. "Freedom of speech was permitted, and there was a desire on the part of everybody to give the people the best nominee. The stamp of that convention will be a credit to whomever is nominated, and it is bound to help him in the campaign.

"So far as the New York delegation is concerned, I want to say that Mr. Murphy has been absolutely fair to them. Every delegate had his say in the caucus before any action was taken. Even when many of those at the caucus wanted to leave matters to Mr. Murphy, he refused to act, but left everything to be decided by vote of the caucus."

John J. Barnicle, Secretary of the Twelfth Assembly District Democratic Club, was of the opinion that the attitude of Col. Bryan had caused a drop in popularity of the Nebraskan at Baltimore.

"The Colonel has the whole thing tied up in a knot," said Mr. Barnicle. "Unless they can break him loose I do not know what they will do. He started right in at the drop of the hat for fight. He demands so much that it is impossible to accede to him. He wants to dominate the whole situation and name the nominee. They have given everything to him so far.

"His remarks about the New York delegation were decidedly in bad taste. Why, the Virginians got after him when he had something to say about their delegates and would not stand for any reflection on their State."

Mr. Barnicle said there was much talk about Mayor Gaynor being a "dark horse." His boomers were quietly working in Baltimore, he declared. Many delegates were of the opinion that should the deadlock continue the Mayor's name would be sprung upon the convention and he would be nominated.

DEFENDS TWO-THIRDS RULE.

Senator Gore Shows It to be Fairer Than a Majority Vote.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, June 30.—Senator Gore of Oklahoma, replying to the contention of Speaker Clark that he should be nominated because he had received a majority of the votes, said to-night:

"There is no weight in the contention that Speaker Clark is entitled to the nomination merely because he received a majority in a convention where the two-thirds rule prevails. I presume that the sole object in adopting and maintaining the two-thirds rule was to prevent a bare majority from making the nomination. To establish the two-thirds rule in order to prevent a mere majority from nominating and then, in effect, to abrogate that rule in order to permit such a majority to nominate would be a self-evident absurdity.

"The two-thirds rule may be wise or otherwise, that is immaterial at this juncture. It is the rule, and the candidates should abide by the rule. The unit rule and the two-thirds rule are counterparts of each other in the Democratic system. The Republican has neither rule. Certainly no Democrat would think of abolishing either without abolishing both. Their relationship may be concretely illustrated by the present convention. Five hundred and forty-five votes constitute a bare majority and 726 votes a two-thirds majority. Under the unit rule it would be impossible for a candidate with only 290 delegates who really desired his nomination to secure a majority of the total vote. Every other delegate, or 800 in the convention, might be unalterably opposed to his selection. A candidate with only 396 delegates favorable to his nomination could secure a two-thirds majority of the entire convention. The other 600 votes might be uncompromisingly opposed to the choice of such candidate.

"The theory of the unit and the two-thirds rule is, that according to the law of averages whenever a candidate received two-thirds of the entire convention he will have a majority of all the delegates favorable to his selection. In other words, it is assumed that when 66 2-3 of the votes are delivered to a candidate under the unit rule, at least 50 per cent. of the votes will really favor his nomination.

"The operation of the unit rule may be further illustrated by the vote for Speaker Clark on the tenth ballot. He received 556 votes, 11 more than a majority. Kansas, under the unit rule, cast twenty votes for him on that ballot, twelve of which were given by delegates opposed to his nomination, which would reduce his vote below a majority. Iowa gave the Speaker 26 votes on that ballot, ten or eleven of whose delegates did not favor the Speaker's election. This would further reduce his majority. Many States could be enumerated in which delegates were delivered to the Speaker under the unit rule, who did not favor his nomination.

"It is therefore self-evident that a majority of all the delegates have not yet signified their preference for the Speaker and it would hardly be expected that the unit rule should be maintained to make up this majority and the two-thirds rule be abolished in order that a majority so obtained might effectuate the nomination."

Tammany's Shouters Depart.

All the Tammany "shouters" have left town, and there are now left only the delegates and alternates, who must remain until the convention comes to a close. They are very glum when they consider the prospect of a deadlock that may keep them in Baltimore over the Glorious Fourth.

"Tammany Hall will have a pretty slim Fourth of July celebration on Thursday," said one Tammany man to-day. "All the Tammany orators are here, and no plans have been made for the day which means much to the Tammany organization. From the present outlook we will be in Baltimore for another week."

Tom Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall, is busy to-night arranging a long-distance celebration of the Fourth. He has wired to all the local oratorical talent left at the Wigwam to get busy and help out the celebration, and do the best possible without the help of the big Chief and the other leaders who generally attend to that function.

"Tammany is short of orators, anyway," said Mr. Smith wearily, "and I don't know what we are going to do. Why, we haven't got a man who can answer Bryan, and the best we have are all here and probably will be here for days yet, so the home folks will have to celebrate the Fourth as best they can."

Tammany May Answer Bryan.

Mr. Murphy is facing all kinds of trouble among his delegates. There has been considerable criticism for the past few days over his refusal to allow any one to answer Bryan's first attack upon Morgan, Belmont, and Ryan. When Bryan was making his tirade Perry Belmont jumped from his seat in the New York delegation and insisted upon going to the platform and answering Bryan. Those beside him forced him into his seat, but Mr. Belmont was angry all the way through.

"He has attacked my family, and I won't stand for it," he shouted.

Since then there has been considerable talk about allowing either Martin Littleton or "Al" Smith, leader of the majority in the New York Assembly and a coming orator, to make a reply to Mr. Bryan and tell, among other things, how the Commoner was willing to accept financial favors from Tammany Hall during his numerous campaigns. Murphy put his foot down hard on these proposals, arguing that there was no one connected with Tammany who could get away with an apology for the organization. Belmont and others then suggested that John B. Stanchfield be selected to present a brief for Tammany before the convention, but Murphy was still obdurate.

Pressure is now being brought on Murphy to allow Senator O'Gorman to make an answer to Bryan. Some of the leading members of the Tammany organization believe that a great deal of good can be accomplished by having Senator O'Gorman make a dignified address to the convention, setting forth how Tammany has always favored Progressive movements and how it comes with an ill grace from Mr. Bryan to throw mud at men whose financial support he has been only too willing to accept when running for office.

Murphy is inclined to listen to this advice and Tammany may still have a defender before the convention. Murphy is still hesitating about the propriety of having Senator O'Gorman make the Tammany plea, because of the fact that the Senator is a Wilson man, but his advisers point out that this would carry all the more weight. The Senator, it is said, is willing and even anxious to tell the convention a few plain truths about Mr. Bryan. He has a stock of ammunition, it is said, which will make good reading.

Norman Gaynor, the Mayor's son, was apparently unconcerned yesterday as to the chances of his father in the Democratic National Convention. Before departing yesterday they were the guests of Mr. Cain's parents. Mr. Gaynor, who is 20 years old, said it would be time enough to talk politics when he reached his majority, and added that he was "not worrying" about the Presidential situation

REPORTS OF A DEAL ANNOY GOV. WILSON

Is Morally Certain, He Says, That His Managers Are Not Attempting to Make One.

NO TRADING IN HIS NAME

Militiamen and Reporters Sleep in Blankets on His Lawn—Governor Proud of His Delegates.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA GIRT, N. J., June 30.—Reports in a morning newspaper to the effect that his managers in Baltimore were seeking to make a deal with Murphy for the support of the New York delegation when balloting is resumed on Monday caused Gov. Wilson to speak out with some warmth this afternoon upon the subject of the ethical standards of his campaign for the Presidency.

"Of course," he said, "I do not know in detail what those who are supporting me are doing. They have not advised with me. And, except in matters involving a question of principle, there is no reason why they should consult with me. Who am I that I should direct the efforts of such veterans as Senator Gore, for instance?

"But while I am not in touch with the details I am morally certain that my managers are not making arrangements or attempting to come to an agreement with anybody.

"I am certain they are doing nothing that could not be done in view of the whole country, and that their only means of getting support is argument. There cannot by any possibility be any trading done in my name; not a single vote can or will be obtained by means of any promise."

Proud of His Supporters.

Concerning the situation at Baltimore as he views it during the over-Sunday lull, while the rival forces are drawn apart for barter or a strengthening of the lines for a fiercer conflict, Gov. Wilson issued this formal statement:

"My predominating feeling about the whole situation is one of pride that the men who are supporting me are doing so because of an evident conviction that they are standing for a principle. I should feel abashed if I thought it was mere loyalty to me as an individual, deeply as that would gratify any man. I feel it is a privilege to be supported as they are supporting me, and to see the support grow, as if in response to conviction and public sentiment."

Champ Clark's presence in Baltimore caused much concern to Gov. Wilson's close friends here. They insisted that Clark must have gone to Baltimore to barter, and expressed concern as to what the Sunday conferences would develop. The general state of feeling here was voiced by Sheriff Albert Bollschweiler of Middlesex County, who was Gov. Wilson's only caller to-day from the convention city.

"I still have an open mind as to the situation," said the Sheriff, "but I came here to tell Gov. Wilson that I didn't want to see Champ Clark put anything over on him."

Many friends of the Governor were anxious to know how he proposed to meet Champ Clark's move in going to the convention city in person. Gov. Wilson made it clear that he would do nothing whatever to checkmate his rival's move, and that whatever else happened he certainly would not go to Baltimore.

"I have never for a moment entertained the thought of going to Baltimore," declared Gov. Wilson. "It would manifestly be an act of impertinence on my part to appear before the convention, as if to seek their interest in me personally. I am interested in arguing causes, but not in such errands as I would seem to have if I went to Baltimore."

Slept in Blankets on Wilson's Lawn.

Until to-day a group of militiamen has been stationed at Sea Girt engaged in rifle practice. Each evening the officers in command called at the Governor's home to wish him well and to ask for the latest bulletins from the convention. They have given the only touch of life to the otherwise isolated condition of the Governor's home.

On the long night sessions of the convention the officers brought blankets for the reporters, and as the full moon went down toward dawn the lawn in front of the Governor's home has resembled an out-of-doors encampment, the military men and reporters lying down on the grass in their blankets, waiting for news from the front.

The military men were gone this morning, their target practice ended. They left the Governor's home entirely unguarded except by the reporters who gathered in the tent where the telegraph instruments are set up.

The Western Union Company, grasping apparently the news significance of the deadlock in which the convention closed on Saturday, sent four additional operators to Sea Girt and strung new wires to the station on the Governor's lawn.

"And I'll bet it'll be late Summer before we take the wires out," commented one of the linemen as he screwed a new telegraph key into position for use in the tent.

Church Prayer for the Progressives.

Gov. Wilson, appreciating the opportunity afforded by the lull at Baltimore to make up lost sleep, remained in bed until 11 A. M. Shortly after he arose his voice was heard joining in a hymn with his daughters. This afternoon he took Mrs. Wilson to a church service, which she said she enjoyed immensely. The service, which was held in the Presbyterian Church at Manasquan, near Sea Girt, included a sermon on the mistakes of the Prophet Hezekiah by the Rev. Arthur Richards of Mountville, Penn. The prophet's mistakes, as the Rev. Mr. Richards outlined them, consisted of showing to the pagans when they came to see him the riches of his palace instead of preaching to them the simple Gospel.

The text of the sermon was considered by the congregation as having been chosen with the situation at Baltimore in mind.

The Rev. Dr. Ludlow, at the Spring Lake Presbyterian Church, offered a prayer for Gov. Wilson and the others of "that gallant band of Progressives who are battling for the cause of human rights."

To-night on his veranda Gov. Wilson entertained at a story-telling session a number of callers, including Joseph Bernstein, a Jersey City business man who is prominent in Democratic politics. Twice during the evening Col. W. F. McCombs, the personal manager of Gov. Wilson, called him up from Baltimore and held a brief conversation with him.

a safe and sane selection always

¶ The first thing that strikes a man when he comes to examine Saks Clothes is, that he is in a clothing shop. Standing in the middle of the floor, he sees clothes to the right of him, to the left of him, in front and behind.

¶ Unlike a drug store that makes a specialty of cameras, the Saks Clothing Department confines itself to clothes. It is a great bazar of men's styles. It is the recognized center for men's distinctive apparel. It is a great clearing house of fashionable wear for discriminating men.

¶ It is more than that. It is an intensely practical department. We have never found it expedient to hang Saks garments on wooden men, nor to surround them with the glamor of unnecessary wardrobes and highly polished glass doors. They are spread out on generous counters where men may see them, and if they have not any style, Gentlemen, they can never acquire it though they be buttoned round plaster cast Apollos!

¶ We invite you to visit the Saks store and examine Saks clothes in the full noonday light of criticism. We promise you such assortments of lightweight seasonable apparel as you cannot duplicate anywhere. Models innumerable in single-breasted, double-breasted and Norfolk styles, cut on the most distinctive lines, tailored as perfectly as human ingenuity knows how, and finished as though life and property depended on the outcome.

¶ Two garment suits of serge, batiste, mohair, white, fancy and gray flannels, as well as superlative Shepherd Checks in cubes of varying dimensions. Then, there are three-garment suits, in models, fabrics and colorings as numerous as Democrats in Baltimore. Devoid of all lining, interlining, padding and what-not-else that good tailoring can manage without in making comfortable, stylish Saks Summer clothes.

TO CAPTURE JERSEY

PRENDERGAST LEADING HERE

Calls on Voters of All Parties to Enroll for Honesty—Tired of Waiting on Illinois.

Progressive Republican leaders have decided in conference to form a third party organization in New Jersey. This signed statement was given out yesterday by ex-State Senator Everett Colby:

No definite plans have been made by the Progressives for the coming campaign and so I can't say what will be done. My own personal views, however, as to the course we should adopt are very clear. There is just one thing for us to decide; namely, how can we the more successfully advance legislation that will correct abuses and help in the solution of our social and economic questions? How can we the more readily carry out a progressive programme for social reform? In the old party or in a new party?

To my view there is only one answer possible. In the old parties I hear nothing but the rumble of machinery. It is all mechanics. There is no life. There is no purpose. The great machine is set in motion with but one object, and that is to retain power and control patronage.

The Progressives in each party are beating their heads against a stone wall, wasting their energies, and permitting a clean-cut issue between right and wrong, between social justice and injustice to become confused in a perfect muddle of ridiculous and contradictory theories about Republicanism and Democracy and party regularity, while those in both parties opposed to progress stifle all aspirations for better things and defy the will of the rank and file who want to see our political parties the instruments for real, efficient public service. If this is a true statement of the situation, then it should make no difference what the outcome may be. A new party should be organized.

Win or lose, the fight should be made, the lines should be clearly marked, and all pretence of regularity, all attempt at compromise, should be abandoned. No fight for progress has ever been made successfully without daring, bold, and fearless break with the past.

In some States where the Progressives are in power, and in some counties in New Jersey where the Progressives are in control of the party machine, it seems a little hard to surrender a position of advantage acquired after years of self-sacrifice and the hardest kind of work. But the trouble is we cannot fight a wrong and at the same time accept the fruits thereof if it operates in our favor without being justly accused of inconsistency.

I believe the Republican Party to be dishonest and corrupt, and I therefore consider it in the interests of the country that it be utterly and completely destroyed, and that over its ashes should rise a party dedicated to the task of making this country of ours the very best place in which to toil, and the freest, most bountiful, and brightest place in which to live.

According to the present plans, the Progressives will nominate candidates for State Senate and the Assembly, as well as for Presidential electors. A fight will also be made for the seat of United States Senator Frank O. Briggs, whose term expires next year. The Progressives hope to get a large representation in the next Legislature.

Ex-State Senator Colby is an avowed candidate for the United States Senatorship. So is ex-Congressman Charles N. Fowler of Elizabeth, and ex-Assemblyman James A. Blauvelt of Passaic County. There is still another Progressive leader who is sure to be a candidate, George L. Record of Jersey City.

This is a tentative list of officers for the Progressive Party of Essex County: Borden D. Whiting, Vice President; ex-Gov. J. Franklin Fort, Vice President, Harris J. Howland, Second Vice President; Frank L. Driveres, Third Vice President; William A. Lord, Fourth Vice President; Walter F. Simpson, Secretary; William Fellow Morgan, Treasurer; William H. Saugerton, Corresponding Secretary; John N. Kline, Recording Secretary.

The Committee on State Organization tentatively chosen is: Edmund B. Osborne, Borden D. Whiting, J. Franklin Fort, John N. Kline, William A. Lord, and Everett Colby.

PRENDERGAST SEEKS RECRUITS.

Asks Voters to Enroll as Progressives in Defense of Honesty.

Following the organization of the State-wide Roosevelt movement at the Terrace Garden meeting on Saturday night, Controller Prendergast, one of the Progressive Party leaders, made an appeal to the voters for their "patriotic co-operation." The Controller will temporarily be the head of the New York campaign, with headquarters in the original Roosevelt Committee rooms in the Metropolitan tower. He wants both Democrats and Republicans to enroll as Progressives.

This is Mr. Prendergast's statement:

"At the meeting in Chicago on Satur- [illegible] new party. I have the honor of being a member of that committee, representing the State of New York. It seems to me proper, therefore, to address the voters of the State and request their patriotic co-operation in this new movement.

"I submit this appeal to men of all parties and men who have had no previous political affiliations. In the name of the already great number who have expressed their approval of a new political party, I ask Republicans and Democrats to enroll themselves in defense of honesty in political work and the advocacy of genuine principles of political, social and industrial reform.

"This new party will not be the result of any sudden judgment passed upon the high-handed acts of the Republican National Committee and the discreditable work of the Republican National Convention. The acts of that convention have rendered it necessary that a new party shall be formed, but the purpose the new movement will serve is one towards which the hearts of millions of men have been directed in the past few years.

"A new party is a necessity because so many have come to realize the hopelessness of truly efficient and upright government through the agency of either of the old parties unless they could be effectually divorced from the sinister control of those who believe that 'the power to take is a fitting rule of life.'

"There must be no mistaking the gravity or immensity of this task, but it will appeal to those who believe in the moral glory of American democracy. Let the men who have this faith undertake the labor. That labor involves the contest of every place to be voted for by the people at the coming election, from Congressmen, Senators and Assemblymen to the lowest office upon the list. The principles we represent are as necessary to the effective betterment of State and local affairs as they are essential to the perpetuation of the National Government.

"A provisional organization for the State of New York will be effected without delay, to be followed as quickly as possible by a permanent organization. In the meantime, I respectfully ask those who believe in the things we intend to accomplish to address me at 1 Madison Avenue, New York City. Let every man who has in him the spirit of the Minute Men of Concord and Lexington follow the example of a distinguished citizen who has already signified his intention of fighting for this cause, and in doing so said: 'I want to enlist, not for the campaign, but for the war!'"

Those who profess to be able to diagnose the present political shake-up say that Controller Prendergast is headed for the Governorship on the Roosevelt ticket.

"We might even support Prendergast for Governor," said a member of the Republican Club yesterday. "He's been fair with the Republican Party and fair with himself. He didn't flop at the last minute, and the only thing we have against him is that he is a follower of Mr. Roosevelt."

DIXON BREAKS SILENCE

Only to Say Baltimore Convention Doesn't Affect Third Party.

United States Senator Joseph M. Dixon, who acted as the National campaign manager for Col. Roosevelt in the primary and convention fight, and who has been stopping at the Hotel Manhattan for the last three days, where he has been busily engaged in dodging newspaper reporters, was caught yesterday and questioned as to the progress made in the organization of a third party.

Senator Dixon denied a report that the management of the campaign was to be in the hands of a committee consisting of himself, Frank A. Munsey, George W. Perkins, Cyrus McCormick, and Medill McCormick.

"That report was absolutely faked," declared the Senator. "The management of the new party is yet in abeyance. It must first be organized, and that task is rapidly being accomplished. When it is completed a Campaign Committee will be selected. Other than that I have nothing whatever to say."

"Is it not true that you have held numerous conferences with various local Roosevelt supporters?" demanded a reporter.

"Nothing to say," replied the Senator.

"Will the action of the Baltimore Convention have a bearing upon the course of action to be decided by the Republican Progressives?"

"The Progressive Party will not be affected by anything that takes place at Baltimore. It was born at Chicago, and is the result of the conditions that exist to-day in the Republican Party," was the reply.

"When will you leave town, Senator?" was the next question.

"I expect to leave Tuesday morning."

"Are you going to follow the example of the Arab and 'silently steal away?'" persisted the reporter.

"No, I don't think so," was the smiling reply. "I will probably have something to say to-morrow night."

It was suggested that by that time a Democratic candidate would in all probability have been named.

"That has nothing to do with me. I am not interested in what happens at Baltimore," was the final retort of the Montana statesman.

AT ODDS IN ILLINOIS.

Roosevelt Men Impatient and Doubtful About Third Term Ticket.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 30.—Politicians here say that if Illinois is to have a complete Roosevelt "third term" ticket this [illegible] depends upon two things: whether there is any "third term" party when election time comes, and whether Theodore Roosevelt, despairing of organizing a winning party in Illinois, orders the movement in this State to be juggled into a merger with the Republican Party.

Medill McCormick, a stanch and never varying "third term" advocate, hopes to see a complete ticket in the field of candidates for Governor, Congress and the Legislature. The success of such a ticket would make Mr. McCormick State boss as well as the official dispenser of Federal patronage should Mr. Roosevelt be elected. Other "third term" promoters, with more political experience than has McCormick, are said to see things in a different light.

Edwin W. Sims and Alexander H. Revell are two ardent Roosevelt supporters who do not expect victory for a third-term party in the State. Mr. Sims is not identifying himself with McCormick's headquarters in the Congress Hotel.

Mr. Revell has gone East. While there he will consult with Mr. Roosevelt. For the past four days he has been acting as the Roosevelt scout at the Baltimore Convention. But once in conference with Mr. Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, it is said that he will make a plea for both himself and Mr. Sims that Mr. McCormick be called off from his project in Illinois.

In the meantime leaders other than Mr. McCormick refuse to say whether the State will have a third ticket or not. It depends upon instructions from Oyster Bay, which will turn upon whether the Colonel can see signs of Illinois "insurging" after the Democratic Convention at Baltimore ends.

Walter Clyde Jones declined to-day to say whether he favored a third party State ticket or not. He said the matter was being considered.

No intimation comes from Col. Roosevelt as to his probable attitude toward Mr. Revell's request. Col. Roosevelt apparently is waiting the result of the Baltimore Convention also. If it results in a bad split between the Bryan and Tammany forces there, it is thought that Col. Roosevelt will not think it worth while to try to organize a third term party, the belief being that the mass of the people see little difference betwen his own and the Bryan views, and would probably follow old political lines.

OHIO REPUBLICANS IN DOUBT.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 30.—The adjourned session of the Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and other State officers will be held on Tuesday. The only work accomplished at the first session was the selection of six Taft delegates at large to the National Convention, the Taft forces having control of the convention.

There is much speculation as to what the Roosevelt people will do. They have given no intimation whether they will put up a candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination. State Chairman Brown, who arrived to-day, says he has formulated no plan for himself or his followers. Had the Roosevelt forces controlled the first session of the convention Arthur I. Garford would have been their candidate for Governor. Garford now declares he is not in the fight.

Word has been sent to Taft delegates urging them all to attend the convention, but the Roosevelt managers have made no suggestions, so their delegates will do as they please. Most of them are expected, and it is said they will hold a conference on Monday.

The most active aspirants for the Gubernatorial nomination are Lawrence K. Langdon, D. F. Anderson, and B. F. Kroger. Langdon had the indorsement of President Taft for the nomination several months ago. He made a record as floor leader of the House in the last General Assembly. He is thought to be in the lead in the number of pledged delegates. Kroger, who is a Cincinnati banker and merchant, is the choice of the entire Hamilton County delegation.

He is known as an ally of George B. Cox. Warren G. Harding, defeated Republican candidate for Governor two years ago, and who placed Taft in nomination at Chicago, was thought to have the sanction of the President for the nomination, but he declares he will not allow his name to be presented to the convention.

It has not been decided whether the platform in Mr. Harding's possession and which has President Taft's sanction will be presented in its entirety. It is realized that the committee has a delicate task on its hands to offer a platform that will be acceptable to both the Taft and Roosevelt delegates. It is realized that the Chicago platform must be approved and the administration of President Taft indorsed.

The Cuyahoga County delegation arrived late to-night and announced that they would vote for Paul Howland for Governor. This started a boom for Howland which may result in his nomination.

Senator Burton, who also arrived to-night, said the platform would be Progressive, with a strong indorsement of Taft.

DENIES FLINN CONTROLS.

Pennsylvania Electors Not Bound to Roosevelt, One Writes Hilles.

WASHINGTON, June 30. — Robert M. Griffin of Philadelphia, one of the Pennsylvania Electors selected at the recent State Convention, has written Mr. Hilles, the President's secretary, to deny that any reliance is to be placed in the statement that the thirty-eight Electors from Pennsylvania will, if elected in November, vote for Theodore Roosevelt or any other man than Mr. Taft for President. He writes:

"The first four districts in Pennsylvania, all in Philadelphia, were controlled by elements favorable to Mr. Taft, and therefore the Electors from these four districts are men who are not in any way controlled by Mr. Flinn, nor are they in any way under obligation to him, and I assure you they will do their full duty as Electors, and be bound by the traditions and usages of the party and vote only for its nominee, should the Republican Party carry the State at the general election in November. I am not familiar with some of the other districts in the State of which rumor is current, but I do know of the foregoing.

"I am satisfied there are other Electors throughout this great State who will remain true to the honor and trust reposed in them, and who will act according to the traditions and usages of the office to which they have been chosen, and, if our party be successful, shall cast their votes only for the nominee of our convention at Chicago, Mr. William H. Taft.

"George Elliott, representing the First District; John R. K. Scott, representing the Second District; William J. McCloskey, representing the Third District, and myself are the gentlemen whom I have noted as being in no way amenable to Mr. Flinn, and therefore Mr. Flinn's control of Pennsylvania Electors is not so sweeping or complete as has been assumed."

ROOSEVELT WAITING NOW.

Nothing Much to be Said Till Results Are Reached at Baltimore.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 30.—"I have done nothing more wicked than attend church," said Col. Roosevelt as he greeted a TIMES reporter at Sagamore Hill.

For the first time in many weeks he had no formal statement to give to reporters on Sunday night. He plainly indicated that he and his friends wish to see the finish of the Baltimore convention before outlining any plans.

"My visitors to-day were Oscar Straus and Fred W. Whitridge, President of the Third Avenue Railroad," said he.

Several of his most influential advisers are likely to be here to-morrow to receive returns from the Democratic Convention. When the result is known it is probable that a strong statement may come from the Roosevelt camp. As affairs have developed, Col. Roosevelt's friends believe that he is likely to receive powerful Democratic support.

QUEER TALES OF ROOSEVELT.

English Paper Says He Buys Negro Votes with Chickens.

Capt. Arthur R. Mills of the American liner Philadelphia, which arrived yesterday from Southampton, said that the English newspapers had been full of articles about Roosevelt and the convention in Chicago, and that they were the most humorous specimens of literature that he had ever read.

"The ordinary stay-at-home English people," said the Captain, "have no idea what the United States is like. Newspaper editors appear to be very little better, else they would not publish such utter nonsense about this country to please readers who imagine that American politics are run on the same lines as Barnum's circus.

"I read in a local paper that Theodore Roosevelt was supplying every colored man in Washington with as much chicken and ice cream as he could eat to get his vote, and friends of mine in Southampton came to the ship to ask me if negroes liked chicken, and whether a pious negro who has been brought up as a Methodist would steal his neighbor's chickens on a dark night. Another man asked me where Col. Roosevelt was getting all the poultry from to supply his devoted colored followers, and whether it would cause a chicken famine.

"It may seem incredible to those who have not traveled, but it is a fact," Capt. Mills went on to say, "that people on the oher side have no idea of the extent of the United States or Canada, and will not believe that San Francisco is five days' journey from New York by a fast train going night and day. They will admit that it is shown on the maps to be over 3,000 miles, but add that they are American maps. One would imagine that the art of exaggeration was unknown until Columbus discovered America."

Reproved Girl Ends Life.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., June 30.—Because her father did not approve of her friendship with a young man Helen Van Cleaf ended her life to-day by taking carbolic acid in her home, 233 Franklin Avenue. She was discovered in a dying condition by a girl friend who had come to visit her. She died on the way to the hospital.

CONVENTION HALTS DEPARTMENT FUNDS

Baltimore Deadlock Likely to Prevent Quorum in Congress To-day to Pass Money Bills.

ARCHBALD CASE TO COME UP

Vote on Battleships, the Lorimer Case, and Steel Report Also Among Unfinished Business.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The deadlock in the Baltimore Convention threatens to continue the embarrassment of the executive departments of the Government, due to the failure of Congress to pass the necessary appropriation bills for the new fiscal year which begins to-morrow.

When the House and Senate meet at noon to-morrow it is not likely that a quorum of either will be present, and unless unanimous consent is given for the passage of the Fitzgerald resolution continuing last year's appropriation during July, the Government will have to struggle along without funds until the Democrats nominate a candidate for President, and permit the absent statesmen to return to Washington. Legal authorities hold that if Congress passes the necessary resolutions the Government departments may operate without violation of law.

With the convention out of the way, Congress will steadily proceed to transact the business which has been waiting in the Senate. The appropriation bills will be taken up first. From the Senate the Naval bill will come shortly with a provision for two battleships, which the House has rejected. The conference on the Legislative, Judicial, and Executive bill will begin immediately.

The first business of importance in the House will be the impeachment proceedings against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the Court of Commerce. Chairman Clayton of the Judiciary Committee will present the resolution as soon as a full attendance of the House is assured. Its consideration will occupy several days, and delay the final report of the Stanley Steel Trust investigating committee until next week.

Chairman Hay of the Military Affairs Committee will present a resolution tomorrow appropriating funds for the expenses of the joint manoeuvres between the regular army and militia. An emergency exists for this appropriation, the troops for the first manoeuvre at Manassas, Va., being already under orders to go to the encampment.

The Senate has agreed to vote on the House Chemical Tariff bill on Tuesday, and, after several speeches, to dispose of the Lorimer election case on the "legislative day" of next Saturday.

A mere error in engrossing threatens to legislate Jacob M. Dickinson, former Secretary of War, and other attorneys out of office as special Government counsel in anti-trust and inter-State commerce cases. Originally the bill would have barred employment of special counsel who had been in the Government service within two years preceding. The House modified the prohibition to apply only to future appointments, but Attorney General Wickersham discovered the modification had been overlooked in the engrossed copy already officially signed in the House. He will ask the Senate to eliminate the prohibition altogether.

BODY ASHORE AT ROCKAWAY.

Max Eisenberg of 51 Avenue B, Manhattan, was strolling on the beach at Rockaway Park at 11 o'clock last night and came on the body of a young man clad in a bathing suit. The youth evidently had been drowned. The suit he wore, however, was not recognized as coming from any of the public bath houses at Rockaway Beach.

SOCIALIST STATE TICKET OUT

Name C. E. Russell for Governor—To Forestall Third Term Party.

AUBURN, N. Y., June 30.—The first Gubernatorial ticket of the coming campaign was placed in the field this afternoon by the New York State Socialist Convention. The ticket:

For GOVERNOR—Charles Edward Russell of New York.

For CONTROLLER—Olin Hoxie Smith of Schenectady.

For STATE TREASURER—Frank Ehrenfried of Erie.

For STATE ENGINEER AND SURVEYOR—Dr. Charles H. Furman of Kings.

Mayor George R. Lunn of Schenectady was not placed in nomination for any office, as it was said that he would be nominated for Congress in the Schenectady district. The Committee on Agitation in recommending an immediate campaign, reported in part:

"We call attention to the triumph of the most reactionary elements in both old parties, which makes the present moment most favorable for the propaganda of the Socialist Party. We call attention also to the fact that a new National party may soon be launched, ostensibly Progressive, but really backed by the Harvester Trust, the Steel Trust, and similar interests, and provided with funds to carry on a gigantic whirlwind campaign; we therefore most strongly recommend that the campaign of the Socialist Party begin at once to take full advantage of the next few weeks to reach the people's minds before they become intoxicated with hero worship and personal recriminations."

In the debate on the plank in the platform demanding that church property be no longer exempt from taxation, the Rev. Algernon Crapsey of Rochester and Mayor Lunn of Schenectady strongly opposed favorable action. They feared that the plank would arouse the opposition of church people to the Socialist movement, and, while agreeing with the plank, they deemed it inexpedient. The New York delegates, however, vigorously took the affirmative and attacked the creeds, particularly the Catholic Church, which, they said, had begun a campaign against Socialism, and they accordingly should not be called upon to pay taxes which were used to "subsidize" their antagonists.

Headless Body at Woonsocket Identified as Angele Delmar.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 30.—A clue furnished by Gov. Pothier led to the positive identification to-day of the headless body of the woman taken from the Blackstone River at Woonsocket on Tuesday. Following closely on the identification came the arrest of the man with whom she had lived.

The woman was Angele Parmentier Delmar, 27, wife of Camille Delmar of Rubaix, France, who ran away with Henri des Louvre and came to this country about a year ago. The pair went to Woonsocket. The woman obtained employment in the French worsted mills, and the man went to work in the Gearin Spinning Company's plant.

For a time the couple lived in Dames Grove, near where the body was found, and then moved to 129 Cumberland Street.

By draining the pond the police found the woman's clothes to-day about 1,000 feet from where the body was discovered, but the head is still missing.

Gov. Pothier's detective instinct started the police on the right trail. Eugene Jacob, who found the body, appealed to the Governor yesterday for help. He said the police had regarded him with suspicion because he found the body. The Governor questioned him, and asked if he knew of any woman who was missing from the section in which he lived. Jacob replied at once that Angele Delmar had left Henri des Louvre. He knew the couple well, because they formerly lived in the basement of his own house at Dames Grove. They quarreled frequently, he said. Gov. Pothier informed the police, and Detective John T. Sutton visited the neighborhood of the Cumberland Street house.

Mrs. Louise Banderville and Mrs. Gabrielle Benbasselet, intimate friends of Mrs. Delmar, identified the body to-day through peculiarities of the feet. Then the two women were shown the clothing found in Manville Pond.

Mrs. Banderville promptly identified the black worsted waist, saying that she was with Mrs. Delmar when the latter purchased the garment in a store in Woonsocket last Winter. She also identified the skirt. Mrs. Benbasselet recognized parts of the clothing.

Des Louvre was then arrested, taken to the tomb, and shown the body. He was overcome by the sight. Although he identified the body, he denied all knowledge of the crime.

THREE KILLED IN MOTOR CYCLE RACES

SPEED OF MILE A MINUTE

Motor Cycles Wrecked in Sight of Thousands of Pleasure Seekers—Many Riders Seriously Hurt.

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 30.—Two motor cycle racers were killed and two others seriously injured while riding faster than a mile a minute at to-day's race meet at the San Jose driving park. The dead are Reed Orr, Sacramnto Motorcycle Club, and W. F. Baker, San Jose Motorcycle Club.

C. D. Reade of the San Jose Motorcycle Club has a broken collar bone and possibly internal injuries, and E. A. House, San Jose Motorcycle Club, is bruised and lacerated about the head and body.

Alsina of San Francisco was leading the eight riders in the ten-mile race, and four others were bunched together, an eighth of a mile behind. At the turn of the upper stretch the machine of one of the four swerved, and in an instant the three others had piled over the falling machine and rider.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 30.—Fully 5,000 pleasure seekers at the Luna Park motordrome saw Bob Hunter of Newark, N. J., killed, and Finn Huttinger of Cleveland seriously injured in a collision to-night. The two motor cyclists were racing at high speed at the moment of the accident.

Hunter's neck was broken beneath his machine and his head and body were cut in many places. Huttinger suffered a broken knee cap, and it is thought a broken leg, and severe cuts and contusions over his head and body.

The accident occurred on the fourth lap of the quarter-mile track in the second heat of the professionals' race. Of the three entries, F. M. Knapp was leading by six lengths, and Hunter was closely followed by Huttinger as they came out of the back stretch. At the beginning of the reserved seat reservations Huttinger tried to pass Hunter from the rear.

Huttinger's front wheel struck Hunter's rear wheel The Huttinger machine shot to the top of the track, hit the fence, and, in a blaze of fire, fell to the bottom of the track, whirling over and over, a mass of twisted steel. Huttinger was pitched over the bars when the motor cycle struck the fence, and turned somersaults along the track ahead of the machine.

Hunter plunged directly over his machine, breaking his neck. Death was instantaneous. The frightful speed at which he was going forced the machine over on his body, and, with cylinders blazing, but still going, the motor cycle slid for yards, dragging Hunter's body.

"Holy Rollers" Refuse to Allow Them to Aid Dying Girl.

Special to The New York Times.

HATTIESBURG, Miss., June 30.—Weakened by a temperature of 104 degrees, Bessie, the 16-year-old daughter of Will Spencer, a farmer of Postal, Miss., died there to-day of typhoid fever after her parents and other members of the Holy Roller sect had held off with pistols physicians who offered aid.

During the last two days of the life of the sufferer the Holy Rollers held a weird service near her bedside in the hope that the "Holy Spirit" would save her. A babel of voices constantly sang, moaned, cried, and laughed hysterically, punctuating their chant with an occasional "bless the Lord" or "hallelujah."

Hearing of the girl's condition the Sheriff and two physicians hurried to the Spencer home, offering aid and begging the parents to let the girl have medical attention. They were held back at the point of pistols.

Wrecked on Rocks; Crew Saved.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., June 30.—The British steamer Wilhelmina struck on the rocks at Peters River at sunrise to-day, a total wreck. The Wilhelmina was bound from Quebec for Yarmouth, England, with a cargo of seals. Capt. Hugo and his crew were reported saved. The steamer Fogota and Amphitrite left St. Johns to-day for the scene of the wreck, which is on the west coast, near Cape Race.

THAW ASKS STATE TO CURB JEROME

DISCREDITS HIS WITNESSES

Prisoner's Lawyer Says "Venom and Bitterness" Have Marked the Conduct of the State's Counsel.

When the hearing to determine whether Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, is now sane, and so should be released, or insane, and so be recommitted to Matteawan, is resumed before Supreme Court Justice Keogh at White Plains this morning, a telegram sent yesterday to the Attorney General of the State by Clarence J. Shearn, Thaw's leading counsel, will probably be called to the attention of Justice Keogh, either by Mr. Jerome, in criticism of whose conduct as attorney for the State the telegram was written, or possibly by Mr. Shearn himself.

In the telegram Mr. Shearn declares that Mr. Jerome is abusing his power as the legal representative of the State in the case, and characterizes his activities as vindictive. He bitterly complains of the "character" of the witnesses so far called by the State. Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, Susan Merrill, the woman at whose house Thaw admitted on the stand last week he had received mail under an assumed name; Clifford W. Hartridge, Thaw's former attorney of record; a former rabbi who was a Tombs chaplain when Thaw was in that prison, and Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the wife of Thaw, are singled out by Mr. Shearn in his message to Mr. Carmody.

Mr. Shearn's Telegram.

This is the telegram:

White Plains, N. Y., June 30, 1912.
Hon. Thomas Carmody, Attorney General,
Albany, N. Y.:

In the name of fair play and in the interest of justice, I protest against the abuse which Mr. Jerome is making of the appointment which he obtained from you as special counsel to oppose the release of Harry K. Thaw in the pending proceedings before Justice Keogh. The trial, which is supposed to be a judicial and unprejudiced inquiry into Thaw's present mental condition, has, under Mr. Jerome's management, developed into a vindictive attack upon Thaw's private character and upon his family. The venom and bitterness of Mr. Jerome's conduct of the case are apparent to every one in or about the court.

Two weeks have passed, and not one witness has been called by Mr. Jerome to testify to Thaw's conduct and demeanor during the past six years. Furthermore, Mr. Jerome has announced that he does not intend to call the State officials who have observed and examined Thaw during the past year; but, instead, he proposes to use the same group of alienists who have campaigned against Thaw ever since his first trial for homicide—men who, if entirely disinterested, have become set and fixed in a point of view from which it would be obviously difficult to swerve them with any amount of new evidence.

I ask you to note the character of the witnesses thus far called by Mr. Jerome in the name of the State. These are, barring only the record evidence of the few witnesses concerning Thaw's childhood and events of many years ago, and also excepting three minor witnesses, (two policemen and a Tombs attendant,) the following:

1. A woman committed for perjury by Supreme Court Justice Fitzgerald in 1908 and turned loose by Mr. Jerome while District Attorney immediately after testifying against Thaw in 1909.

2. An alienist who, after admitting the receipt from Mrs. William Thaw of several thousand dollars and having unsuccessfully brought suit for several thousand more, now turns up in Mr. Jerome's camp to help keep Mrs. Thaw's son in Matteawan.

3. A lawyer who only missed disbarment by a vote of three to two in the Appellate Division, and against whom disbarment charges are now pending.

4. A man who on the stand admitted that he had just come out of Sing Sing after serving four months for perjury, and

5. Thaw's wife, whose ruin by Stanford White provoked the homicide for which, although acquitted, Thaw is still in prison.

This is a proud array for the State of New York to be using in a fight against an alleged insane person.

Accuses Jerome of Bad Faith.

The immediate cause of my protest is a piece of unpardonable bad faith and sharp practice resorted to yesterday. On Friday I called for the production under subpoena of certain letters reported to me to have been written by Dr. Austin Flint to Mr. Jerome concerning this case. Mr. Jerome on the witness stand testified that he had in his custody and control all of the papers in the case of the People against Thaw, that he had searched the papers for such letters, had found none, and that I might examine the papers in his office at any time on Saturday.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning, having gone to New York expressly for this purpose, I telephoned to Mr. Jerome's assistant, Mr. Lewis, that I would be in Mr. Jerome's office within the next ten minutes, to make the examination, and Mr. Lewis said all right. A minute later Mr. Lewis called me on the telephone and stated that Mr. Jerome was just leaving his office for the day, and that I could not make the examination until after the court session on Monday. As Dr. Flint is to go upon the stand on Monday, and these documents are obviously desired by me for purposes of cross-examination, the plain purpose of this breach of faith is to prevent my having these documents until after Dr. Flint has testified. Such tactics are sometimes resorted to by a certain class of lawyers in private litigation, but it is hardly conceivable that the State, in a judicial inquiry into a man's sanity, should be a party to hiding or withholding evidence that might throw light on the case, even if helpful to the prisoner.

You were vigilant and active and courageous in an endeavor to have even-handed justice meted out to a poor and unfriendly individual, in the Brandt case. I venture to urge that a rich man is just as much entitled to justice and fair play as is a poor man.

The conduct of this case requires some of your personal attention, unless it is to degenerate into a mere personal persecution.

Although Mr. Jerome stated to Justice Keogh Thursday, when, in an effort to prevent a mistrial, I suggested that the Attorney General be consulted, that he would not consult with the Attorney General or take any instructions from the Attorney General in this case, and that if the Attorney General attempted to interfere with him he would withdraw from the case, I do not construe this to mean that you have voluntarily surrendered the functions of your high office in this case or any other case to "special counsel."

Since your assistant, Judge Kellogg, was compelled to absent himself from the trial, there have been no limits to Mr. Jerome's bitterness and vindictiveness against Thaw. If the keeping of Thaw permanently imprisoned in an insane asylum was important enough to warrant the State's enlistment of Mr. Jerome at a cost of $10,000, (and I have never heard of any other case in which special counsel has been hired to represent the State in a sanity hearing,) then the case is important enough to warrant some personal attention at your hands, when your appointment is being thus abused. If your duties prevent your personal attendance, and also that of your First Assistant, Judge Kellogg, you can at least issue instructions that will insure fair play.

CLARENCE J. SHEARN.

The Witnesses Shearn Discredits.

Three of the five witnesses complained by Mr. Shearn testified before Supreme urt Justice Mills at the Thaw sanity ring in the Summer of 1909, and Jus- Mills stated in his decision sending back to Matteawan that the testi- of Susan Merrill was corroborative, that trial as well as this one Thaw getting mail at Mrs. Merrill's e name of "Read."

errill is the woman found at Fort eral days ago by the State detec- here Mr. Jerome says she was atched by detectives in the em- Thaw. She declared on the stand had been in communication with O'Mara, the chief of the Taw se- rvice.

ness No. 2 complained of is Dr. milton. He was one of Thaw's alien- before the first trial for murder, and rom the first is said to have declared Thaw to be insane, and to have urged Mrs. Thaw to have him so declared and placed in a proper institution. By Witness No. 3 Mr. Shearn means Clifford W. Hartridge. He it was who produced the whip that has figured in the Thaw case, and which since the hearing before Justice Mills has mysteriously disappeared. The whip after the trial was left in the custody of one of the clerks of the Westchester court.

Witness No. 4 is Hartoff Veldt, a former rabbi. He was sent to Sing Sing for perjury in connection with the Magistrate Higginbotham inquiry in Brooklyn. Veldt testified about a "Chinese dinner" that he said Thaw wanted prepared under the superintendence of the Pinkerton Detective Agency in 1906, when he was awaiting trial in the Tombs. The Tombs day book showed that Veldt had made a report of Thaw's desires regarding the dinner to the proper authorities at the time.

Witness No. 5 is Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who has been a State witness at both the hearing before Justice Mills and at the one now going on in White Plains.

The documents Mr. Shearn wanted to search Mr. Jerome's trunk for are letters that Mr. Shearn says were written by Dr. Flint. Mr. Jerome testified last week that no such letters ever existed.

The hearing will be resumed before Justice Keogh at 9:15 o'clock this morning.

2,000 SKAT PLAYERS COMING.

To Hold Their Fifth Convention in the Bronx on Sept. 1 and 2.

A convention which, according to Herman Ridder, has within its power the opportunity "to accomplish a veritable mission of culture," will be held on Sept. 1 and 2 in the Bronx. All the convention has to do is to force off the American map the great American game of poker and put in its place the game the convention is called to exploit—the celebrated German game of skat. Two thousand will sit in the game.

This will be the fifth convention of the Nordoestlicher Skat-Verband. That those in the Bronx may know what a game they promote when they promote skat, Herman Ridder permitted the organizers of the convention to circulate this tribute to the game from him:

"The game of skat is decidedly one of the noblest, if not the noblest, game of cards in the world. It is adapted to sharpen the wit and to develop the intellect. It is just the reverse of other games of cards, which have a deadening effect on the intellectual faculties. It cannot be classed among the games of chance, as a good player is able to utilize even a bad run of cards in such a way that he does not lose anything.

"On account of its many variations and possibilities it holds the attention and interest of the player from beginning to end. Even among Americans, wherever it has been introduced, it has gained great popularity. I think it is well adapted to gradually crowd out the American National game of poker, and the Northeastern Skat League, which is promoting the game in the right way, is thereby accomplishing a veritable mission of culture."

William L. Straus, Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, has confided to the Bronx hosts that they will need automobiles for 2,000 skat players for sight-seeing tours.

BOY SCOUTS TO SAVE TREES.

Pinchot Preparing a Manual on Common Diseases of Forests.

The Boy Scouts of America have leagued themselves together as an army to save the trees and shrubs of America from insects and diseases. The work started in Pennsylvania, where thousands of chestnut trees are being destroyed. The boys have been of great help to the Forestry Department in detecting this disease and reporting the trees thus afflicted to the department.

That work afforded an excellent piece of scouting for boys, and the result has been that Boy Scouts throughout the country have written to James E. West, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, asking for information about other diseases and insects that attack trees and shrubs. As a result George H. Merritt, one of the secretaries employed by the Boy Scouts of America, is compiling, with the aid of Gifford Pinchot, former United States Forester, and member of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, a chapter for the manual and for the scoutmasters, outlining different diseases of the most important trees.

"Among the most destructive insects," said Mr. Merritt, "must be enumerated the barklice, or scale insects, plantlice, woodborers, codling moth, San José scale, tent caterpillars, canker worms, tussock moths, leafmining beetles, gall-forming insects, chinch bugs, army worms, weevils, and locusts. The Boy Scouts, I think, can be of material service in doing real scouting in locating cases of blighted trees or of those badly affected by insects, feeders, and parasites. The real information as to methods of such work will depend largely, of course, on local or sectional conditions."

WESLEYAN FUND COMPLETED

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., June 30.—President William Arnold Shanklin of Wesleyan University announced this afternoon the completion of the million-dollar endowment fund, for which he has been working for the last two years. Not only was the million-dollar mark reached, but an additional $50,000 was received from a friend of the college not an alumnus. The conditional offer of $100,000 by the Carnegie Foundation is therefore won.

The last $500 came this morning from John Quinby Wood of the class of '90, now American Consul at Tripoli.

Coincident with the completion of the fund comes the announcement of a gift of $20,000 to the local chapter of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity for a new fraternity house. The gift was from William F. Baird of New York, in memory of his son, Raimond D. Baird.

The first gift to the endowment fund came from Judge Greenwood Reynolds of Brooklyn, the eldest living alumnus. Contributions to the fund were made by more than one-half of the alumni of the college, and the undergraduates gave almost $12,000.

STILL HOPE TO FIGHT BATTLE OF NEW YORK

20,000 WOULD TAKE PART

Half of Them to Attack the City, and Half to Defend It—Aeroplanes to be Tested.

Will the Battle of New York be fought in August, as planned? This is a question that is worrying the officers and men of both the regular army and the National Guard in New York, New Jersey, and New England.

The Army Appropriation bill, recently passed by Congress, appropriated $1,350,000 for manoeuvres, but the bill was vetoed by President Taft because of provisions which would have legislated out of office Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of the General Staff, and would have made it impossible to appoint any officer who had not served ten years in the line before reaching the rank of General, and would have debarred officers of the Engineer Corps from reaching that office, the highest to which an officer can aspire.

There is still hope, however, that Secretary Stimson can get Congress to pass the manoeuvres appropriation as a separate act and that the Battle of New York will be fought as planned. If so, the manoeuvres, the object of which will be an attack upon and a defense of New York City, will begin on Aug. 10, and last ten days, the enemy operating in the direction of New York from a base somewhere between New Haven and Danbury, Conn. The entire National Guard strength of New York and New Jersey will be mobilized for the defense of the city, while the army that will try to break through and capture the city will comprise the National Guard of the New England States and a large number of regular troops, exclusive of coast artillery from the posts in the Department of the East.

One of the features of the attack on the city will be the work of the Aviation Corps of the United States Army, under command of Capt. Charles DeF. Chandler, Signal Corps, U. S. A., who will have in his command all of the aviators now flying at the army aviation training station at College Park, Md.

Major Gen. Barry, Superintendent of the Military Academy at West Point, who is soon to assume command on Governors Island, will have a prominent part in the solution of the military problem involved. Major Gen. Wood will also be present as an observer, and practically every officer of high rank on duty in Washington, possibly the President himself, will journey to the field of operations to watch the battles that will surely be fought on every day that the manoeuvres continue.

About 20,000 men will take part, the armies each numbering about 10,000 men. A regular officer, probably Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, will command the "blue army," as the imaginary enemy will be known, while Major Gen. O'Ryan, commanding the National Guard of New York, will probably be in command of the "red," or defending, army.

The aviators who will figure in the war game, in addition to Capt. Chandler, will be Capt. Paul W. Beck, Lieut. Henry H. Arnold, Lieut. Thomas De W. Milling, Lieut. Roy C. Kirtland, and Lieut. Frank M. Kennedy, all of them experienced aviators, and all attached to the College Park squad. These officers will have great latitude, it is said, to prove just what can be expected of the aeroplane in the event of a real war. They will reconnoitre, scout, deliver orders from the commanding Generals, map the country, and bring into action the new aeroplane gun now being tested by the Government. Bomb dropping will also probably figure in the aeroplane work.

The manoeuvres will also afford a chance to try out the automobile in a most thorough manner so far as its use for military purposes is concerned, the problem of feeding an army in the field will receive attention, while matters of transportation will be supervised by officers of the Quartermaster's Department for the purpose of finding ways to improve that branch of the service.

The Battle of New York, however, as well as the manoeuvres in other parts of the country, will have to await the pleasure of Congress. Last week Secretary Stimson wrote Chairman Hay of the House Committee on Military Affairs, asking that the manoeuvres appropriation be passed as a separate bill. This will probably come up in Congress to-day.

CUTS TROLLEY CAR IN TWO.

Pennsylvania Electric Train Strikes It in Camden—Two Hurt.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 30.—Two men were injured here to-day when a Public Service trolley car returning to the barns was run into and cut in half by an electric train on the Pennsylvania Railroad. The accident occurred at Seventh Street and was said to have been due to a misunderstanding of signals on the part of the motorman of the trolley car.

Edward Foley, the motorman, was one of the men injured. One hip was broken, his head cut and he was injured internally. The other victim is William Marquard of this city, the only passenger on the train. His head was cut and his left shoulder fractured and he also was hurt internally. Both men were taken to the hospital. It was believed they would recover.

LUNCHEON FOR G. B. MALLON.

High Praise from Associates for Retiring City Editor of The Sun.

A farewell luncheon was given to George B. Mallon yesterday at the Hotel Brevoort, Fifth Avenue and Eighth Street, by 125 members of the staff and others of various departments of The New York Sun and members of the Sun Alumni Association, on his retirement as City Editor of The Sun, with which he has been connected for twenty-four years, to become associated with the Butterick Publishing Company. In motion pictures "Boss" Mallon was shown handing out "fat" assignments to his men in such quick succession that the members of the staff, new and old, were unable to restrain an uproarious cheer; in poetry and song he was so eulogized that he finally declared: "This has the satisfaction of reading your own obituary, only it's a good deal damper."

When the guests were first seated, newsboys picked from the reportorial staff of The Sun rushed into the room and distributed a miniature edition of The Sun, containing a complete biography of Mr. Mallon, with a cartoon of him as he is and a photographic reproduction of him at the age of 8. References were made to startling "creations" such as may be expected from "Old Madame Mallon" in the Butterick publications.

Later the fun was interrupted by a stranger knocking at door, who disclosed that he was Mr. Mallon's father, M. S. Mallon of Malone, N. Y. A place of honor among the guests was given him, to the great surprise of his son.

Calling the meeting to order, Collin Armstrong, President of the Alumni Association, presented to Chester S. Lord, Managing Editor of The Sun, as the gavel the famous Onondaga horn corkscrew, with which he presided as toastmaster. In presenting the first speaker, District Attorney Whitman, Mr. Lord took occasion to say that he hoped Mr. Mallon, who had said he was leaving The Sun for good was leaving for his own good, because he was sure it was not for the good of The Sun. He paid a high tribute to Mr. Mallon for his long and faithful services to The Sun.

District Attorney Whitman began his remarks by saying that, with the exception of Collin Armstrong, he knew Mr. Mallon better, perhaps, than any other man. Taking exception to this claim, Frank H. Seymour asked, "How about his father?" to which Mr. Whitman replied, "It is a wise father who knows his own son." And there were cheers.

Others who had words of praise for Mr. Mallon were J. Arthur Seavey, Manager of The Sun News Service; Dwight Morrill, Talcott Williams, head of the Pulitzer School of Journalism; Robert Frothingham, and Kenneth Lord, the new City Editor of The Sun. When the toasts were ended, Chester S. Lord proposed a final toast, and all The Sun men arose and drank to the health and prosperity of Mr. Mallon.

WYOMING SOON TO BE TRIED.

New Dreadnought to be Flagship of Atlantic Fleet.

The new 26,000-ton dreadnought Wyoming, the great all-big-gun battleship that is destined to be the flagship of the United States Atlantic Fleet, will go to sea for her trials within the next three weeks, and within the next two months, with her sister ship, the Arkansas, will be commissioned and assigned to the fleet under Admiral Osterhaus. The Arkansas takes the place of the dreadnought Michigan in the first division, and the Wyoming supersedes the battleship Connecticut as the independent flagship of the fleet.

These two vessels, the largest and most powerfully armed ever built for the American navy, will add 52,000 tons of fighting strength to the navy, and each will carry twelve 12-inch guns as their main batteries—two guns more of that type than were ever carried on any battleship ever built for the Government. In addition to their powerful 12-inch batteries, each ship will carry a secondary battery of twenty-one 5-inch guns, and about a dozen other guns of the 3-inch, three-pound and one-pound types.

The Arkansas has already had her preliminary trials, and, steaming over the Rockland, Me., measured course, averaged a speed of over 21 knots an hour, which exceeds by a knot the speed called for in the builders' contract. Those in charge of the Wyoming during her trials will bend every efort to equal, and to exceed if possible, the record of the Arkansas.

The addition of the Arkansas and Wyoming will make eight vessels of the dreadnought type in the Atlantic Fleet. These eight vessels carry a total of eighty guns of the 12-inch type, every one of which can be fired simultaneously in either the starboard or port broadside. The total displacement of the Atlantic Fleet dreadnoughts when the Arkansas and Wyoming are added will be 167,650 tons. To man these eight dreadnoughts, 7,348 officers and men will be required.

BODY HANGING IN CEMETERY.

Suicide Dead Six Months Found in Woodlawn.

Two boys wandering through the wooded section of Woodlawn Cemetery in the Bronx yesterday afternoon came upon the body of a man hanging from a tree a little north of the entrance at Webster Avenue, opposite 217th Street. A ticket which showed that the man had received treatment in Bellevue Hospital in 1911, but which was too faded for the police to decipher the name, was found in the clothing.

The body was clothed in a light gray suit and light striped outing shirt, with black lace shoes. The beard, hair and mustache were gray. It was taken to the Morgue, where it was said the man must have been dead six months.

GEORGE CROMWELL CLEARED BY INQUIRY

Administration of Richmond's President Vindicated by Fosdick's Investigation.

MAYOR CONGRATULATES HIM

Staten Islanders Charged Cromwell with Making Unnecessary and Illegal Public Improvements.

George Cromwell, President of the Borough of Richmond since the time of the consolidation of the Greater City in 1898, and whose administration has been under investigation by the Commissioner of Accounts, on Saturday received the following congratulatory letter from Mayor Gaynor:

June 27, 1912.

Sir: After reading the report of the Commissioner of Accounts of his examination into the affairs of your borough, of which complaint was made, I beg to say to you that I am very glad, indeed, that his exhaustive examination reveals nothing in the way of wrongdoing, illegality, or negligence in the government of the borough. Of course, I anticipated that this would be the outcome. Sincerely yours,

W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

President Cromwell, at the Richmond County Club at Dongan Hills yesterday, was rejoicing over the letter of the Mayor. He made the following statement:

"On Jan. 4, 1912, several residents of Staten Island, alleging themselves to be representatives of a so-called Staten Island Citizens' Safety Committee, called upon Mayor Gaynor, making charges against me as President of the Borough of Richmond with respect to my administration of the borough's affairs. The Mayor thereupon instructed his Commissioner of Accounts, Raymond B. Fosdick, to make an investigation. I afforded the Commissioner of Accounts and his investigators every facility in the investigation and examination of the records of my office, which were turned over entirely to the control of the Commissioner of Accounts, as I personally desired the fullest investigation possible. In fact, I stated in interviews at the time that I was glad the investigation was to be made, as it would clear the air and stop some of the nonsensical talk that had been made. The investigators or examiners came to Staten Island daily and made a thorough and minute investigation, covering the entire period of my incumbency of the office from the year 1898 to the present time, a period of over fourteen years. Under date of June 8, 1912, Commissioner Fosdick made his full report to the Mayor, and the Mayor gives his conclusions in the letter."

The Committee of Safety, who appeared before the Mayor early last Winter, demanding an investigation, charged President Cromwell with making unnecessary costly public improvements, which in some instances, it was alleged, were illegal, consisting principally of sewer and street constructions.

"PAPERS" HIS ROOM.

A Newsdealer Had Saved Supplements for Many Years.

H. R. Burghard of Bergenfield, N. J., has just completed the decoration of a room in his home on Grove Street by covering the walls with a group of pictures taken from every newspaper in the East and representing an immense variety of scenes. He has been a newsdealer since 1899 and collected the pictures for many years.

The pictures are carefully trimmed and arranged in four and in some cases five rows, each one exactly meeting the next pictures. Over the pictures Mr. Burghard has applied two coats of varnish.

The pictures are arranged with similar subjects in one row as nearly as possible. The second row below the ceiling is given over entirely to half-tone reproductions of well-known places in Europe. Below that comes a circuit of Gibson pictures. The fourth row is given over to pictures of the World's Fair at Chicago in 1893 from a newspaper. Civil war scenes run entirely around the room in the third row, and the top row is a sort of a frieze made up of colored supplements of amazing variety.

The cutting and trimming to make the pictures fit exactly involved an immense amount of labor and careful pasting. The entire work occupied three months. There are nearly 500 pictures in all.

FIVE MAROONED IN SQUALL.

Their Catboat Sunk, They Spent Night on Island in Sound.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., June 30.—At daybreak this morning a half-clad man, with a woman and her three children, came ashore at the New Rochelle Yacht Club. The man, who appeared to be French, and spoke little English, said they had been spending yesterday on the Sound in a catboat, which was swamped and sunk when the squall struck her near Pine Island, off Davenport Neck.

They threw off most of their clothing and swam with the children to the little island, where they were marooned all night. Just before sunrise they found a rowboat that had been washed ashore on the island, and they paddled to the yacht club with a thwart torn from the boat. The man gave his name as Edward Lepers of New York [illegible] man was his sister. The children were hers.

Efforts were made to-day to raise the racing yachts Robin Hood, owned by George C. Molloy, and Chinook, owned by Hazen Morse, which sank in yesterday's squall off Larchmont, but it may be several days before they can be done. A. Bryan Alley's yacht, the Festina, which went down off Middle Shoal, at the entrance to Echo Bay, was raised easily to-day by Mr. Alley and other members of the Larchmont Yacht Club, who worked all night.

Many rowboats and skiffs were washed ashore at Echo Bay, Davenport Neck, and Fort Slocum. Some of the boats were capsized. One had a green silk parasol under the thwarts. It is believed that the occupants were picked up by passing yachts or steamers, although no report of a rescue has been made at New Rochelle. Soldiers at Fort Slocum, which is on David's Island, have been searching all day for bodies. The body of William Sleicher of the Fourth Company, who was drowned in the squall while swimming off Fort Slocum Beach, has not been recovered.

The Purchase of a

is a serious matter, because aside from the investment of considerable money you are buying something that should last you all your life.

And to do this you must be sure that the piano has been honestly made, sold at an honest price and with tone qualities that will not only last but educate the ear to a recognition of correct music.

Now if you are not an expert you must trust somebody, in fact have confidence in the integrity of the manufacturer or you will lose confidence in the piano itself.

It is the old New England honesty that founded the Sterling Company over fifty years ago, and this half century of uninterrupted success is an absolute protection to every purchaser of a Sterling Piano or a

CAMORRISTS FEAR AS TRIAL NEARS END

PRIEST IN MOCK PRAYERS

Viterbo Hotels Are Filling Up in Expectation of a Verdict, Which Italy Thinks Will Be "Guilty."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, June 30.—Italy is at last beginning to see the end in sight of the notorious Camorra trial, after about a year and a half of more or less sensational proceedings.

The whole country, and especially the Judge, jury, witnesses, lawyers, and the prisoners themselves, are heartily sick of it, and the jurymen are almost ready to give any verdict which will release them from their duties. Their intentions, however, are a mystery, and it is useless to speculate on how the verdict will go, although citizens at large are convinced that Erricone and the other principal figures in the case are guilty.

Now, that the end approaches, the prisoners are becoming agitated, and it is increasingly difficult to keep them in order. Erricone is, as ever, the leader. He and the others continually interrupt, question, and insult the informer, Abbatemaggio. Then they quarrel furiously among themselves, egged on by Erricone, who laughs, and then defies the court so far as he dares.

The other day Erricone stood up in the cage, amid the harangue of one of the lawyers, and cried out that Abbatemaggio must be kept in order; that he had made the sign of the evil eye at him, and that, even though he was but a poor, innocent prisoner, he would not allow himself to be so insulted.

As it happened, Abbatemaggio had gone to sleep under the eloquence of the defender of the prisoners, but the moment he understood what was going forward he began to make frantic "horns," as they call it, rousing the whole cage of prisoners, until the carabineers had to enter and forcibly restore order. Abbatemaggio could not believe his good luck in having had a way of enraging his enemies pointed out to him by themselves, and had only to catch the eye of one of them to make the insulting sign.

Erricone has lost weight of late, as have several other prisoners, while the priest Vitozzi is stouter and oilier than ever. He says little, but sits whispering what he desires to have it supposed are prayers for his enemies, but which are probably long and deep maledictions. He is the most repulsive figure at the trial. A body snatcher and grave desecrator, a Camorrist, and consorter with thieves, he still wears his gown and poses as a humble, meek, and misunderstood servant of God.

A great crowd of people are expected in Viterbo for the verdict.

The hotels are filling up, as also are the low resorts of the town, where the friends of the prisoners are gathering to give them a rousing reception when they are released, (as their friends are confident they will be,) after more than six years spent in prison.

CLOSE ON IVONET'S HEELS.

Cuban Troops Are After Rebel Leader Who Broke Through Cordon.

SANTIAGO, June 30.—Gen. Monteagudo reports that the insurgent leader, Ivonet, has escaped through the cordon of Government troops, and is fleeing in the direction of Guantanamo. The Cuban Commander in Chief says that Ivonet's destination is known, and that every precaution has been taken to prevent his escape, and also to effect the capture of Antomarchi, who is being hotly pursued near El Cobra.

Ivonet has sent a letter to his sister saying the situation is desperate, but he will never surrender, preferring suicide when further flight is impossible.

HAVANA, June 30.—El Dia, which recently charged President Gomez with conspiring with Gen. Estenoz to start the revolution, now charges the President with malversation with respect to public funds to the amount of $1,000,000. The paper says that the President diverted funds appropriated for various departments to the secret service, and prints an order of Gomez on the Secretary of Public Works for $2,400 and the receipt therefor by the palace paymaster on account of secret service.

It is pointed out that on El Dia's own showing the acts of the President, while possibly illegal, were matters of official record, without any attempt at secrecy.

Reports from Oriente say that Col. Ramon Miranda, Estenoz's Chief of Staff, and minor officers have been killed.

MORE TIME TO BUY "SALOME"

Knoedler & Co. Will Hold the Painting for the Louvre Till December.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 30.—Knoedler & Co. announce that instead of shipping Regnault's "Salome" to New York as planned, they will keep the famous painting here at the disposal of the Louvre until the end of December, in order to give the committee, which has started a public subscription, time to collect enough funds to buy the painting.

The Knoedlers' new and generous offer has been received with the greatest satisfaction.

John D. Ryan Visits Rome and Venice

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ROME, June 30.—John D. Ryan, President of the Amalgamated Copper Company, has been in Rome for a few days. Letters of introduction from Archbishop Ireland, of whom he is a close friend opened many doors to him, including the bronze door of the Vatican, which leads to the presence of the Pontiff. He left the other day for Venice, where he visited with great interest the new Campanile and the Internation Exhibition of Fine Arts, to which he was attracted by Joseph Pennell's famous poster.

ACCEPT NICARAGUAN PLAN.

French Bondholders Indorse Proposed Agreement, but Would Avoid Taxes.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, June 30.—At a general meeting to-day of the French holders of the Nicaraguan 6 per cent. bonds of 1909 a resolution accepting the proposed agreement for the settlement of the debt was passed unanimously.

Although the question is, therefore, settled theoretically, the acceptance by French bondholders of the new propositions will not become fact until all the certificates are duly stamped. The application of this special stamp, which constitutes the only proof of the owner's acceptance of the new agreement, involves the depositing of all certificates with a bank, specially appointed, and several bondholders who were present at to-day's meeting, although agreeing in principle, signified their intention to study the question thoroughly before taking further steps.

The fact that the new certificates will be considered by the French financial authorities exactly as a new emission, and will, therefore, be subject to a 2 per cent. tax, is the chief reason that makes French bondholders not very enthusiastic over the new proposals. It is probable that an attempt will be made by the bondholders to make the Banque Commercial, which handles the bonds of France, responsible for the new taxation.

SWEDISH OLYMPIC TRIALS.

Mediocre Performances Mark Tests in Stockholm Stadium.

It is generally conceded that if the strength of the Swedish Olympic team was shown in the recent trials held in the Stadium at Stockholm, reports of which have just reached here, the hope of the home talent in regard to even finishing second to the United States team in the games which begin next Saturday was considerably dimmed, as the performances on the whole were mediocre, with those of only one event, the javelin, bettering American marks.

The runs were won in slow time on the whole, with the hurdle the class performance in this department of the sport. The two top-notch performances of the series were the pole vault, won by C. Gillie, with 12 feet 8¾ inches, and the javelin, which E. Lenning threw 188 feet 5⅝ inches with his right, and 131 feet 2⅝ inches with his left hand.

At the French championships, which were used as a medium to determine the make-up of the French Olympic team, some surprising performances were the outcome. In the sprint race at 100 meters, the new crack, Mourlon, followed up his victory in the championship at Paris by another great win. He beat Lesieur by five yards in the qualifying heat, and won the final, with three yards to spare, in 11 seconds.

The greatest surprise of the meeting was the defeat of Coulle in the 800 meters. The latter ran a poor race, going off at a quarter-mile pace, and collapsed when the Belgian born cross-country man, Jacques Keyser, tackled him in the straight, winning handily in 1.59 2-5. Motte won the standing broad jump, with the clever leap of 10 feet 7½ inches.

PREDICTS ETNA OUTBREAK.

Prof. Frank Perret Says Another Catastrophe Is Coming in a Few Years

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 30.—Frank Alvord Perret, an associate of the Department of Geology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who has made a study of volcanoes and earthquakes, predicts that Italy will soon be visited by another catastrophe. He foretold the eruption of Mount Aetna in 1910. After the eruption of 1906 the King of Italy decorated him. Since then he has remained within the zone of volcanic activity, coming to Boston at rare intervals and remaining only a short time.

"Having devoted my life," says Prof. Perret, "to the study of earth disturbances that have caused the loss of almost countless lives, I have through purely scientific means been able to judge approximately the time of volcanic eruptions before they occur. I believe that we may look for another eruption of Mount Aetna within three or four years.

"To learn the nature of volcanic eruptions, it is absolutely necessary to be at the crater at the time of eruption. For two weeks during the latest activity of Mount Aetna, I suffered untold tortures from the terrible heat, dust, and poisonous gases, and have not yet fully recovered from the terrible burns received at the very edge of the seething caldron of fire."

AMERICAN ATHLETES REACH STOCKHOLM

RESPONSE BY BOYS ON SHIP

Col. Thompson Charters Yacht for Stay Abroad—City Beautifully Decorated for Olympic Athletic Festival.

STOCKHOLM, June 30.—An immense crowd of those identified with the Olympic Games, including the principal members of the Swedish committee and the entire track team, greeted the steamer Finland, which carried the American athletes here, when she docked near the heart of the Scandinavian metropolis at 9 o'clock this morning. During the half hour in which the steamer was tying up the Swedes sang Swedish and American songs. The American contingent lining the rails, followed suit, and the ship's band played National airs.

Ernie Hjertberg, well known in American athletics, who is now the trainer of the Swedish team; J. S. Edstrom, Vice President of the Swedish Olympic Committee, and members of the American Legation, headed the delegation which boarded the Finland. Mr. Edstrom made a speech of welcome, in which he said that he expected the Americans to win the Olympic honors, but he added that the Swedes hoped to teach them something.

Col. Robert M. Thompson, President of the New York Athletic Club, replied that the Americans hoped to win. He said that the large representation was a sign of esteem for Sweden and a desire to get acquainted with the country.

The Finland is said to be the largest ship which has ever docked at Stockholm, and the Americans are conceded to constitute the star attraction of the Olympic Games. Hence thousands of residents and members of rival teams in shifting groups inspected the ship throughout the day, until late in the afternoon, when she moved into midstream. The Finland will remain there so that the athletes may have the benefit of isolation and quiet.

Dressed with the flags of the American colleges and athletic clubs, and swarming with stalwart athletes in neat uniforms, the steamer commanded great admiration. The latter part of the voyage from Antwerp was slow because great caution was necessary to pilot such a craft in. The steamer Baltic was passed last night, anchored forty miles below Stockholm.

The majority of the American team made no attempt at exercise to-day except to take long walks. The training grounds are in the suburb of Rasunde, where a football contest was being played this afternoon.

The Swedish officers have extended every facility to Col. Frederick S. Foltz, who is in charge of the American Army officers. The horses were immediately disembarked.

The Marathon runners have taken up quarters in a country inn, where they will train along the course.

Col. Thompson has gone aboard a yacht chartered for the occasion, where he is entertaining a party.

James E. Sullivan, special American Commissioner, has established an office at a hotel in the city, while Matthew Halpin, manager of the American team, and a majority of the American committee will remain on shipboard.

Stockholm presents a festive appearance. The streets are decorated with thousands of Swedish flags, blue with a yellow cross, on poles planted a hundred feet apart. The flags of other nationalities represented at the Olympic Games are interspersed in profusion. The contestants from the various countries, all wearing distinctive uniforms, and easily recognized by National devices on their hat bands, are seen everywhere. The open spaces are crowded with athletes practicing every form of sports. Between 2,000 and 3,000 of them have arrived here.

Americans predominate among the visitors at the hotels. The Russian is the only other contingent with quarters on shipboard—the steamer Birma, which appears an infant in comparison with the Finland. The weather, as in 1908, favors the Americans, who are more accustomed to heat than their British rivals. The thermometer for the past four days has stood at about 90 degrees.

FLEE BERTHED SHIPS ABLAZE

Captains and Crews Narrowly Escape in Portland Wharf Fire.

PORTLAND, Me., June 30.—Portland's water front, the scene of several big fires, was again seriously threatened by flames early to-day, when damage of more than $100,000 was caused in a wharf blaze. Two Boston vessels, the barkentine Kremlin and the three-masted schooner Sallie I'On, which had just finished discharging lumber from a Southern port, were burned so badly that they can never go to sea again. The crews of both had narrow escapes.

Beakes's Wharf, where the fire started, and State Street Wharf, near by, both of which are occupied by the Wilson Lumber Company, were badly damaged, and between $60,000 and $70,000 worth of valuable lumber was destroyed. Sturtevant's Wharf was also on fire at one time, but strenuous work by the Fire Department, the fire boat, the revenue cutter Woodbury's crew and several tugboats prevented any further spread of the flames.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The crews of the two burned vessels had little warning, and had to abandon ship in a hurry. Capt. Green of the Sallie I'On, with his mate, jumped overboard and grasped a piece of floating timber, from which they were rescued later by the fire boat. Capt. Alfred Warner of Boston, of the barkentine Kremlin, barely managed to take his wife and three children to safety, and was obliged to leave behind nearly all their personal belongings. In his cabin was $1,400 in cash, which was lost.

ITALY'S DIPLOMAT MAY GO.

Rome Hears the Ambassador Here Is to Get New Post.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ROME, June 30.—The Marquis Cusani Confalonieri, Italian Ambassador at Washington, is expected here during July, and if reports are correct he may not return to his post in the United States. He is being included in a large diplomatic movement, which is to take place soon, and which also includes the Italian Embassies in Berlin and Vienna.

Thus the Ambassadorship at Washington will again be open. The post is much sought after for the prominence which the Ambassador has in society, but it is marred because of the cost of living and entertaining in the American capital, which, according to recent reports, now surpasses St. Petersburg, which until a few years ago was considered the most expensive residence for a diplomatist.

DEFER PEKING-PARIS FLIGHT.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, June 30.—The Peking-to-Paris air race, which was announced to take place in September, has been postponed till May, 1913, owing to builders being unable to get ready some special machines necessary for the contest and to further scientific evidence showing that conditions in East Siberia are more favorable to the success of the enterprise in early Spring than in the Fall.

TO MARRY PARIS LAWYER.

Miss Edith Lee Baker of Chicago Will Become M. Charpiot's Bride.

LU IS CHINA'S NEW PREMIER.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs Takes the Place of Tang.

PEKING, June 30.—Lu Cheng-Hsiang, Minister of Foreign Affairs in the present Cabinet, has been appointed Premier, to succeed Tang Shao Yi, whose resignation was accepted by President Yuan yesterday.

The Assembly has indorsed the appointment by a vote of 74 to 10. The large majority indicates the declining power of Tang Shao Yi's party and the increase of Yuan Shi Kai's influence.

PORRAS WINS IN PANAMA.

Polling in Principal Towns Gives His Ticket Big Majorities.

PANAMA, June 30.—The returns from the municipal elections up to 9 o'clock to-night show that the Porras tickets have won by big majorities in the principal towns of the Departments of Panama, Colon, Coole, and Chiriqui. Returns have not yet been received from the Departments of Veragua, Los Santos, and Bocas Del Torro.

In the City of Panama the Porras candidates had an overwhelming majority. The American Commissioners were in charge of affairs until 6 o'clock, and the elections were conducted peacefully. After their departure there were several disturbances.

SAMUEL J. LITTLE DROWNED.

Pittsburgh Lumberman Falls from Launch in Allegheny River.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, June 30.—Samuel J. Little, head of the S. J. Little Planing Mill and Manufacturing Company and one of the most prominent lumbermen of this city, was drowned in the Allegheny River late last night, soon after he and a party of friends had embarked on Mr. Little's steam yacht at the Sixth Street bridge. They had planned a river cruise, which was to last until Monday morning.

The launch returned to the landing for more supplies, and as it drew near the landing stage Mr. Little prepared to jump, but stepped on a plank, which tilted, and he fell into the river. He was within reach of his friends, but they were too startled to aid him. Although Mr. Little was an excellent swimmer, he was drowned, and the body was not recovered for nearly a half hour.

HOULI, 30 TO 1, WINS GRAND PRIX IN RAIN

In Close Race for the Blue Ribbon of the French Turf Belmont Horse Runs Fourth.

FASHION'S FINEST DISPLAY

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, June 30.—Although enormous crowds journeyed to the Longchamps racecourse for the Grand Prix de Paris this afternoon, the wet weather robbed the meeting of its customary elegance. Just as the bell rang for the chief event, a drenching downpour began. Few persons could see the race, owing to the forest of umbrellas.

There was a record entry of twenty-one runners, the winner, after a fast race, being Achille Fould's Houli, at 30 to 1. Count le Marois's Wagram II. was second, and Baron Gourgaud's de Viris third. August Belmont's Amoureux III. was fourth, while W. K. Vanderbilt's Sightly, the only other American entry, was not placed. The Grand Prix this year brought the winner about $73,800.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, who during the last few days has paid several visits to the principal dressmaking firms, was on the course early in the afternoon to see the effect of the new gowns, a majority of which, later in the day, were utterly spoiled by the heavy downpour, while the rest were hidden from view by mackintoshes.

Although the robe fourreau will be considered in quite bad taste by the woman of fashion during the Summer, the straight, narrow appearance will be retained. Accordion-pleated soft material, either satin or voile, will give the desired effect and at the same time afford perfect freedom of movement.

The majority of skirts, however, are far from simple. Some show a suggestion of panniers. Others have a tunic of transparent material, lace or ninon, reaching far to the knees, while many are elaborately draped in soft folds toward the back. The latter style might be considered the principal tendency of the coming fashion.

As to bodices, there is a decided inclination to have them fit tightly, with transparent yoke reaching very low in the back and front.

Another welcome novelty is a return to the Watteau pleat, which is obtained either by turning in the front of a short tunic or by soft ninon or lace, falling from the shoulders and gathered around the pleated skirt, just below the knees. In both cases the effect is exceedingly graceful. Embroidered tulle and lace of all descriptions and qualities and false buttonings are the favorite trimmings.

In a general way, the Summer will see a quantity of tulle and embroidered ninon, while mousseline de soie never enjoyed a greater vogue, whole dresses being made of it, preferably white with a thin fur edging. White fur is also used as trimming on dark mousseline.

By way of diversion from the Watteau pleat, a fine model of a short, pleated mousseline tunic, opened in the front, and giving the appearance of a man's cutaway coat, is offered. In this case the underskirt is adorned with lace insertion or embroidered ribbons, which are tied in a soft knot in the back.

In great contrast to these elaborate gowns are dresses of the utmost simplicity in style and coloring. This simple fashion is generally carried out in white, and is especially suitable for youthful figures. Soft white satin, veiled with a white net tunic, edged with satin, and opened at the front showing a skirt, trimmed with false buttoning, running from the waist to the hem is the material preferred. A waistband of considerable width in pink or blue finishes this charming toilette.

The sleeves of all the models retain the kimone shape, being either elbow length or reaching to the hand.

For morning attire printed voile of some old-fashioned patterns is a useful addition to the smart woman's wardrobe.

As far as headgear is concerned, the days of simple shapes, trimmed with a single rich osprey, as a popular beginning of the season, are over. Huge flop shapes, elaborately trimmed on the brim with Summer flowers and ribbons, have come to take their place. Ospreys are now worn only on very large hats, made entirely of black and white or all white tulle.

By way of a daring novelty a pure Watteau style of hats, highly poised on the back of the head and naturally requiring a special coiffure, were worn at Longchamps by a few manniquins of smart makers, but seem uniquely to meet with great favor.

Owing to the weather fewer Americans witnessed the Grand Prix than for years past. Among those seen in the paddock were Ambassador and Mrs. Herrick, who were the guests of M. Fallières in the Presidential box. Mrs. Herrick wore a black taffeta tailor suit, and a black straw hat with black aigrettes.

Also in the paddock were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burns, the latter in a green satin gown with a white hat, adorned with bird of paradise plumes; Mrs. Henry Seigel, in a black satin coat and skirt with a black hat and osprey plume, Mrs. Cavendish-Bentinck, also in black with a hat to match; Mrs. C. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Barton French, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Gillespie, Mrs. George Sheldon, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. M. MacMillan of New York, Sidney Platt, Judge Coyne, T. T. MacCreery, F. T. Martin, Henry Sands, and Mr. and Mrs. N. Mayers.

Mrs. L. B. Chase wore a long black satin wrap and a small black hat, trimmed with plumes.

Miss Clementine Brevoort was in primrose satin, trimmed with mousseline and black velvet, and wore a large cream hat, garnished with pink roses.

Mrs. Cortlandt Bishop, who arrived only this morning from a European automobile tour with her husband, wore a black filet lace tunic over a taffeta gown and a picture hat.

The Duchess de Talleyrand was dressed in lilac taffeta and black velvet and wore a small hat of tulle, covered with black and white osprey plumes.

Mrs. Arthur Valois was in dark green satin with an overdress and corsage trimmings in grenn mousseline, and a green straw hat with cream plumes.

Mrs. John MacArthur wore a shot-blue taffeta dress, garnished with old lace. Small black hat with flowers completed her costume.

Mrs. David J. Hill was all in black satin.

In the evening several dinner parties were given at the Ritz. Among those who entertained were Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Chase, W. Kirkland, Mr. Seigel, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lehr, S. Biddle, Mrs. Fred Bell, Mrs. W. P. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. George Blumenthal, Mr. and Mrs. William Iselin, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Winter.

M. Newhouse and R. Van Wyck entertained friends at dinner at Armenonville, while at the Ciros M. MacMillan, T. Mayers, and G. Kessler had several guests at their tables.

PARIS, June 30.—The Grand Prix de Paris is a three-year-old event at one mile and seven furlongs. Houli was quoted at 30 to 1, Wagram II., 34 to 1, De Viris 21 to 1, and Amoreux III. at 14 to 1.

Amoureux III., Friant, Floraison, and Catmint ran into the lead at the start. The field trailed closely, however, and coming into the straight they were bunched, De Viris slightly in advance. Houli then shot to the front with Wagram in attendance. They finished in that order, Houli winning by one length, with Wagram one length in front of De Viris, which was half a length ahead of Amoureux.

BISHOP FARRELLY IN ROME.

Cleveland Prelate Is Warmly Welcomed—Talks Politics with the Pope.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ROME, June 30.—Mgr. Farrelly is in Rome for the first time since May, 1909, when he was consecrated Bishop of Cleveland. It may be said that few Bishops are received here with the same cordiality and friendliness, owing to the many years of devoted and arduous work he gave to the American College. He is now the guest of the same American College, where so much of his energy was expended.

Bishop Farrelly has been received in private audience by the Pope, who had the great satisfaction of hearing from him in Italian how things were going in America, both in the Catholic field and otherwise. The Pontiff especially appreciated his description of the Presidential campaign.

The Bishop also visited Merry del Val and several other Cardinals and prominent dignitaries of the Church.

MORGAN MY MASCOT, DECLARES KAISER

Only Time the Emperor's Yacht Won at Kiel Was When the New Yorker Was Aboard.

OFTEN THE MONARCH'S GUEST

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 30.—The Kaiser has declared J. Pierpont Morgan his mascot. The only time his Majesty's yacht Meteor contrived to win a race during Kiel week was when the New Yorker was aboard, and the Emperor generously gave the American credit for the victory.

The Kaiser's attentions to Mr. Morgan were the outstanding feature of a week which was more than usually full of international pleasantries. Mr. Morgan took luncheon and dinner twice aboard the Hohenzollern, was with the Emperor on a dozen other occasions, and, after the Meteor's successful race, was personally escorted back to his yacht, the Corsair, by his imperial host.

The Corsair, by the Kaiser's orders, had the anchorage of honor in Kiel Bay, being immediately adjacent to the imperial yacht.

The Kaiser's entertainment of Mr. Morgan was equaled only by the Crown Prince's conspicuous courtesies to the daughters of Ambassador Leishman, the Countess Gontaut-Biron and Nancy Leishman. He was tireless in showing them hospitalities of one kind or another, had them aboard his racing schooner, took them to tea often at the yacht club, and danced with them repeatedly at the ball aboard the Hohenzollern.

As a parting attention to the ladies of the Leishman party, the Crown Prince motored to Berlin from Kiel in the same caravan with their car, taking luncheon with them on the way.

The annual flow of invective against the imperial family's attentions to wealthy Americans is already finding expression in the press, and it will receive fresh impetus when it is generally learned that the Crown Princess, instead of journeying back to Dantzig from Kiel with her husband, preferred to go there aboard Mrs. Robert Goelet's yacht, the Nahma, arriving there to-day.

TENACITY WINS A BRIDE.

Henry Charpiot Would Not Take "No" from Miss Baker.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, June 30.—Miss Edith Lee Baker of Chicago, who is now living in Paris, is to marry Henry Charles Charpiot, a member of the Paris bar, on July 24.

CHICAGO, June 30.—Miss Edith Lee Baker, who is to marry Henry C. Charpiot in Paris, is the daughter of the late E. F. Baker, President of the Western Refrigerating Company of Chicago. She and her mother have lived in Paris several years, having inherited considerable property.

Miss Baker has done much mountain climbing. Her most notable exploit was the ascent of Breithorn, one of the most difficult peaks in the Alps. No other woman, it is said, ever accomplished this feat.

Mr. Charpiot, who is a Cornell graduate, has been practicing law in Paris several years. He first met Miss Baker three years ago. A proposal followed close on the introduction, but Miss Baker was wrapped up in her study of music and her mountain climbing. Refusal did not shatter the young attorney's determination, and several other proposals are said to have followed quickly.

Miss Baker and her mother returned to Chicago two years ago. Mr. Charpiot followed and announced that he had come to accept another "refusal."

Mrs. Edmond F. Dodge of 3,865 Lake Avenue is a sister of Miss Baker.

"Aside from his other qualities, I fancy that it was his tenacity that won him his success," Mrs. Dodge said to-night. "At any rate, they went back to Paris engaged."

RUSH SUBWAY WORK WITH THE WAY CLEAR

AND $261,000,000 ON CALL

The City Will Have 105 Miles of New Lines in Operation in 1916 and Rapid Transit to Every Section.

Following the decision of the Court of Appeals recognizing the validity of the proposed preferential payments on subway contracts to the Interborough and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, the work of building the $261,000,000 dual rapid transit system will be rushed in earnest, as the city officials immediately concerned are eager to be at it, after being long beset by difficulties and delays. It will add to the rapid transit routes 105.5 miles of subways and elevated lines, bringing the total up to 172.4 miles. These figures do not include surface and trolley lines, and they mean road miles, and not trackage. The total trackage of the new lines will be 308.84 miles, which will bring the total of subway and elevated track mileage in the city up to 486.74, a total greater than the distance to Buffalo.

All that now remains to be done to put the business arrangements in shape is the signing of the operating contracts, a detail which may take a month, largely dependent upon the attitude of the Board of Estimate, which may find some objections, but meanwhile work is already in progress on the Lower Broadway subway extension between the Post Office and Bleecker Street and on the Lexington Avenue route between Twenty-sixth Street and 130th Street. The Fourth Avenue Subway in Brooklyn is all but completed, and the loop connecting the Brooklyn Bridge with the Williamsburg Bridge has long been finished except for the section under the new Municipal Building at the Brooklyn Bridge entrance.

Work once fully started—and it is believed that construction will be in full swing all over the city by Sept. 1—will be pushed rapidly, particularly in the territory in which the Interborough comes into competition with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system. Both systems are expected to be in full operation by 1916.

Broadly described, the new and old systems will link up the outermost sections of the Bronx, Queens, and Brooklyn with the heart of the city, and will put the entire city's population within walking distance or a short trolley ride of some one of the rapid transit stations, and, in point of time, within an hour's travel from the most remote sections to business, shopping, or theatre centre.

Financing for the enterprises of both systems has already been settled. It is less than two weeks since the bankers of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company successfully offered $40,000,000 of the $60,000,000 six-year notes, the proceeds of which are to be used for construction, the notes to be superseded by the mortgage bonds of the subway company which that system is to incorporate. The Interborough provided for the financial requirements of its extensions by the sale of $170,000,000 of new first mortgage 5 per cent. fifty-year bonds, to be disposed of in specified amounts each year up to 1916.

The cost of the dual system's new lines, exclusive of the Fourth Avenue (Brooklyn) Subway, and the Bridge Loop, is estimated at approximately $261,000,000, including $47,000,000 for equipment, but not counting approximately $25,000,000 which the Interborough will spend upon extensions and improvements of the Manhattan elevated system.

On the new lines of the Interborough's system the city's share of the expenditures will be slightly less than $60,000,000, and the company's about $56,000,000, to which the addition of $21,000,000 for equipment will bring the Interborough's expenditure up to $77,000,000. In the new lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company the city's share of construction costs will be nearly $65,000,000. The city's additional investment in the Fourth Avenue and Bridge Loop lines, which are to be taken into the Brooklyn system, will be about $28,500,000 more. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company will spend $34,000,000 on construction and $26,000,000 on equipment.

Summarized, the expenditures by the city for the new lines of the dual system will be $124,372,200, and for the nearly completed Fourth Avenue and Bridge Loop lines, $28,486,000 more, a total of $152,858,200. The operating companies will, between them, spend $90,000,000 on construction, and $47,000,000 on equipment, a total of $137,000,000, or $15,858,200 less than the city.

The city's share in the financing will require about $100,000,000 of new funds, $28,000,000 it has already invested in the nearly completed lines is credited on account, and it has $20,000,000 or more cash available. The $100,000,000 of new cash required will not be needed for several years, and may be obtained under the new law by short-term corporate notes and bond issues.

It is believed that the city will raise all but a small proportion of the whole without resort to bond issues at all.

The Interborough will need out of its $170,000,000 about $78,000,000 between July 1, this year, and June 30, 1913; $30,000,000 in each of the two succeeding years, and $32,000,000 between July 1, 1915, and June 30, 1916. Nearly $51,000,000 will go to refunding its present debt. Of the balance, $56,000,000 represents the requirements of new subway construction; about $30,000,000 the Manhattan Railway improvements; about $21,000,000 the equipment of the new subways, and $9,500,000 other charges, including discounts.

As fine school buildings as there are in the state are the new Mayflower and Columbus Schools. Their arrangement and equipment are the last word in school building construction. In all, there are 10 schools in New Rochelle with 159 teachers. The High School, but recently completed, is a model of its kind. Its architecture is classic, while its site is ideal. The high school courses prepare for admission to any college in the country. It also includes a full commercial course. Six hundred and fifty pupils are now attending it. In all the schools of there is manual training, music, drawing, and a good system of physical culture, while kindergarten classes are conducted in all the primary schools. There are evening school courses in High School, and elementary subjects as well as lectures in connection with the evening schools. Playgrounds are equipped for the use of children during the summer vacation, and trained teachers are in charge. There probably is not a city in the entire state so well equipped to provide educational opportunities. These facts cannot but appeal most strongly to heads of families who contemplate changing their residence. New Rochelle is easily accessible from New York by three electric Railroads, the New Haven Main Line, the Harlem River Branch, and the newly opened N. Y., Westchester & Boston, which have in the aggregate seven stations in the city limits. "New Rochelle is certainly one fine place to live." for information.

Cinematograph Films Are Held to be Dutiable as Photographs.

The claim made by Wells Fargo & Co. before the Board of United States General Appraisers in regard to cinematograph films has been sustained, in spite of the fact that the importer cited the wrong paragraph of the Tariff act in making his protest. The merchandise in question consists of films for moving-picture machines, and return for duty was made at 65 cents a pound and 25 per cent. ad valorem, under the provisions of Paragraph 17 of the Tariff act of 1897. The importer contended that the duty should have been assessed at 25 per cent. under Paragraph 404, as photographs, whereas Paragraph 403 should have been named to cover such provision. On the authority of many decisions of the board and the courts, however, the protests were held to be sufficient to reverse the Collector's decision.

Another protest has been sustained by the board in the case of J. J. Buchey & Co. and George Borgfeldt & Co. in regard to films for toy moving-picture machines and glass slides for toy magic lanterns. Duty was assessed on the films at 1½ cents a foot and on the glass slides at 45 per cent. ad valorem. The board agrees with the contention of the protestants that the goods in question are toys and are dutiable at 35 per cent. ad valorem.

The entry of the Denver Dry Goods Company on a consignment of fans has been ordered reliquidated in accordance with the company's protest. The goods were returned as being composed in part of cotton lace and duty assessed at the rate of 60 per cent. ad valorem as "articles made wholly or in part of lace." The importers held that the goods were properly dutiable at 50 per cent. as "fans of all kinds, except common palm leaf fans." In accordance with the previous decision of the Court of Customs Appeals the protest is sustained.

In the protest filed by P. H. Petry & Co., the Collector at this port had classified certain articles of iron at 45 per cent. duty, and it was contended that they were dutiable at one cent a pound as "advanced forms of castings of iron." One of the items involved in the importers' protest called for "six hard cast rollers with shafts, partly machined." As the roller and shaft are permanently fitted to one another, the board holds that a combined article of this description partakes of the character of machinery rather than that of a mere casting of iron, and in this respect the protest is overruled. In regard to the cast iron frames the protest is sustained and reliquidation will follow.

GIVES ADVICE TO BANKS.

Controller of Currency Wants to Improve Examinations by Directors.

In order to make the supervision of National banks by their Directors more effective, the Controller of the Currency has prepared a series of suggestions for banks whose system of control has not met with his approval. The Controller has made a study of the reports sent by all of the banks to the Controller, showing the results of annual or semi-annual examinations of committees of Directors.

According to the National City Bank's circular for July, many of these reports showed the examinations to have been deficient in a number of features essential to a thorough understanding of the bank's affairs.

The Controller's suggestions now being sent out are not to be taken as a prescribed form, but as a guide in promoting really effective examinations by the banks' own officers.

They cover eleven points, beginning with the procedure necessary to properly check cash, securities, and notes held. In dealing with the examination of cash the point is made that any improper items, such as unposted checks held for the purpose of not showing overdrafts, and any other items that cannot be readily converted into cash should be reported.

It is specified in the instructions about checking securities held that "any stocks held by the bank should be listed with a statement showing the reasons the securities were taken by the bank."

The suggested methods of verifying note items are particularly thorough, and the Controller says under this head:

> The notes should be carefully checked and their total compared with the general ledger. The genuineness, value, and security of each note, and of any collateral thereto, should be carefully determined, and any losses ascertained, or probable, in the judgment of the committee, should be noted. The liabilities of each of the larger borrowers, and loans to affiliated interests, should be aggregated and carefully considered. The report should also show the general character of the loans; whether well distributed; the general character of the collateral; whether corporations in which officers or Directors are interested borrow to an undue extent; also any large liabilities of the officers or Directors. It should also be shown whether all paper claimed by the bank as its own property, including collaterals, is properly indorsed or assigned to it, and all mortgages recorded. Any loans exceeding 10 per cent. of the capital and surplus of the bank should be reported. The signatures of all note makers and indorsers should be carefully scrutinized and any erasures and alterations or any indications of manipulation should be carefully investigated and reported to the full board. All overdue paper should be listed and comment made as to its collectibility.

Several of the suggestions are designed to close all possible loopholes of embezzlement.

Other suggestions are made to insure the discovery and reporting in full of excess loans, losses from overdrafts, &c., and other matters affecting the banks' stability and prosperity as well as their solvency.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to:

9,105. LEAF TOBACCO—A merchant in a Mediterranean city dealing in tobacco desires to be placed in communication with an American shipper of leaf tobacco. Correspondence should be in Italian.

9,106. KEROSENE MARINE MOTORS—An American Consul in the Far East reports that an inquiry has been received from a local business man for two kerosene marine motors from 15 to 18 horse power. The motors are to be used in a vessel 85 feet long, 15½ feet beam, and with a draught of 2½ feet. It is intended that this vessel should tow a barge loaded with cargo weighing 200 tons, and the vessel will be used on rivers where the stream flows at times at the rate of eight miles per hour.

9,107. SHEET IRON—A business man in a foreign country informs an American Consulate that he desires to purchase about twenty tons of sheet iron of the following dimensions: Three-sixteenth inch, one-eighth inch, and one-sixteenth inch. Correspondence may be in English.

9,108. FIREARMS AND RIFLES—The proprietor of an establishment in the Orient handling principally firearms desires to purchase Remington rifles direct from the United States, and not through European agents. He has informed an American Consul that in corresponding with American firms they have stated that they cannot sell to him direct, but must do business through agents in other countries. He desires to deal with firms direct, and is anxious to receive catalogues, with export price lists and discounts, as soon as possible.

9,109. MUNICIPAL LIGHTING PLANT—At a recent meeting of a Town Council in the Far East it was suggested that the town erect a central electric lighting plant, as there is great dissatisfaction with the light received at present, for which high rates are charged. An American Consul suggests that information regarding this matter should be addressed to the Town Council in question.

9,110. MEMORIAL BUILDING—A foreign Government proposes to erect a memorial building in commemoration of recent events which happened in the country. The estimated cost of carrying out the design in white marble is $260,000, and the money has been provided for this purpose. No definite time has been set for the commencement of the memorial, but it is anticipated that very little delay will occur. Copy of the complete report, containing further details, can be secured from the Bureau of Manufactures.

9,111. AUTOMATIC APPARATUS.—A Russian business house desires to enter into relations with such American manufacturers as make a speciality of automatic apparatus of various kinds in the way of public novelties such as cameras, etc., the idea being to introduce the latest inventions in these lines. An American Consul suggests that firms interested should write the merchant. Correspondence in Russian is preferred, otherwise German or French.

9,112. BUILDING MATERIAL, HARDWARE, NOTIONS, STATIONERY, ETC.—A report from an American Consulate in Mexico states that a local business man is now in the United States, where he will purchase large quantities of merchandise and building material, as well as furniture, for a new store, which his firm is at present erecting. Most likely he will want lines of notions, fancy hardware, stationery, and fancy articles for a general hardware assortment. His address while in the United States can be obtained from the Bureau of Manufacturers.

9,113. MACHINE TOOLS AND WOOD WORKING MACHINERY.—In a recent conversation with members of a business firm in his district an American Consul was requested to obtain the names of firms in the United States that desire agents in the country in question. The inquirers state their firm is sufficiently established with means to send agents to the whole of the country. The firm is particularly interested in technical, electro technical, and chemical products, as well as raw materials of various kinds. It also desires connections for machine tools and wood working machinery. A special automatic tool, dimensions of which can be secured from the Bureau of Manufactures, is needed. Correspondence should be sent direct to the firm and may be in English, French or German.

9,114. HEAVY OILS AND BITUMINOUS COAL.—An American Consul in a European country reports that a business man in his district desires to be put in communication with first class exporters of heavy oils and bituminous coal. Prices should be quoted, cost, insurance, and freight, city of destination.

9,115. AGENCY FOR AMERICAN GOODS.—An American Consular officer in Canada reports that a company in his district would like to obtain the sales agency for a certain section in that country. This firm does business with mine owners, manufacturers, water and electrical power companies, and the building trade generally, and is interested in any lines that would be of service to any of the foregoing classes.

9,116. POWER, LIGHT, AND TRACTION COMPANY.—An American Consul has submitted a report dealing with the prospects for the establishment of a light, power, and traction company in a city of his district. It would appear to be a favorable opportunity for the employment of American capital. A copy of the complete report, giving further detailed information, will be sent to interested persons by the Bureau of Manufactures.

9,117. AMERICAN GOODS OF VARIOUS KINDS.—American manufacturers and exporters desiring to introduce their goods in a certain foreign country are requested to send their catalogues, current prices, and all information which may be serviceable to certain Government officials, who will place the data at the disposition of the public. Copies of catalogues, price lists, &c., should also be sent to the American Consular officer, who forwarded the report, further details of which can be obtained from the Bureau of Manufactures.

9,118. MOTOR TRUCKS.—An American Consul has submitted a complete statement concerning the demonstration trial of motor trucks to be held in his district during September of the present year, the exact date of which has not yet been determined. As a result of these tests it is expected that thirty to forty cars will be purchased by the Government for use in certain branches of the service. American cars seem to be regarded with favor, and their merits are frequently commented on by officials in the country in question. Copy of the complete report, containing the conditions governing the trial, method of conducting the same, and further details, is on file in the Bureau of Manufactures, and will be loaned to interested manufacturers.

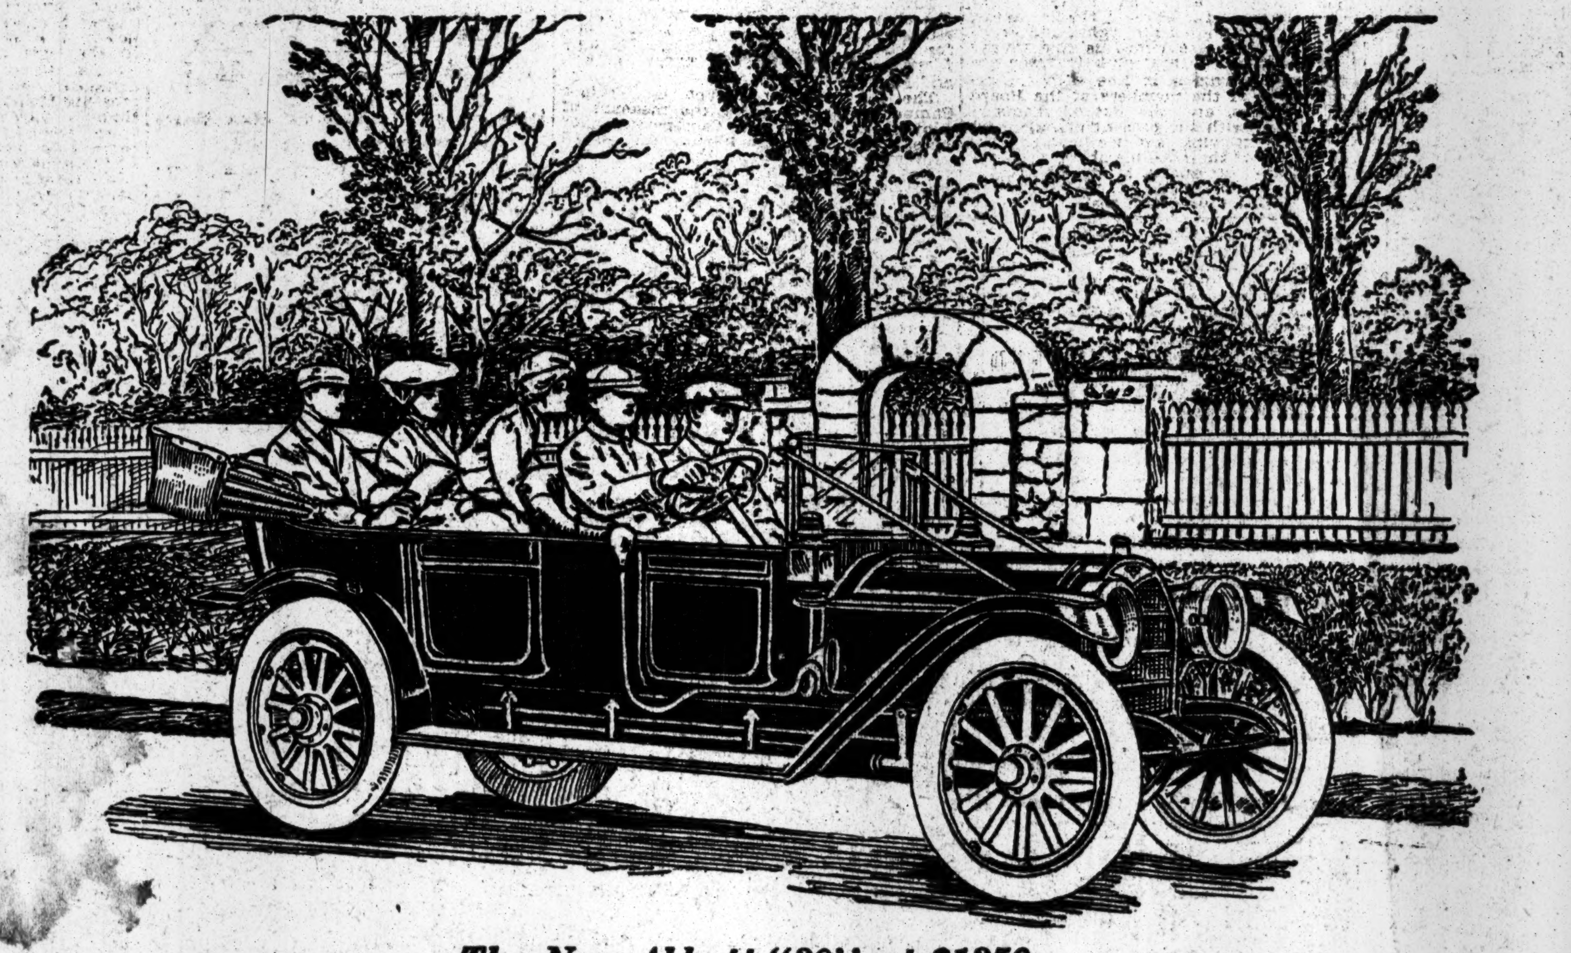
Your Used Car
And Our "30"

It is so startling an innovation—this one of placing our Used Car Exchange not alone at the service of intending Abbott buyers, but of everyone with a worthy used car to sell—that scores of questions concerning it have been asked us. One question very frequently asked us this week we shall answer today.

"You say you will take used cars in part payment of the Abbott "44." But suppose I want a lighter, somewhat lower-priced car, like the Abbott "30." Can I trade in my car for a "30" model?"

Certainly! Not only that, but we are in a position to make you an exceptionally favorable allowance in that case. For we have just succeeded in getting an extra carload shipment of "30's" from the factory, and the demand has been so keen for cars accepted by the technical experts of our Used Car Exchange and backed by the Abbott reputation for fair dealing, that we need a great many more used cars to meet it.



The New Abbott "30" at $1350

You Have Heard about the Abbott "BULL-DOG," of course? That marvellous little car that has just finished 52,000 of the 100,000 miles it has set out to do? It has crossed every state in the Union; gone around the borders of the United States twice; ventured far into Mexico, that land of heart-breaking roads; and just returned from a dash into frozen Alaska, having penetrated farther north than any other automobile.

The "30" You Buy off our salesroom floor is a duplicate of the "Bull-Dog" in every essential, but refined and perfected in several details. It has the same sturdy efficiency as the "Bull-Dog" Abbott, the same freedom from mechanical troubles, the same splendid power to take you over good roads and bad.

The Specially Designed dustproof motor of the "30" has a 4⅛ inch bore by 4¼ inch stroke, delivers all the power and speed you will ever need, with a reserve margin for emergencies, and yet is compact enough to be economical of fuel.

An Ample Margin of Safety is provided in the axles, where strength is most needed. The front axle is a drop-forged, one-piece "I" beam section with Timken roller bearings. The rear axle is full-floating, with nickel-steel gears and shafts; drop-forged steel driving flanges and Timken roller bearings throughout.

The Luxurious "30" Bodies are of the newest ventilated foredoor type with shutters, handsomely nickel-trimmed throughout. Nor have the lesser things been slighted. The thick, soft upholstering is of fine leather over real curled hair. The front floor boards are linoleum covered and, to insure wear, bound with nickel-plated binding. Ample pockets in the tonneau doors provide room for the pet novel, toilet accessories, road maps, etc. Robe rail, a special foot rest and a large, excellently fitted tool kit are crowning touches to the truest car value the automobile world has seen this year.

Enthusiastic Rooters for Us are made by the Abbott Service, too. The Abbott "30," staunch and splendidly built as it is, is as nearly trouble-proof as it is humanly possible for a machine to be. But we do not claim infallibility. Accidents and minor troubles do sometimes happen. And when they do, our Service Department is here, glad and ready to correct them. No red tape, no mental reservations. We're here to give helpful service to every Abbott owner, every time he needs us. That's part of the famous Abbott "GUARANTEE FOR ALL TIME," you know.

TIGERS AND CHICAGO SPLIT DOUBLEHEADER

DETROIT, June 30.—Detroit and Chicago split a double-header to-day, the White Sox winning the first 12 to 0, and Detroit taking the second, 11 to 9. The last game was called after the sixth inning to enable the visitors to catch a train. Walsh was invincible in the opening contest, scattering Detroit's six hits through as many innings.

The second game was a slugging match from start to close. Crawford made four hits in as many attempts, and Willett twice drove the ball over the left field fence, a feat never accomplished previously in the new park. The scores:

Inouye Wins Haworth Golf Title.

In the annual golf championship of the Haworth Golf Club, held yesterday, S. Inouye defeated C. S. Hedges by 2 up. The match was at 36 holes straightaway. Despite particularly clever putting on the part of the defeated player, he was unable to overcome some wonderful drives by Inouye in the last two holes.

Pirates Defeat Cubs—Wagner Makes Homer with Two on Bases.

CHICAGO, June 30.—Pittsburgh defeated Chicago to-day by a score of 7 to 4, Richie being hit hard and receiving poor support. Adams started on the mound, but was hit hard and was taken out as soon as the Cubs started scoring. Hendrix relieved him in the fifth inning and held Chicago to two hits, one being a home run by Zimmerman with a man on base in the eighth. The feature was Wagner's home run, which scored three runs in the fifth. The score:

Woodruff Wins Sweepstakes.

Members of the Oakland Golf Club indulged in a golf ball sweepstakes yesterday. There were twenty entrants, and as a result of the competition the locker of H. C. Woodruff was enriched by a score of gutta percha balls. Woodruff covered the course in 88 strokes, his handicap giving him the low net score of 68.

AUTO CLUB MEMBERS PLAN MORE TROUBLE

Suspension of Club Features Opposed and Another Split Threatened.

Closely following the action of the Board of Governors of the Automobile Club of America in suspending the club features, a concerted movement is growing which threatens to assume serious proportions, and a determined effort will be made to wrest the management from the Whitridge régime. With the complete control of the club in the hands of the Board of Governors, the insurgents realize their inability before the next annual election, when a strong opposition ticket will in all probability be named.

Many of the members are bitter over the action of the Governors in abolishing the restaurant, grill, reading rooms, and other departments, thus compelling the members, who pay annual dues for this privilege, to use other clubs. It is contended that the Governors are exceeding their authority in thus depriving the members of their rights according to the membership rules.

Recognizing their inability to block the plans of the present régime at the last meeting, the opposition accepted defeat, but at that time the leaders stated it was only emporary, and that the action of the Board of Governors would result in a general insurrection of the members. They point to the fulfillment of their fears that the rights and powers would be placed in the hands of a few members if the changes in the by-laws and constitution were approved.

It was also stated at that time that the proposed plan would change the value of the organization from a social club devoted to automobiling, to a business corporation under a self-perpetuating management, and that members other than Governors would be on about the same plane as guests at a hotel or as customers at a garage. This the opposition declares has actually happened, and a formidable sentiment is being worked up to take the management away from the present régime.

The dissension over the changes in the by-laws was allowed to slumber, but the recent order of the board in calling in all privilege cards and closing the club features of the organization has fanned the smoldering embers of discontent into a flame of bitter opposition, and a movement has been inaugurated to secure support from the members to defeat the board nominees for Governors at the next election. The leaders of the opposition say they appreciate the task they have set for themselves, but believe the present attitude of the Board of Governors is a convincing proof of the plan to change the character and objects of the organization. This, it is stated, will be a strong card for them, as it will convince many members, who were indifferent last Spring, that the individuality of the club is threatened and the organization turned into a gigantic business affair for the benefit of a few members and the detriment of a large majority.

The opposition is confining its efforts at present to missionary work, but a regular campaign will be planned in the Fall and a determined effort made to "save the club for its members," which, it is stated by the insurgent leaders, is the real object of the movement.

One of the leaders, in discussing the new phase of the club warfare, yesterday, said:

"The Board of Governors of the club are apparently determined to carry out their plans at any cost, regardless of the feelings and wishes of the members. We feel we have certain rights and privileges, but these are denied us, and we are informed that the real club features are suspended. This is in line with the recent policy of the members of the Board of Governors, and the list of members dissatisfied with the present management is steadily growing, and we hope to have a majority of the 1,700 members when the date of the next annual meeting arrives.

"There is no report that the suspension of the club features will result in wholesale resignations. This would only play into the hands of the management. Instead of resigning, the opposition members will remain in the club to strengthen our fighting lines. Our plans have not at present matured, but by Fall we hope to start a general campaign against the management."

GIANTS WIN AT WEST END.

Long Branch Team Shut Out Up to to the Eighth Inning.

The Giants continued their winning career yesterday in their series with the Long Branch players, whom they walloped on the West End grounds by a score of 5 to 3. Murray began the fireworks in the fourth, when he singled. He was followed by McCormick, who duplicated his effort, sending the ball past third. Burns doubled to left, and when the inning was ended the Giants were in possession of three runs.

After they had supplemented these by two more in the eighth, the home contingent were enabled to score a lone two, which was as close as they ever got to victory. The score:

RECORD MOTOR BOAT RACE.

Thistle Runs to Albany and Return in 27:35:25—Respite Wins on Handicap.

The Respite, owned by V. C. Pederson, was the winner of the fourth annual New York-to-Albany motor boat race under the auspices of the New York Motor Boat Club, which began at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and ended late last night. Ten of the fifteen cruisers and one of the three open boats completed the course, which measured 235 nautical miles, and the Thistle, winner of the time prize, established a new record for the course. She finished at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, her elapsed time being 27:35:25. This betters by twenty-four minutes the record hung up by E. B. Barney's Monreve in the 1911 race.

The Respite enjoyed a handicap of 6:08:18, and was the second cruiser to cross the finish line, more than three hours after the Thistle. Second prize went to H. B. Freeman's Marinette, which had a time allowance of 5:10:35, and third prize was captured by G. Moore's Narcissus, with a time allowance of 6:31:40. The Marinette finished at 5:47 o'clock, and the Narcissus at 7:37.

The Thistle, owned by J. M. Wallace, was the allowing craft, and the handicaps among the cruisers ranged from 2:34:56 to the Rosina to 7:24:23 to the Kid II. Mr. Wallace's boat is a forty-foot cruiser, and easily led from start to finish. She made the Albany turn at 12:35:05 Sunday morning, which was one hour and thirty minutes ahead of the Respite, the second boat to make the turn.

The boats encountered considerable trouble on the trip to Albany. Besides encountering the heavy storm in the afternoon they suffered from squalls during the night and had to work against a strong north wind. The return trip from Albany was covered under ideal conditions.

The Oeyesee, owned by J. Smith, grounded off Catskill on the trip north, and the Louise, owned by H. Magler, was disabled by a broken crank shaft. The Rosina, owned by H. Nelson, made the Albany turn at 3:04:30 yesterday morning, but was disabled on the return trip.

Only one of the three open boats completed the course, that being C. Firth's Bunk III., which finished at 3:22 yesterday afternoon. W. B. Selden's Merlin, the allowing boat in this class, withdrew early, as did also W. Heinig's Katherine F. The latter boat carries a two horse power engine, and was allowed a handicap of more than twenty-two hours. The summary:

CLOVER PATCH LOSES.

Champion Pacer of Spring Racing Defeated by Princess Direct.

With the performers of the matinee season at their best the first of the mid-Summer Sunday matinees on the Harlem Speedway yesterday was productive of fast work, with the result that the season's record for the fast pacing class was bettered in all three heats of the Class A A pace. The event was the feature of the card, which comprised nine events, but on account of two classes not filling, only seven were contested.

Three horses made up the field in the Class A A pace, Clover Patch, which recently captured the championship cup for the Spring season; Thomas Leahy's former champion mare, Princess Direct, and Master McKerron.

The Leahy entry, driven by Trainer Samuel Goldsmith, took the measure of Clover Patch in a fine demonstration of horse racing in split heats, and caused somewhat of a surprise among the spectators. Toward the end of the Spring matinee, which concluded last Sunday, Clover Patch showed remarkable form and was conceded to have the measure of all the sidewheelers of the drive, but Princess Direct yesterday was in fine fettle and showed clean heels to the champion in the first and third heats. The time for the three heats was 1:01¼, 1:02, and 1:01¾, all of which were under the record for the season.

The Class C pace was also productive of fast time for the class when the two heats were covered in 1:04¾ and 1:04¼. James Kennedy's roan gelding Dick Welsh captured the race after some fast going with Alphonse O. In the Class A trot E. Shoemaker piloted his bay gelding Startle to victory in straight heats by defeating C. G. Schmidt's Trixie H. The summaries:

Class C, Trotting.—Won by Effort, b. g., (E. Shoemaker;) C C, br. g., (E. C. Binzen,) second; Dr. Eddy, b. g., (W. Horn,) third. Time—1:08¼; 1:08¼; 1:08¼.

FIRST AMERICAN ENTRY.

Illinois Aero Club Plans Record-Breaking Monoplane for Big Race.

CHICAGO, June 30.—Through an appeal sent out to-day by the Aero Club of Illinois to aviators all over America, it became known that the club's entry in the Gordon Bennett International Aeroplane Race, Sept. 9, the first American entry to be officially announced, will be a monoplane with an estimated speed of 125 miles an hour, (20 miles more than the present world's record,) and fitted with an engine of 100 horse power, 20 horse power more than ever developed in an aeroplane engine. The engine, now under construction in France, will be delivered in Chicago about Aug. 1, and the aeroplane to which it will be fitted will be the product of several American designers, working in conjunction.

The appeal sent out to-day by the Aero Club of Illinois was for an aviator to man the craft in the international race as the representative of America.

DOMINICAN TROPHY WON BY T. F. HEALY

Four Firsts Scored by Athlete in Lyceum Games on Astoria Field.

Thomas F. Healy was the all-around star yesterday at the games of the Dominican Lyceum, held on Astoria Field, Long Island, with a number of the best of the local track and field men in competition. Healy won the point prize for the member scoring the greatest number of places in the day's series with a total of 20.

He was first in the seventy-five-yard, 220-yard, and running broad jump, and captained the team which won the 1,200-yard relay. Altogether, he had a banner outing, and easily captured the silver cup awarded to the top score man. Le Roy B. Dorland and Eddie Gillmore were the runners-up, as each gathered in a first in the handicap events and several other place positions.

In the broad jumping the winner, Healy, won by the margin of half an inch from the scratch man, Dorland, with the third man, Gillmore, another half inch further back.

Many heats were necessary before the final of the short sprint was reached. Healy lived up to the good things promised through the running of the trials by coming through in the last twenty-five yards, after getting away to an indifferent start, and just getting up in time to nip F. Lowney, who ran from the eight-foot mark. E. J. Schleich, the virtual scratch man, off three feet, was third, and a yardstick would have covered the trio.

In the half-mile, Eddie Gillmore showed his knowledge of pace by permitting the long-start men to run themselves into the ground in the first 600 yards, from which point he put on the required steam and managed to beat home the limit man, J. Walsh, in the good time of 2:08 3-5, with J. Hand, 35 yards, third, a few yards back.

Healy repeated in the furlong dash, but was compelled to show his best running to get to the tape in advance of Dorland, who came fast at the end, only to be beaten a yard in 0:23 2-5.

The relay was the best race of the series, the teams having been handicapped as individuals, and after Healy and Dorland had been chosen as Captains they drew their teams out of a hat. When selected, it was found that Dorland's team was to give the other two yards. From the first relay it was nip and tuck, with the ultimate winners in front for the first and third relays by a narrow margin. When the last "strings" got away Healy had four yards on Dorland, and, although the latter made strong efforts to lessen the gap early in the race, Healy made the most of his handicap and got home by a yard. The summary:

75-Yard Dash, Handicap.—Final Heat—Won by T. F. Healy, (4 feet;) F. Lowney, (8 feet,) second; E. J. Schleich, (3 feet,) third. Time—0:07 3-5.

880-Yard Run, Handicap.—Won by E. Gillmore, (scratch;) J. Walsh, (75 yards,) second; J. Hand, (35 yards,) third. Time—2:08 3-5.

220-Yard Dash, Handicap.—Won by T. F. Healy, (4 yards;) Le Roy B. Dorland, (scratch,) second; C. W. Eastman, (12 yards,) third. Time—0:23 2-5.

Two-Mile Run, Handicap.—Won by J. F. McCabe, (scratch;) J. Gannon, (100 yards,) second; J. McGloin, (200 yards,) third. Time—10:36 4-5.

Running High Jump, Handicap.—Won by F. P. Cassidy, (9 inches,) with 5 feet 3 inches; E. J. Schleich, (scratch,) second, with 5 feet 3 inches; Le Roy B. Dorland, (2 inches,) third, with 5 feet 1 inch.

Running Broad Jump, Handicap.—Won by T. F. Healy, (6 inches,) with 19 feet; Le Roy B. Dorland, (scratch,) second, with 19 feet 5½ inches; E. Gillmore, (12 inches,) third, with 18 feet 5 inches.

1,200-Yard Relay Race, Teams of Four, Handicap.—Won by Healy team, made up of F. P. Cassidy, J. Hand, E. Gillmore, and T. F. Healy, (42 yards;) Dorland team, made up of O. Hauschild, F. Lowney, E. J. Schleich, and L. B. Dorland, (40 yards,) second. Time—2:24 2-5.

COLLINS WINS LONG RACE.

Irish-American Distance Man Beats McNamara in 15:21 4-5.

The three-mile scratch race was the feature event yesterday at the Claremen's games in Celtic Park, the sport being witnessed by probably 5,000 persons. A number of the best distance men of the metropolitan district ran for the prizes, and a stirring race resulted when Tom Collins and J. J. McNamara, the Irish-American stars, and others took their marks for the event.

Nearly two dozen men were sent away by Johnny McHugh, and the men ran in close order for about two miles, when a stringing out began. Collins, McNamara, and Critchley of the New York A. C., were the principal contenders, with the latter the pacemaker, at this point. The pace was increased to the two-and-a-half-mile mark, where Collins went to the front, followed by McNamara.

The last quarter mile was a hummer, with Collins closely pursued by his teammate, and the New York man apparently beaten. Collins improved his pace from the top turn home, and, sprinting in rare form, came away strongly, winning by twenty yards, in 15.21 4-5. McNamara was second, thirty yards in front of Critchley. The summary:

100-Yard Dash, Novice.—Final Heat—Won by R. Georgi, Dominican Lyceum; E. Hussey, unattached, second; J. Regan, Knights of St. Antony, third. Time—0:10 4-5.

1,000-Yard Run, Novice.—Won by J. Waldron, Knights of St. Antony; J. McAuley, Knights of St. Antony, second; G. Mann, Kings County A. C., third. Time—2:32.

Three-Mile Run, Handicap.—Won by Tom Collins, Irish-American A. C., (scratch;) J. J. McNamara, Irish-American A. C., (scratch,) second; George Critchley, New York A. C., (scratch,) third. Time—15:21 4-5.

Trojan Athletes Compete.

Macomb's Dam Park Athletic Field was the scene of the regular monthly games of the Trojan A. C. yesterday. B. Ravin won two firsts, the running broad jump and the 300-yard run, and was second and third in other events. A club record was made in the shot-put by E. Crupin when he got the sphere out 35 feet 6 inches. The summary:

60-yard Dash.—Handicap—Won by R. Fetchelberg, (scratch;) M. Cohen, (4 feet,) second; B. Ravin, (3 feet,) third. Time—0:06 4-5.

Burt Wins at Tennis.

L. Millens Burt yesterday added the Hamilton Grange lawn tennis singles championship to the list of his season's winnings. In the final of the tournament on the clay courts of the Hamilton Grange Club, at 149th Street and Convent Avenue, Burt defeated Arthur M. Lovibond in straight sets to the score of 6—2, 6—1, 6—2.

KRAMER BEATS GRENDA.

Australian Cyclist's String of Victories Over Jerseyite Broken.

Alfred Grenda, the Australian bicycle sprinter, who has been winning so consistently in his recent races with Frank L. Kramer of East Orange, N. J., the American champion, was overhauled by the latter in the one-mile special team match race for professionals at the Newark Velodrome yesterday afternoon. The event was booked on the official programme for four heats if necessary, but the American champion won the race in straight heats, and, incidentally, the second and third positions in each heat were won by the same riders, the Grenda and Drobach team finishing second and the Cavanaugh-Comes pair third.

In the first heat Drobach took the lead at the start and set the pace for four laps. Kramer held down fourth position up to this stage of the race, when he caught Leon "Tricky" Comes, the French rider, and Alfred Grenda, the Australian, trying for a sprint. On the last lap, when within about thirty yards of the finish line and riding neck and neck with the Australian, Kramer put on an extra burst of speed and managed to win by about half a wheel's length. His time was 2:44.

On the last lap of what was to have been the second heat, with Alfred Grenda leading, his partner, Peter Drobach, sustained a flat wheel, which necessitated the cancellation of the event until after the two-mile amateur handicap race was decided. When the riders took the track again, Kramer again stayed in the rear of the field, allowing his partner, John Bedell, or one of his opponents to set the pace. As the riders neared the finish line Kramer again shot out, and this time just managed to nose out Grenda. His time was 2:27.

Another close race was the five-mile open professional race, which was won by Alfred Grenda of Australia. In this event, as in the others in which he contested, Kramer held to the rear of the field until the riders were within two laps of the finish. At this stage Peter Drobach started a sprint, which he kept up for a lap, when Grenda forged to the front. Kramer was in the middle of the closely bunched field in a "pocket" when Grenda and "Tricky" Comes started a terrific sprint, and the best Kramer could do was to finish third.

About 5,500 persons witnessed the races. The summaries:

RACES AT MOTORDROME.

Albright Wins Feature Event Against Kleges in Straight Heats.

Johnny Albright, the motor cycle speed king of Denver, Col., captured the feature event last night in the second day's competition at the Stadium Motordrome, Brighton Beach. The Denverite defeated Harry Kleges of Philadelphia in a special professional match race at three miles, taking the victory in straight heats.

It was the first appearance of the Quaker cyclist at the track, and he was picked as an easy victor, having the reputation of being the best pilot in the East. In the first heat the men covered the wooden saucer for the greater part of the distance almost abreast, with Albright crossing the finish line the victor by less than 10 yards, the time being 2:19 4-5. In the second heat the Denverite had matters all his own way, and won by a comfortable margin.

The most exciting race of the entire programme was the final heat of the five-mile professional. Three men, Mercier, Davis and Cox, qualified, and after a most sensational race Davis won the event in a brilliant finish. Mercier took the lead at the start, closely followed by Cox, and when the third mile had been covered the pair were in possession of almost a full lap on Davis. He was not considered in the running, but in the last mile he shot out from the back, and, after overtaking both his leaders, won with a great burst of speed in the final lap. Thes ummaries:

National Boys Compete.

Members of the National Athletic Club held their regular monthly games yesterday on Hawthorne Field, Flatbush, and some good performances resulted. Four of the events were handicaps and the other, a 660-yard run, was for previous non-winners. The best work was accomplished by C. Nilsson, the clubs premier high jumper, who despite the fine leap of 5 feet 10 inches in the running high jump, was unable to get better than fourth place. E. Maurer was the best point getter of the series, with first and second places to his credit. The summary:

75-yard Dash.—Handicap—Final heat won by E. Maurer, (6 feet;) B. Mepon, (scratch,) second; H. Oltman, (2 feet,) third. Time—0:07 4-5.

TWENTY-SIX BOATS IN JAMAICA BAY RACES

Twenty-six sail and power boats started in the first of the series of handicap ocean and beach channel races of the Yacht Racing Association of Jamaica Bay yesterday. The squadron was divided into two divisions. The larger boats had their starting and finishing line off the Oriental Hotel, and sailed over a course that took them out on the Atlantic. The smaller craft stayed within Jamaica Bay. They started and finished off the Rockaway Point Yacht Club. The preparatory signal for both divisions was set at 11:55 o'clock yesterday morning. At that hour the wind was fresh and from the southwest.

The larger boats found a nasty jump on the Atlantic, caused by the heavy wind that had been blowing since Saturday afternoon. However, the tars seemed to enjoy the curling whitecaps, and all covered a fourteen-mile course in excellent time. All the races are handicaps, with the allowances figured at the end of the season.

In the ocean contest yesterday Curlew won in the sloop class. Elvira led home the cabin catboats. Lester was the only one of the cruising power boats to finish, and Brisk scored a sailover in the half-cabin power boat class.

In the open power boat division, sailed over the Beach Channel course, the winner was Bill Morrison. Siren was the first home in the open catboat division, and Anna Grace took the semi-speed boat class.

The Beach Channel races were managed by J. H. Scherer, C. F. Wren, and H. Roeding. The committee in charge of the ocean contest was made up of Martin F. Plage, Charles H. Greene, Charles H. Merritt, and E. E. Wells. The latter committee used Commodore Wedel's Hazel G. as a committee boat.

ELENA WINS CLARK CUP.

Morton F. Plant's Schooner First in Race to Marblehead.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., June 30.—Running through a sixty-knot northeaster off Cape Cod, the Morton F. Plant schooner Elena won the race for the Clark Cup early to-day. It was a test of good seamanship, quick sail handling, and the weather qualities of the seven schooners and three sloops that started yesterday forenoon from Newport.

The Elena won over W. E. Iselin's Enchantress by 54 minutes 30 seconds elapsed and corrected time. D. Lloyd's Princess was third in the first division, schooner class.

Bensonhurst Cruising Race.

Members of the Bensonhurst Yacht Club held the first cruising race of the season yesterday. Seven boats took part in the run. The start was made off the clubhouse in Gravesend Bay and the finish line was off Sandy Hook. Richard Rummell's Careless was the winner on both actual and corrected time. BOUTS OF THE WEEK.

Mike Gibbons and Johnny Coulon to Box at New York Clubs.

The two big clubs which have staged practically all the bouts of note in New York during the past two months will put on the only important shows here this week. To-night the Garden A. C. will hold forth with an all-star card that ranks with any of the recent all-star shows at local clubs, and to-morrow night the St. Nicholas A. C. will feature Johnny Coulon, the bantamweight champion, in his first New York appearance in two years.

The Garden A. C. will put on a ten-round bout between welterweights for the headliner, a ten-round semi-final between featherweights, and another ten-rounder between middleweights. Mike Gibbons, regarded as invincible at his weight—about 150 pounds ringside—will clash in the feature bout with Sid Burns, the English welterweight champion. This will be the Briton's first appearance in America, and he is opposing the hardest proposition that this country can produce. Gibbons is regarded a strong favorite over the Englishman. What is expected to be the banner event of the card is the ten-round bout between Joe Shugrue of Jersey City and Johnny Dundee of New York. In the other ten-round bout Jim Smith of Westchester will hook up with Freddie Hicks, the Detroit middleweight.

Three ten-round bouts will be put on at the St. Nicholas A. C. to-morrow night, with Johnny Coulon and Joe Wagner in the main event. Wagner has been challenging Coulon for many months, and now he has a chance to show where he stands in the bantamweight division. In the other bouts Bobby Wilson of Utica will hook up with Battling Hurley, and Eddie Kelly of Harlem will take on Kid Alberts.

The usual week-end shows will be put on at the Fairmont and St. Nicholas Clubs Saturday night.

NEW YORK, MONDAY, JULY 1, 1912.

THE BEST WAY AT BALTIMORE.

It is plain that the nomination of Speaker CLARK is not desired by a majority of the Baltimore Convention. The New York vote gave him a majority, he held it for a time, and then fell back. It is scarcely less plain that a majority of the delegates do desire the nomination of WOODROW WILSON. By steady and almost continuous gains from the first he has advanced until the transfer to him of all the delegations or parts of delegations that would go to him at once if not under restraint, would give him more than half the convention. The time has come to cast off restraint of whatever nature and permit the delegates, in obedience to their own will and their own judgment, to finish their work by nominating Gov. WILSON. The Democracy will approve that choice above any other that could be made, and under that leadership the party will enter upon the campaign united and full of confidence.

The convention has no boss; nobody is in control. It has not been led or guided, but it has been obstructed. An end should be put to all obstruction when the delegates come together today. Gov. HARMON has released his delegates from Ohio, numbering 29 in recent ballots. Chairman UNDERWOOD should now seriously consider whether in the interests of the party he ought not to ask his loyal supporters, 112 in number on the twenty-sixth ballot, to give their votes to Gov. WILSON, to whom the logic of the situation points as the man to be named. Reinforced from these two sources, Gov. WILSON, with his present strength of 407, would have 548 votes, or more than a majority. There remain three State delegations among which there has been supposed to be some understanding with a view to common action when the decisive moment arrived. These are New York with 90 votes, Illinois with 58, and Indiana with 30. Together these States have 178 votes, exactly the number required to give Mr. WILSON the necessary two-thirds majority after the accession of the UNDERWOOD and HARMON vote. Other votes would come to him in scores.

This is the best way, the wise way, the right way to put an end to a deadlock that it would be dangerous to prolong. The men who represent these three States in the convention, and the men who have been sturdily loyal to HARMON and UNDERWOOD, should now take the responsibility and win the great credit of crowning the work of the convention with this best of all endings. Mr. WILSON will then owe his nomination to no boss, no interest, no bargain; he will owe it to the deliberate judgment and the free action of the Democrats who make up the convention. There remains Mr. BRYAN, whose sensitive conscience compels him to withdraw his vote from any candidate unfortunate enough to have the support of New York. Why withhold from him that high privilege? The loss would not be material, and it might be worth something to Gov. WILSON to be able to say that he did not owe his nomination to the Nebraskan. Besides, Mr. BRYAN has his proof-or-retraction issue with Speaker CLARK.

CANADA'S OBJECT LESSON ON TARIFF REDUCTION.

There was a prompt echo of the halving of the duty on cement entering Canada. Within one week over one million barrels of cement were sold in the United States for export to Canada, and the leading Canadian producer has reduced his price ten cents a barrel. An object lesson like this leaves nothing but fragments of the protectionist theory that the foreigner pays the duty to get admission to the protected market. It appears beyond dispute that Canadian consumers have been paying more for their cement than they would have paid except for the duty. It follows, also indisputably, that Americans are paying more for the grain which they wish to buy in Canada than they would if our tariff did not exclude such purchases. On this side the border the complaint takes the form of an almost inarticulate protest against the high cost of living. On the Canadian side the border the complaint takes the form of anger that grain ranges fifteen cents higher in Minneapolis than in Winnipeg. The Republican Progressives who demand the repeal of reciprocity, which would put money in the pockets of Canadian sellers of foodstuffs, and cheap grain in the mills of Minneapolis and later cheap bread in the mouths of all Americans, would do well to study the effect of the reduction of the Canadian duty on cement. Last year's crops are not yet sold or moved in Canada, and the subject is a commanding one there, just as the cost of living is a sore spot in politics here.

Before the echoes of the cement reduction have died out the government which was elected on the cry against reciprocity has added many other items to the free list, or has reduced the duty by large percentages. The list is about a half column long, and embraces mostly raw materials or semi-finished products for use in manufacture. These goods are procurable in Europe, but under the reductions they mostly will be obtained in the United States. The reason of the new reduction is the reason why it is impossible to stop a movement of this sort. Those who observed the concession to the building industry demanded like concessions for themselves, and have obtained overnight in the Canadian manner a generous installment on account. But this will only incite others to make like demands, and the more granted the more others must be granted.

MR. BRYAN'S PERFECT SANITY.

Some doubt has lately been expressed of the sanity of W. J. BRYAN. The doubters have gone astray. He is one of the sanest men in the Republic. Genius and insanity, to be sure, are not infrequently allied, but BRYAN'S genius is not of the sort associated with mental derangement. The alienists may find profit in studying the eccentricities of the Oyster Bay statesman, but BRYAN cannot interest them at all. His methods are perfectly clear. His plans are well formed and skillfully executed. He keeps himself foremost, produces carefully prearranged effects, introduces his "sensations" at just the right moment.

One result of the Democratic Convention of 1912, whoever is nominated, will be a huge advancement of the fortunes of Mr. BRYAN. His patriotism is admirably capitalized. Who can imagine THOMAS JEFFERSON or ANDREW JACKSON earning $1,000 a day while posing as the spiritual if not the actual physical leader of a great political convention, an assemblage of supposedly grave representatives of half the American people to name the man who may be the Chief Executive of a Nation of 100,000,000 people? BRYAN finds time to write and send off his "copy" between speeches. His "copy" sells because it is signed by a man who is supposed to be great, believed by many innocent folks to hold the fortunes of the Nation in his palm. His Chautauqua lectures are profitable for the same reason. His Commoner is a tidy little property.

BRYAN is the friend of the poor and oppressed, to be sure, the foremost enemy (but one) of "privilege," but he looks after his own privileges, and takes good care to make his services for the cause of humanity profitable. BRYAN is sane.

FINAL SUBWAY DECISION.

The Court of Appeals has confirmed the Appellate Division's confirmation of the Supreme Court's decision that the dual subway plan is lawful and constitutional. The forces which the decision sets in motion are of Nation-wide importance, focusing for operation upon the area of New York City. The tunnel and subway system, which is the result of traffic condition without parallel in any other city, includes a complete subway system connecting four boroughs, eight subaqueous tunnels under the East River, six subaqueous tunnels under the Hudson River, two subaqueous tunnels under the Harlem River to the Bronx, the Belt Line tunnels, the Hudson & Manhattan system, and the Bergen Hill and crosstown tunnels of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

A moderate estimate of the expenditures authorized and still to be made is double the sum the State is spending on the Erie Canal, say $120,000,000. They exceed those of the Nation in the Panama Canal, estimated at $190,000,000, but running larger outside the contract, which is being executed with more than customary fidelity. To the expenditures on the subways it is necessary to add other great works which would have been impossible without the conditions created by the subways. The New York Central and Pennsylvania terminals may be put roughly at a hundred millions each. The incidentals of affiliated tunnels and electrification of suburban facilities within the metropolitan radius add another one hundred millions. The Hudson tunnels have not yet cost a hundred millions, but they will reach that sum unless Mr. McADOO stops building. There is another one hundred millions in the bridges which the dual contract puts into use, and which would have been dwarfed in their utility if this decision had been adverse. The New York Connecting Railway adds a score of millions, and there are several other works in that relatively lightweight class.

This catalogue of facts makes it necessary to say in all calmness that from the beginning of the world until this time a like amount of money has never been spent on a similar area of land. How far ancient wonders of the world are eclipsed can only appear by comparison with what used to be thought the most stupendous work of man. The Great Pyramid of Gizeh used to be thought such, and even yet may be considered so in some aspects, having regard to the disabilities of the ancients. And yet the Great Pyramid, according to the calculations of modern engineers, could be reproduced in the United States for $36,340,000, hardly more than the cost of one of the four bridges built by the city, with its terminals and approaches, and not one-twentieth of the cost of the billion-dollar transportation plant of New York. The reason of these comparisons is to give some idea of what the New York subways and related facilities mean when stated in terms of cost of materials and labor, and to justify the statement that the decision under comment is of National importance. If any one still doubts the stimulus of the execution of the contract upon earners of wages and the producers of steel and cement, and so on, he is invited to add to the above enumeration items not yet suggested.

Calculations made in connection with the elevated railways showed that in the fifteen years preceding 1900 the increase of taxable values due to them reached four hundred million dollars. Similar calculations made in connection with the subways showed that in the Bronx subways costing $7,375,000 caused an increase of land values of $49,200,000. In neither of these cases were factors at work approximating those now set in motion. To 177 miles of old rapid-transit track are now to be added 208 miles of new track. For the first time within the present generation New York is to have a chance to take a full breath without bursting off buttons. The factors which have been at work chiefly in one residential borough, and the central borough, and whose proportions have been indicated by the experience with both the subways and the elevated, are now to be set free in all boroughs and on a greater scale. The billion involved in the construction of the subway and allied works must be increased by other scores or hundreds of millions in construction of residences and business structures. It is impossible to say with precision how many millions they will amount to in the next few years, but one thing is sure—for each dollar added to taxable values of the city private owners must profit tenfold, that being the constitutional relation of city debt to valuation of property.

Moderation is wise in estimating traffic results. The fact that the nickels collected by the subways grow faster than population points to the fact that the riders are paying upon a double-fare system, which the dual subways are designed to abolish. If passengers are to pay fewer fares per head, the yield of nickels must decrease, except as the population increases. The total fares must be larger, but perhaps not in the old ratio of increase. Also it is reasonable to expect redistribution of population as well as growth of population. The moral justification of the dual subway is the duty of the city to lessen congestion of population, with its results in increase of rents, and disease and crime as well. The areas now opened make it sure that modest homes and gardens will be brought within reach of present flat dwellers, who may be expected to migrate. On the other hand, the areas are so great that an increase of values such as has been the experience under conditions preceding the dual subway cannot be realized all at once, and any reduction of realty values due to reduction of congestion must be slow.

NOBODY TO BLAME.

A few days ago several hundred excursionists from Buffalo were thrown into the raging rapids just above Niagara Falls, and twoscore were drowned. It happened on the Canadian side, and we were told from Canada to wait and see what Canadian justice would do to those to blame. We are still waiting for Canadian justice, but we know what American justice thinks of the case. Nobody is to blame because no statute puts the blame on anybody in particular. Apparently it has come to be thought that all the law there is is to be found in the statutes. According to the findings of the inquest as discussed by the District Attorney:

> It was established that the pier went down because it had rotted and because there were too many people on it. The law does not impose upon any one the duty of inspecting or of keeping in repair these docks.

But somebody invited those excursionists to venture into a death trap of that sort. It would seem that some of the profits absorbed from such a trade might be made applicable to assuaging the affliction of the disaster. If nobody can be sent to prison because of defect of the criminal law, there remains the civil remedy of a suit for damages, in which the interested parties might make the facts clearer than in proceedings in which they were not specially represented, nor represented, it would seem, with special ability. If the law is as alleged it ought not to remain so long after the next Legislature meets.

BUSINESS MEN'S DISPUTES.

Do all business men who hire lawyers to settle their disputes know that the Chamber of Commerce of this city has a better method—better in every way, short, cheap, and fair? Mr. SERENO S. PRATT, Secretary of the Chamber, asked the National Association of Credit Men at their meeting in Boston the other day to inquire whether their clients had protracted suits at law, and whether their liquid funds were shortened on that account. Of course, every credit man should ask whether a person seeking credit is engaged in litigation, and, if so, why he does not try the more speedy and less expensive method of arbitration suggested by the Chamber.

The Chamber of Commerce offers to every business man in this country, or doing business with it abroad, the facilities of its Committee on Arbitration, of which Mr. CHARLES L. BERNHEIMER is Chairman. The Chamber itself commands respect, the men composing its committee are picked men, judicial and practical, with large business experience. The fee paid to the arbitrators is purposely restricted to that of a referee, ten dollars a day. The hearings may be in private, and a dispute that the courts would protract for months or even years may be settled within a few hours.

The voluntary arbitration, which becomes legal and binding, deprives the controversy of heat. Two of the biggest merchants of this city this year selected an arbitrator of the Chamber and submitted papers. Before the action could come to an issue they found that the points of difference were not great, and settled the dispute themselves. In this case the Committee on Arbitration served really as a Committee of Conciliation. Above all, resort to it overcame a disagreeable incident quickly, and at practically no expense.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Quietude a Poor Substitute.

It is highly satisfactory to see that the advocates of safer and saner celebrations of Independence Day have passed far beyond the mere denunciation of fireworks and noise, and are doing their energetic best to substitute something better and more interesting.

The something better, in the sense of being less destructive to life and property, was easy to find. Mere abolition of the old use of explosives in infinite variety would have been that, but abolition alone would have deprived the Fourth of July of all claim to distinction as the great American holiday, and while not a few people with abnormally sensitive nerves would have been glad to escape their annual tortures even at that price, the rest of us, remembering the very real delights which the old-fashioned Fourth gave us when we were young, would not have been reconciled to the change.

What has not been easy to find is the something more interesting—the something that will satisfactorily replace in the normal boy's judgment the keen joy he unquestionably takes in a day of license to play with the liveliest and noisiest kind of fire. No such boy will even pretend to be stirred deeply or at all by a reading of the Declaration of Independence, nor will any "exercises" that compel him to wear his best clothes and sit quietly while some oldster at great length expounds to him historic facts and moral truths ever seem to him anything else than a bore.

The reformers of the Fourth have come to realize this, and they are really trying to devise "doings" that are interesting, as distinguished from those that theoretically ought to be, but are not. Of these inventions the pageant is among the best. This is capable of infinite development and variation, and it has the advantage over even the neighborhood display of fireworks, which is also admirable, that it enlists the active participation of many individuals and saves all who choose from playing the dull rôle of the mere spectator and listener. The reformers have their work cut out for them.

The old Fourth was open to a dozen kinds of condemnation, but it had one merit—a very considerable majority of every community liked it. Until as many admit that the new Fourth is as much fun or more, there will be no heart in its celebration.

Returning Battle Reminders.

Canada's reply to the request of Massachusetts for the return of a cannon captured at Bunker Hill is, in effect: "You can have your old cannon "only on condition that you give us certain British battle flags with which "you have long been reminding your"selves—and us—of American victories."

This answer cannot be called gracious, and it makes a discord with the pretty talk we all so much enjoy about hands across the sea and the greater viscosity of blood than of water. Still, it seems reasonable enough, and there is no obvious, or even conceivable, argument that will serve Massachusetts as a defense for both its request and its refusal.

The queer thing about the whole episode, viewed from one standpoint, is that either party to it should have thought anything could be accomplished by the proposed transfers. That a nation should feel pride in the possession of a flag or cannon taken from another in war is perfectly comprehensible, though the quality of the pride is not now held by all to be as high as it used to be. But the humiliation imposed on the loser of the trophy would seem to be increased rather than decreased when, instead of getting it back as it was taken, he accepts it as a favor. Surely he cannot thereafter display the recovered symbol as significant of his own prowess or of anything except the foreigner's magnanimity.

When the military trophies are those of a civil war the case is a little different, but even then the logical thing to do, on the restoration of amity, would seem to be for the possessors quietly to destroy the reminders of regretted conflict, or at least to hide them away for the consideration of historians in a future when they will have become nothing more than material evidence of past events. The returned battle flag or cannon remains what it was, the trophy of a victor, and in its new depository it ministers to his vanity more than before.

Making the Best of a Bad Case.

Commissioner LEDERLE'S explanation of his course in allowing the maintenance for another year of public baths in the North and East Rivers nearly if not quite amounts to a justification.

He recognizes that bathing in dilute—and not very dilute—sewage is repulsive to the sense of decency and probably a danger to health. Therefore he wants to abolish these baths. On the other hand, he has no trustworthy evidence that the patrons of the baths have often contracted in them, from the water, the maladies they might be expected to catch there. Moreover, a good many of those who use the baths would subject themselves to the possible or probable dangers of the river water just the same, even if the baths were closed, and they would usually do their swimming in other than the least dangerous places. And the river water is at least cool, and in that respect highly beneficial to the tenement population when they are sweltering and suffering through our more than tropical "hot waves."

Regulated river bathing is obviously better than the unregulated, and there is colorable excuse for believing, or at least hoping, that on the whole the municipal bathhouses along the river do more good than harm.

Of course such a choice of evils is never satisfactory—it commonly involves, as this one does, a certain amount of disgrace. But the choice must often be made, nevertheless.

The right thing to do would be to keep sewage out of the rivers, but that is a height of civilization to which we have not yet attained. We think it would cost too much, and undoubtedly it would cost a lot.

BULL MOOSE PARTY.

It Is Roosevelt's, Not the Party of the Progressives.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read in your paper that Gov. Aldrich of Nebraska, on second thought, (that second thought which comes to us all when the first great wave of enthusiasm has died down) has resigned his position on the Committee of Eighteen, appointed by Gov. Johnson of California, and decided to remain regular.

It seems to me that Gov. Hadley and Gov. Aldrich have taken one of the only two possible roads left open for them to travel by. Either they should remain with the party who elected them or resign their office, and then be free to follow Mr. Roosevelt's lead. They were accredited to a Republican Convention by the Republicans of their State, they remained Mr. Roosevelt's loyal supporters, and did all in their power to bring about his nomination as the Republican candidate for the Presidency. When that failed, most of these men followed Mr. Roosevelt's bolt, frankly separating themselves from the Republican Party. These men were sent to the convention as Progressive Republicans, but still as Republicans, and yet in a few hours after Mr. Roosevelt's defeat they sever themselves from that party which had elected them in their various States, not having in the meanwhile been able to get in touch with the people at home.

I was at the convention, and there was a moment when, had Mr. Roosevelt taken the advice of some of his friends, thrown all his strength to a compromise candidate and eliminated himself, the Taft men might have had something serious to think about, but luckily Mr. Roosevelt thought otherwise. I mention this to show that it is more a "Roosevelt Party" the ex-President is now forming than a "Progressive" one. In no State had Mr. Roosevelt a more sweeping victory than in New Jersey, yet his delegates were elected by only 25 per cent. of the Republican vote cast for Mr. Taft in 1908. To illustrate: Suppose the Governor had been a Progressive Republican, and one of the delegates sent to the Chicago Convention, would he have done the fair and square thing by the other 75 per cent. of the Republican voters in his State if, without hearing a word from them, the majority, he had bolted the Republican Party, intending at the same time to remain Governor of the State, even though he had repudiated the faith and the party who were instrumental in making him Governor and to whom he had given his pledge?

It somehow does not sound to me quite on the "square deal" line of order, this new power which these Governors assume of reading all the Republicans of their States out of their former party, and into something very wonderful to be, but which is not yet, unless the blind submission to one man can be called that "something." The River Bathhouses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The solution of the problem as to free public bathing in the East and North Rivers probably lies in the filtration of the water. If the tide water can be sufficiently purified to overcome the proper objections of the Board of Health, then it will be even better to bathe in than fresh water, and will also conserve the latter.

The plan presumes watertight pools—with continual in and outflow. As cement barges are now an accomplished fact it suggests a method by which floating pools can be constructed at fairly moderate cost. The old dressing boxes and other appointments could be used as now.

This plan would be far cheaper to the city than constructing inland swimming pools for which sites would have to be provided. It would also allow of plenty of fresh air and sunshine, which, like clean bathing, are great factors in building up health and strength.

The private floating pools might also be compelled to install filtration plants.

If it is found that public towels spread disease it would be well to insist upon every bather bringing his own. This plan would largely aid in keeping isolated any disease present.

While on this subject, it is well to consider the teaching of swimming in the public schools. Would it not be wise—even if we have to eliminate some less useful thing to do it? SWIMMER.

A Great Party.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

> The 22d day of June will go down in American history as the birthday of a great party.
> —The Outlook, June 29, 1912.

This editorial announcement of a premature birth recalls a true story. Not many years ago, in Utica, N. Y., there lived a famous drum major who always figured conspicuously in street parades. I remember him as a man of vast proportions, to match which there was great expansiveness of self-feeling, and withal he was plagued by a chronic thirst. One Fourth of July, while leading his band of players to glory, the sun being high, he suddenly halted at a saloon, precipitated his ponderous person against its swinging door, threw down a quarter, and breathlessly ordered five beers. The foaming beakers were instantly produced and placed in a row on the counter.

"Where's your party?" asked the barkeeper, looking in vain for the four other consumers.

"I'm the party!" replied the drum major, with prompt emphasis, as, suiting action to word, he quaffed the contents of the tumblers in five eager gulps of quick relief, and rejoined his faithful waiting followers outside. It will not be difficult for the Vice President of the United States to identify the picturesque hero of this episode or to perceive the historic parallelism to the interpretation of the vital statistics of the Republican Party as made by the Outlook in the birth notice which stands at the head of this letter. Wireless in New Zealand.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It may be of interest to know that New Zealand's system of State ownership of the public utilities has again saved this country from a certain amount of annoyance, for in 1903 a Wireless Telegraph act was passed reserving to the State the right to erect wireless stations, and enacting that every person who erects, constructs, or establishes a station without the consent of the Governor-in-Council, is liable to a penalty of not more than £500 and forfeiture of all plants.

PROOF OR RETRACTION DEMANDED OF BRYAN

Man Who Has Been Waging War Against Democratic Harmony Will Not Be Permitted to Ignore the Issue He Has Raised.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, June 30.—"No man who wears the tag of William Jennings Bryan can be elected President of the United States" is the way a leading Democrat of Texas summed up the situation as it appeared to him after the convention adjourned last night. There is deep and lasting resentment at the course pursued by the Commoner since this convention began. He came here to make trouble, and he has made trouble from the start.

Many men who have followed him with blind devotion since he became the leader of the party, and who have professed the utmost faith in his good intentions, say freely now that they no longer believe in his sincerity, although they still admit his power for evil. They have heard him during the last few days appeal for proof of his Democracy to the more than six million voters who have over and over again—three times, in fact—placed the seal of their approval upon him, but he failed to explain that it was the party loyalty of the Democratic voters and not wholly their respect for him or their confidence in him that had influenced nearly one-half of the voters of the country to follow him from one defeat to another. His warning to the convention that he would not support any candidate whose nomination should be influenced by the vote of the New York delegation has another sinister side, indicated by the declaration of the Texan.

Will the people of the United States support any candidate who shall owe his nomination to Mr. Bryan and shall go into the campaign as in any sense his representative rather than the representative of the party, growing steadily more uneasy under his domination?

He could not be elected himself on three trials with practically the whole strength of the party behind him. It is hardly to be believed, falling into the Scriptural style of Mr. Bryan, that any creature would be stronger than his creator. Many Wilson members of the convention have expressed the ever-present fear that Bryan's support of Wilson would do him far more harm than good in the convention, just as there are hundreds of Wilson men here who view with alarm the effect that Bryan's support of Wilson in the convention may have on Wilson's support by the people at the polls. The Bryan vote, if it should all go to the Jerseyman at the election in November, would not be sufficient to elect him.

No candidate of the Democratic Party can be elected without the support of the great body of independent voters and dissatisfied Republicans of the country, and the proceedings here during the last five days, the friction that has been caused by Mr. Bryan, the antagonisms aroused by his intemperate harangues, the insults he has heaped upon the Democrats of States that are necessary to the success of any Democratic ticket that may be named, will make the party's task, which seemed to be very easy in the beginning, exceedingly difficult. It would have been far better for Gov. Wilson had the convention knocked Bryan into a cocked hat the first day of its proceedings. He will have a very heavy load to carry if he shall be nominated and go into the campaign as in any sense the representative of Mr. Bryan. This is the other side of the question.

What the convention will do to-morrow no man can tell. The managers have held many secret conferences and the air is filled with expectancy. Last night Champ Clark came over to Baltimore on a hurry call from his backers, but got here too late to take the convention off its feet by a dramatic entry, and has gone back to his job in Washington. He issued a statement last night resenting the outrageous aspersions of Bryan upon his personal or party integrity, denying that he had entered into alliance with any selfish interest or privileged class of this country to gain the nomination for President, and declaring that "the Democrat, however distinguished, who wantonly charges me with this act is a traitor to the Democratic Party and to his professed friendship for me. With William Jennings Bryan and his charge made in the convention, the issue is proof or retraction. I shall expect him to meet that issue."

Up to this writing Bryan had made no reply to the Speaker; but he will have to say something, and say it straight, or there will be trouble, probably, of a personal kind, for the Speaker is a bad man when he is thoroughly aroused.

The statement made by Mr. Clark last night was supplemented to-day by a statement from former Senator Dubois, National manager for Speaker Clark's campaign, in which he charges Mr. Bryan with deliberate misrepresentation as to Clark's relations to the New York delegation, as to his attitude in the fight between Bryan and Judge Parker on the Temporary Chairmanship matter, as "engagingly deceptive and beautifully false" in blaming Clark for not accepting James for Temporary Chairman after the National Committee had selected Parker, and demanding that Bryan shall "either cease uttering these falsehoods or bring forward some sort of proof."

But how could Mr. Bryan be expected to be other than "engagingly deceptive and beautifully false," other than "saintly and immaculate," or to resort to anything short of "political trickery" when he has a purpose to accomplish? A holy purpose, of course, but a purpose as definite in his own mind as his disposition to bolt the Democratic Convention if it shall fail or refuse to accept his dictation. There appears to be not the slightest doubt of his disposition in this respect after his speech in the convention yesterday, and if the convention had possessed a proper sense of its own self-respect he would have been asked to go yesterday. There would have been rejoicing in the camp of the other Colonel and his allies and satellites had he gone, and there would be peace in the old Democratic homestead. There does not appear to be any chance of the latter so long as he shall disturb the happiness of the family.

Wilson gained slowly but steadily in the voting yesterday, and Clark went back after the tenth ballot. When the count closed last night Clark lacked 262 votes of nomination, and Wilson lacked 318. It does not seem possible in the present temper of the convention for either of them to capture the prize, and there is much talk of a third man. Whom it will be cannot be forecast. There is some satisfaction in being able to think that it will not be Mr. Bryan. The pity of the situation, so far as Wilson is concerned, is that he will find it hard to overcome the Bryan handicap.

The only disturber in the convention is Bryan. The only speaker who has broken the general spirit of harmony with which the convention began is Bryan. The only Democrat in Baltimore who has been in conference with the Republicans is Bryan. The only Democrat who can defeat the party at the election in November Bryan.

Last night when the Maryland delegation was being polled there was [illegible] hissing in the galleries whenever a delegate cast his ballot for Clark, [illegible] thing has gone on throughout the convention, the friends of Gov. Wilson [illegible] the galleries and on the floor never losing the chance to make a demonstration in support of their favorite, and greatly to his disadvantage, it would seem to thoughtful persons, who have an idea that the candidate of a political party should be chosen by the regularly elected delegates uninfluenced by popular clamor. Richard S. Whaley, former Speaker of the South Carolina Legislature and a Wilson delegate through and through and to the end, rebuked a college boy who was working on the floor in the interest of the Princeton professor.

With Bryan's double cross and the enthusiasm of the mob to overcome in some way, Gov. Wilson might well pray to be delivered from his fool friends. But Mr. Bryan doesn't care. He is making money out of this business. One report is that he is paid a thousand dollars a day for reporting in his Rollo Book style the proceedings of this body, as he was paid a like sum for doing the same sort of composition work at Chicago. An old stager said last night that he did not think it comported with the dignity of his position for Mr. Bryan to do this sort of work. But everything is grist that comes to his mill, and $80,000 or so will help out in these hard times.

In striking contrast with the money-grubbing Commoner, it is said that former Speaker Cannon was offered $500 a day to report the proceedings of the Chicago Convention for one newspaper, but declined it on the gound that he did not think he could do it with due respect to the high office he held.

There is already talk about where the ways and means are coming from to run the campaign, whoever the nominee. Naturally, "the interests," which have been thrown out into the cold, could not be asked for contributions to the party funds, and in 1908 it was found that the people did not "give down" freely when Mr. Bryan appealed for popular subscriptions to the party treasury. The fund that year, as the books of Chairman Mack will show, amounted to $650,000. Of this amount probably not more than one-sixth resulted from the passing of the hat among the people.

Where did the rest come from, and who put it up? Who will put it up this year? Who has been putting up for the campaigns of the candidates who have been working for the nomination thus far? Why is it that there is so much grandstand playing when it comes to campaign contributions and so few refusals among the more righteous of the gifts of money when the necessities of contending parties are great and money is an absolute necessity?

The New York Democrats are sore, of course, because of Mr. Bryan's reflections upon them and their right to sit in a Democratic convention, but it was not always thus with him and them. They will recall now, in their present humiliation, the splendid tribute paid to them by Mr. Bryan in 1900, when he was a candidate for President, and how he stirred the blood of thousands in Madison Square Garden, as, with the tongue of an angel of light, he uttered this burning ascription:

"Great is Tammany Hall, and Croker is its prophet." J. C. H.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am an admirer of THE NEW YORK TIMES and its able and fearless manner in reporting and publishing the news, and I looked to it as at least one of the papers that would publish the true facts as to Mr. Bryan's part in presenting and his attitude in defending his resolution relating to Morgan et al. He was shown to have uttered a deliberate falsehood in stating that he had been requested by two members of the Virginia delegation to modify the resolution so as not to ask for the withdrawal of Mr. Ryan as a delegate. Mr. Flood made this so plain and delegates so generally understood it that many have marveled at the fact that none of the newspapers covered this feature, while other unimportant phases were so truly detailed.

Some newspaper at some time ought to let the public know the true facts. If there is a professional courtesy existing among reporters which forbids discrediting a fellow-reporter, and Mr. Bryan seemed to be one, then all with ulterior motives to serve may want to break in on the reporters' preserves hereafter.

A Gentle Reminder.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to the letter headed "Porcine Travelers," I think the writer has misnamed the offenders who usually indulge in the tiresome habit from want of thought. Instead of calling people names in the newspapers it would be more beneficial if the Subway trains and surface cars would take the matter up, and exhibit in conspicuous places printed notices, as they do with regard to smoking, transfers, &c. It might read something like the following:

> Will bias-sitting and crossed-legged persons please realize the discomfort they are causing their fellow-passengers?

A gentle reminder of faults will usually do more lasting good than calling people names.

A FELLOW-SUFFERER.

SUBWAY DEVOLUTION.

When the Pterodactyl, with his serpentine smile, through the umbrageous gymnosperms flew,
And worse beasts, bigger yet, whose hard names I forget, roamed the world in the coal measures through,
With terrible roars, and with horrible jaws, and with throats that could bolt you with ease,
No peace on the ground our poor ancestors found, so they took, if you please, to the trees.
To the trees used to cling, through the trees used to swing, and their babies all learned the trick, too.
So they 'scaped many harms, and long muscular arms for the needs of the epoch they grew.
Then some geniuses rose, who made spears and strung bows, and thus slaughtered the monsters with ease,
Till at last it was found safe to live on the ground, so our ancestors quitted the trees.
They no longer swung from the branch and clung, but settled securely below;
And—needing no more the great arms worn of yore—men changed to shape that we know.
Now the circling years bring us 'round, it appears, to the needs of an earlier day.
Those long arms could cling and those muscles could swing on the straps of the crowded Subway.
And since nature's alert for a chance to revert, and reverts every time that she can,
Those who use the Subway will develop some day the long arms of arboreal man.

RAT AND GUINEA PIG ON A YEARLY OUTING

SUM ALSO GOES AWAY

But He Is Irregular, While the Rat and Guinea Pig Can Be Trusted to Come Home Promptly.

Bill Snyder, head keeper of the Zoo in Central Park, from the vantage point of a bale of hay in the hay house, was discussing with Robert Hurton, his assistant, on Saturday afternoon the reason for the increased appetite of their charges, when George Sichert, keeper of the lion house, excitedly thrust open the door.

"Bill," he said, "old Tom is back."

"Well, it's about time," commented the head keeper.

Bill said he would go over and see the old fellow, and as he walked rapidly to the lion house he was asked about old Tom. Tom, he explained, was a rat, and noticing a puzzled look on the face of his friend, he added that Tom had just returned from his vacation.

Tom, a gray-whiskered rodent, was found sitting at the edge of the tank in the deserted hippopotamus inclosure, for Mrs. Murphy and her mate are now enjoying their Summer quarters in the open air. Tom appeared mighty glad to see Snyder and allowed the keeper to scratch his head.

Snyder could see nothing strange in the fact that his little friend had been on a vacation. He added that he had two other animals that took vacations regularly.

"Tom," said the keeper, "has been an inhabitant of the lion house for years. He used to be a great friend of the late Leo, father and grandfather of every lion in the collection.

"The peculiar thing about Tom is that very Summer the little animal will disappear and then, always at the end of the hird week, he will appear and come round to see his friends. Tom goes on a acation every year; there is no other ay to look at it. He simply wants a hange of scene, and goes away to get it. Vhere he goes is a question I cannot nswer. But this I know, he is benefited y the change, and every year he returns n much better condition than when he ent away. He always appears to be lad to get back, and all the men are cerainly glad to see him. We all like Tom, nd he knows it.

"The fact that animals take vacations nay appear strange to many persons who know nothing of the habits of animals, but there are many animals that ake vacations."

One animal in the collection that goes ut on a Summer resting-up trip is a uinea pig. No iron bars confine this little animal, yet Snyder says it takes its vacation in July. It was the disappearance and the reappearance of the guinea pig which confirmed Snyder in his belief hat animals take vacations for a change f scene. Here is the story of the guinea ig's annual outing as seriously related y Snyder:

For two or three days before it goes n its outing the little animal will show igns of discontent, and will follow Snyder about indoors. Then it will go ver to the monkey house at night, and n the morning Patrick Keenan will find there when he opens up. The pig ill remain there all da- and in the orning it will be gone. For two weeks will remain away, ana then some morng Keenan, opening the monkey house, ill find it there.

The other vacation-taker is an opossum. he time of this animal's going and rern is uncertain.

"I have spent many an hour trying to gure out where these animals go," said nder. "They leave the Park entirely, that I am certain, or at least we have arched many an acre looking for them ithout success. When we first noticed om had gone we supposed he had gone r good. After his third trip we knew e was taking a holiday and would return. How old is Tom? I have not the ightest idea. Perhaps he goes to visit iends in some rich man's Summer home. he guinea pig may go to the seashore, r all I know.

The opinion of Snyder that his small iends go on vacations is held by other eepers, so the question is one for disussion every Summer.

There was one interesting happening in e Zoo yesterday. In the morning Miss ulton, the lioness, which was born at e time of the Hudson-Fulton celebraon, caught a sparrow. The big cat elights in catching sparrows, and some them are very expert bird catchers. iss Fulton, Keeper Cunningham says, the champion of them all. When the oness caught the sparrow yesterday orning the keeper thought she would llow her usual custom and devour it. stead she held it gently between her eat paws and as gently licked its head ith her tongue.

For ten minutes she did this, while a eat crowd stood about and watched. hen she opened her paws and allowed e bird to flutter away.

"Well, don't that beat all?" commented e surprised keeper.

Eight new monkeys were added to the llection in the monkey house yesterday. eeper Keenan stood for half an hour in e morning regarding with great interest a very young sacred monkey. Keeper urton, coming in to get Keenan to asst in cleaning the bear pits, found the d man gazing at his new charge.

"Ain't it wonderful?" said Keenan, ftly.

"What's so wonderful?" asked Hurn.

Then Keenan confided to him that the ewcomer reminded him of a skipper had once shipped with on the ship bran.

Hurton, in telling the story, said it was question whether that monkey would become the keeper's favorite.

Since Snyder announced that ewe's milk was good as a hair restorer there have been so many demands for the milk that the supply is now exhausted. Many persons, rich and poor, came to the park for some of the hair restorer, and many wrote and offered to pay all expenses of shipment.

FIGHT ON DEAR COAL.

Milwaukee to Extend Crusade Against Dealers in Other Cities.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 30.—Milwaukee's crusade against wholesale and retail coal dealers who have raised the price of coal 25 cents a ton since the settlement of the miners' strike is to be extended and made an issue in every other city where the price has also gone up.

It is learned here that coal in the cities is at a much higher price than in the country, being sold fifty miles from Milwaukee 50 cents cheaper than here, where it is unloaded from lake ships.

The Inter-State Commerce Commission has been interested in the Milwaukee complaint and has promised an investigation upon a formal complaint being filed. This will be authorized by a resolution to be introduced at to-morrow's meeting of the City Council.

LIGHTED BUOY SAVES HIM.

Sinking Stoker Located by Phosphorescent Apparatus from Liner.

On the arrival of the Hamburg-American liner Pennsylvania at Quarantine last night, from Hamburg, the Captain reported that on June 24 when the vessel was in the middle of the Atlantic, John Wagner, a stoker, became temporarily insane and jumped overboard. It was about 1 A. M. and raining heavily, with a rough sea running. The officer on the bridge sent a Quartermaster to call the Captain, and threw lifebuoys overboard, with phosphorescent lights attached. The steamer was stopped and turned around.

The boat's crew was called and quickly lowered away, and by the aid of the lights from the lifebuoys the officer in charge sighted Wagner, who was hauled into the boat just as he was sinking.

The stopping of the ship and the noise of lowering away the boat, with the hurried trampling of feet on the promenade deck and the hoarse shouts of the bo's'n, roused the sleeping passengers. They came on deck in time to see the rescue, and cheered the boat's crew as they pulled to the side of the ship over the heaving waves.

PICK UP EIGHT PICKPOCKETS.

Detectives Get Thieves Operating on Williamsburg Bridge.

Pickpockets were so plentiful yesterday at the Williamsburg Bridge, where picnic parties were starting on their way, that detectives from the Delancey Street Station had to be stationed there. The detectives came in with plenty of prisoners. When the day was at an end they had made eight arrests.

The detectives said that many others with long police records were noticed mingling with the crowds at the bridge, but only those were arrested against whom actual evidence of crime was obtained.

From the Tenement to the Seashore

Dwellers of attic, basement and rear tenements—the aged, the overworked, the anaemic—ask your aid through us.

WILL YOU NOT HELP THOSE WHOM WE KNOW SORELY NEED THE FRESH AIR AND REST?

It will make you happy to know that some family is enjoying the ocean or country breezes through you. Here are a few possibilities.

$2.50 will keep a teething baby as your guest at the seashore or in the country for a week. Twice that amount will give the baby's wornout mother a rest, too.

5.00 will pay a week's board on a farm for a boy or girl who cannot continue work without a rest and change of air.

10.00 will pay for a week's outing for a tired mother and delicate baby on a farm, or it will make a family of three happy for a week at Sea Breeze and strong for many months—possibly years.

20.00 will keep a mother and her two children, or two "cash girls" (sisters) at Sea Breeze for two weeks of fun and unaccustomed joy.

125.00 will send fifteen hard-working girls to the country, or ten mothers and thirty children to Sea Breeze for a week.

N. Y. ASSOCIATION FOR IMPROVING THE CONDITION OF THE POOR,
R. FULTON CUTTING, President.

BABY-SAVING RECORD FOR MILK STATIONS

14,000 Infants Already Under the Care of the 88 Welfare Agencies.

ASSOCIATIONS CO-OPERATE

150 Societies Expected to be United in Campaign to Set a New Low Death Rate.

More than twice as many babies are being cared for at the milk stations of New York City than a year ago at this time, according to the report which the Babies' Welfare Association has just made. There are nine more stations in operation than there were then. The death rate among babies in the city at large has been lower this June than it was in the same month last year. The comparison of death rates among station babies is even more favorable.

In the making of the promised new record for this season the newly organized Babies' Welfare Association expects to play no little part. There are about 150 organizations in the city engaged in work of one kind or another in behalf of babies. Until last year each society planned its campaign with little knowledge of what the others were doing. Under such conditions duplication of effort and much waste of energy were inevitable. The need of a clearing house for information and general co-operation was felt. To meet this last season the Health Department and seven private milk station agencies united in the Association of Infant Milk Stations. Of that organization the present Babies' Welfare Association is the outgrowth. More than thirty organizations have already joined the association, and it is expected that by the end of the Summer nearly all the 150 will be enrolled.

A central office of the Board of Health has been established, under an Executive Secretary provided by the New York Milk Committee. The Executive Committee, of which Dr. Josephine Blake is Chairman, is divided into six sub-committees, in charge of as many branches of infant welfare work. Maria L. Daniels of the New York Diet Kitchen Association is Chairman of the sub-committee of milk stations.

Uniform Weekly Report.

The commitee has adopted a uniform weekly report to the central office and looks after matters generally that pertain to the common interests of the eight groups of milk stations. Other sub-committees are those on outings, of which Dr. Henry Fleischman of the Educational Alliance is Chairman; social service, including all relief work among infants, John A. Kingsbury of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, Chairman; hospitals and dispensaries, Dr. G. R. Pisek of the Post Graduate Hospital, Chairman; publicity and statistics, Paul E. Taylor of the New York Milk Committee, Chairman; and the Committee on Central Office, Dr. Baker, Chairman. Arthur E. Wakeman of the Brooklyn Children's Aid Society and Mgr. D. J. McMahon of the Association of Catholic Charities are also members of the Executive Commitee.

Other organizations represented on the General Committee and one or more of the sub-committees are the Charity Organization Society, the State Charities Aid, the Hebrew Organizations, the Sage Foundation, which has contributed the services of an investigator for the season; the Bureau of Municipal Research, The Herald Ice Fund, the Knickerbocker Ice Company, and the Henry Street Settlement.

The Board of Health is running fifty-five stations this Summer under the supervision of Dr. Weber. Miss Daniels is in charge of the eight stations of the New York diet kitchen. The eighteen Straus stations are under the direction of Dr. Michael Schuman, and the three of the Babies' Dairy Association under Dr. R. A. Benson. Miss Hitchcock represents the station of the Nurses' Settlement, and Miss Mabel Park the new Babies' Aid Station in 125th Street.

1911 Rate the Lowest.

Last season's campaign reduced the infant mortality rate to the lowest point in the history of this city. There is every promise of an even better record this year. Last year there were 1,198 fewer infant deaths than in 1910. That this lifesaving is in no little measure due to the work of the milk stations is proved by the fact that the average death rate among infants attendant at the stations during the three hot months last Summer was only 15.4 per 1,000, while the general rate among the city's infants in that period was 23.3, and this difference was despite the fact that fully one-third of the station babies were sick at the time of admission.

But last year there were only seventy-five milk stations in the city. This year there are eighty-eight, including those of the Board of Health and other agencies. Last year July 1 saw only 5,920 babies enrolled at the stations. This year there are approximately 14,000, nearly as much as the total enrollment of the last Summer season, and 2,000 more than remained in attendance at the season's close.

The results are already apparent, though the supreme test of the hot wave is yet to be met. Mortality figures for this June are not yet completely compiled, but the little wavy line on the chart of the Health Department that indicates the sacrifice of baby lives has so far this season been kept, on the average, well under the trail left by the reaper in June of last year.

FOR CIVIC RIGHTEOUSNESS.

Movement to Form Clubs to Promote It Here Is Started.

A "Civic Righteousness Movement," which its organizers hope will result in the formation of a number of "Civic Righteousness Clubs" throughout the city, was started last night at the evening service of the Church of the Resurrection, in East Seventy-fourth Street.

Prof. Gerstenberg of New York University said that the difference between goodness and righteousness was that a good man merely made a point of not throwing banana peels upon the sidewalk.

"A righteous man, on the other hand, goes to the extent of always picking up the banana peels and reproving those who throw them there," he said. "Mere goodness has never prevented bad government. Righteousness, which is goodness plus efficiency, is what this city needs."

George H. Corey, a member of the Social Service Department of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, said that he and his associates would have to rely on "the intelligent middle class of the city" to sustain the movement.

"The wealth seekers are merely interested in us for what they can get out of us," he said.

One purpose of the movement will be to persuade church members to vote at primary elections.

ASK MACARTHUR TO RETURN.

Calvary Church Appeals to Pastor Now at Atlanta.

Calvary Baptist Church, in Fifty-seventh Street, near Sixth Avenue, will do its utmost to induce the Rev. Dr. Robert S. MacArthur, its pastor for forty years, but now head of the Baptist Tabernacle at Atlanta, Ga., to return to it as pastor, and it was the impression yesterday, given both by the people and by the minister, that the church may be successful. A meeting is to be held this week to give opportunity for the people unitedly to urge the former pastor's return. At both services yesterday, and especially in the morning, the church was crowded, and after the service a great number of people asked the pastor to return.

The argument of officers and people of Calvary Church, made with what they believe may prove success, is that if he can maintain the work of the Baptist Tabernacle at Atlanta, and yet perform the duties of President of the Baptist World Alliance, he can do the same in Calvary, New York. They say they are quite willing that he go around the world for the alliance, and that he be absent at other times in connection with the alliance. They will give him all possible freedom.

Dr. MacArthur made an indignant denial of the reports of a breach between himself and members of his congregation yesterday morning.

"The great body of the church is most loyal. If you want an example of the inaccuracy of the press regarding church matters, you will find it in the reports that came from Atlanta recently," he said angrily.

Speaking of the work that has been accomplished in the last few months in Atlanta Tabernacle, he said:

"We raised $1,000 for foreign missions, something that had never been done in that church since its organization. When the Southern Convention was in great straits, and an effort was made in Atlanta to raise $10,000, the Tabernacle was the only church in Atlanta that raised its quota of the fund. I raised $3,500 in subscriptions, payable monthly, toward current expenses. I have baptized forty persons, and others are now awaiting baptism."

IN ALLIANCE AGAINST HILL.

Milwaukee and Canadian Pacific Make Traffic Agreement.

Special to The New York Times.

TACOMA, Wash., June 30.—By a recently arranged traffic agreement between the Canadian Pacific and the Milwaukee Railway systems, the Canadian road will reach Puget Sound and Montana over the Milwaukee tracks and the latter will enter Western Canada over the Canadian Pacific. Both roads can now meet the competition of the Hill roads.

Arrangements are being completed whereby both roads will use the same stations, yet to be built, at Tacoma and Spokane, Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Sault Ste Marie. Trains now running into Spokane will come across Washington to Tacoma and Seattle over the Milwaukee road. The Milwaukee will enter Vancouver over the Canadian Pacific from Sumas on the boundary.

A new north and south line between Tacoma and Vancouver probably will be provided by extending Milwaukee's Tacoma-Everett line north to Bellingham and Sumas. The Milwaukee Company has officially filed its location for a 300-mile extension from Misoula, Mont., north through the Flathead Valley and Kalispell to Fernie, B. C. It will cross the Great Northern and connect with the Canadian Pacific, giving the latter an entry into Montana.

W. L. Martin, Vice President of the Soo road, spent two weeks in June at Tacoma negotiating for a large depot and for water terminals adjoining those of the Milwaukee road.

STREET CAR RIOT IN BOSTON.

One Man Fatally Shot and a Score Injured at Strikers' Meeting.

BOSTON, June 30.—One man is dying at the City Hospital from a bullet wound in his stomach, a score or more are suffering from minor injuries, and a dozen men are under arrest in police stations to-night as a result of rioting by sympathizers in the street car men's strike during the early morning hours to-day.

The demonstration centred about the Grand Opera House, near Dover and Washington Streets, where the striking car men held a meeting. For two or three hours passing cars of the Boston Elevated Company bound for Dudley Street and Roxbury Crossing were stoned, motormen, and conductors pulled from platforms and passengers driven out. In one case a car was tipped over and thrown across the tracks, blocking traffic.

Policemen were assaulted in several cases when they attempted to make arrests. In repelling a crowd which surged against a car on Blue Hill Avenue, threatening the motorman and conductor, a reserve policeman drew his revolver and fired. The shot struck William P. Cook of 52 Cliff Street. He was taken to the City Hospital.

Several women and children were struck by stones hurled into the cars and the windows of closed cars were broken.

FIRES AT POLICEMAN.

Laborer Attempts to Kill Mother-in-Law, Then Fights Officer.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, June 30.—After making a desperate attempt to kill his mother-in-law, Michael Rouse, 23, a laborer, of 70 Weeks Street, fired his revolver in the street near his home at Patrolman McErlane, and was mortally wounded by the policeman.

"I surrender," gasped the man as he fell. He had emptied his revolver, one of the bullets tearing away the top of McErlane's helmet.

The policeman fired four shots at the fugitive, three of which took effect. As quickly as possible McErlane lifted his fallen antagonist, and carried him to his home. The victim was then taken to the City Hospital. His condition is critical.

Rouse said he had had a quarrel at home with his mother-in-law, and became so enraged that he decided to kill her. He fired five shots at her, none of which took effect. He was reloading in the yard for a second attempt when he saw the policeman running toward him. McErlane had been attracted by the shooting and the cries of the Rouse family.

"NIGHT BIRDS" FOR CASINO.

The Casino Theatre, which closed last Saturday night after the last performance of the Gilbert & Sullivan Opera Company, will reopen about the 1st of August with the first New York presentation of "The Night Birds," Gladys Unger's version of "Der Fledermaus." This version, with all of the original Johann Strauss music and lyrics by Arthur Anderson, ran for a long period at the Lyric Theatre, London, last season.

For the New York production the company will be composed of American and English players, and the staging will be done by Michael Farraday, the English manager, who presented the piece in London. When Mr. Farraday comes to New York to begin rehearsals he will be accompanied by Maurice Farkoa, Thomas Shale, Claud Fleming, A. W. Baskcomb, and Mabel Burnige. The American players will include Jose Collins, who has acquired the right to be called American; Forrest Huff, Fritzi von Busing, and Martin Brown.

Walter Clark Bellows has been engaged by O. U. Bean & Co. to stage their production of "An Aztec Romance." Mr. Bellows has staged such productions as "The Christian" and "The Shepherd King."

NEW VACATION CAMP HOME IS DEDICATED

FOR THE USE OF BOYS

Educational Alliance and Young Men's Hebrew Association in Charge of the Camp.

The dedicatory exercises of the Sigmund Neustadt Memorial Building, which was presented by Mrs. Neustadt in memory of her husband to the Educational Alliance and Young Men's Hebrew Association joint vacation camp for the boys of the east side at Surprise Lake, near Cold Spring-on-the-Hudson, were held yesterday at the camp. Several hundred persons were present.

The building, which was erected at a cost of $50,000, contains dining and recreation rooms and a dormitory. It will accommodate several hundred boys and greatly facilitate the great work already done at the camp. The opening address was made by Lee Kohns, Chairman of the Joint Camp Committee.

Henry M. Toch, Chairman of the Young Men's Hebrew Association Committee, praised the work done for the association by Percival Menken, late President of the organization.

"We of the Young Men's Hebrew Association are deeply interested in the mental, physical and social development of our young men," he said, "but above mind and above body we place character. Not alone are we directors proud of what has been accomplished for our boys, but I personally am gratified this day at seeing the realization of an ideal in having this beautiful home, after the humble start we made some years ago. On behalf of the directors I wish to extend my most hearty and sincere thanks to Mrs. Neustadt for her noble assistance, which has made it possible for us to own this home."

Mr. Toch then handed Mrs. Neustadt the key to the new building.

Felix M. Warburg, President of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, delivered an address. Justice Greenbaum, Acting President of the Educational Alliance, referred to the death of Isidor Straus, former President of the Alliance, in his speech.

Prof. Morris Loeb, formerly of the Faculty of New York University, spoke of the mental and moral effect of agricultural training on the boys. Sigmund Stern praised the work of the vacation camp, and Magistrate Geismar spoke on behalf of the Brooklyn Young Men's Hebrew Association. He came all the way from Baltimore, where he has been attending the Democratic National Convention, to be present at the exercises. Another speaker was Ferdinand Kuhn.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, O., June 30.—The fifteenth annual convention of the Federation of American Zionists opened in this city to-day. The delegates will hold sessions for three days. Many delegates from New York are in attendance, including the National officers, who have headquarters in that city the year round. The delegates were welcomed to Cleveland by the Mayor. Dr. Harry Friedenwald, Honorary President of the Federation, delivered the opening address.

The report of the Executive Committee, presented by Louis Lipsky, Chairman of the committee, contained a resumé of the activities of the organization for the last year. The resolutions to be presented to convention for future work will contain a proposal to establish a villa, or garden city, in one of the Jewish colonies in Palestine in memory of Emma Lazarus, one of the first exponents of the Zionist theories and the first poet to give expression to Zionist hopes in America. This garden is to be established with funds gathered in the coming year.

A number of letters will be presented at the convention, including one from Nathan Straus, who has recently returned from a visit to Palestine with the Rev. Dr. J. L. Magnes of New York. Mr. Straus's contributions to Palestine enterprises will be enumerated, and his impressions of the former home of the Jewish people will be described.

Among the speakers scheduled to make addresses at the dinner held yesterday evening were the Rev. Dr. Max Heller of New Orleans, Dr. Magnes, Dr. Friedenwald, the Rev. Hirsch Masliansky, and Rabbi A. M. Ashinsky. Rabbi Samuel Margolis of Cleveland was toastmaster. The convention will close on Tuesday.

PURSE FOR DR. ECKMAN.

Congregation Gives Him $1,350 on Retirement from the Pulpit.

Dr. George P. Eckman, for fifteen years pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, Eighty-sixth Street and West End Avenue, was presented with a purse of $1,350 by his congregation yesterday after he had closed his farewell service. He leaves his pastorate to-day to take charge of The Christian Advocate. He was selected for this position at the recent Quadrennial Council of the Church at Minneapolis.

"We wish to especially thank you," said he, "for the way you have managed the finances of the church; they were never in a better condition, and we wish to present this to you as a token of our esteem and appreciation of the work you have done here during the past decade and a half."

"TENT EVANGEL" SERVICES.

Large Crowds at Morning, Afternoon, and Evening Services.

The "Tent Evangel," in West 124th Street, between Amsterdam and Morningside Avenues, opened its thirty-third season yesterday with morning, afternoon, and evening services. At all of the services the big tent was filled. The Rev. Harold Pattison, the Rev. J. E. Rice, Bishop Courtney, the Rev. E. S. Holloway, the Rev. C. W. McPherson, Rev. Henry Ostrom, the Rev. David Ross of England, and the Rev. A. H. Limouse were the speakers.

"These services are an aggressive attempt to carry the Gospel to the people," Mr. Holloway said. "Many people think that religion is for the life to come. It isn't. It's for the life that is."

All the clergymen had a few words of welcome and praise for Dr. Ostrom, who came all the way from California to take charge of the work at the tent for the next two weeks.

"Dr. Ostrom is going to be a tent filler," Mr. Pattison prophesied.

Dr. Ostrom told the congregation that its members must use telephones and postcards energetically this week to induce people to come to the tent in large numbers.

TRIBUTE TO THE TRAMP.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 30.—A tribute to the tramp is contained in a statement relative to the types of men employed in railway maintenance work, prepared by E. R. Lewis, engineer of the Michigan Central Railroad.

According to Mr. Lewis there is a rough loyalty about these tramps which is remarkable, and they take pride in their work. European laborers, Mr. Lewis says, usually are "quitters" in emergencies, while emergencies are the delight of the tramp.

"The hobo works harder and loafs harder than any other class," says Mr. Lewis. "A gang of hobos delights in tough tasks. They love to conquer a stubborn job. They are the best railroad workers we have. The trouble is they only want to work about three or four months in the year.

"The hobo is an intelligent, independent working unit. Each man is a real American, full of comprehension, guile, and energy. The European laborer endures idleness better than the hobo. He is content to cook his food and idle about in his bunk cars while the rain pours down. Idleness is far from the hobo's notion of happiness in a railway camp. As an extra gang laborer in American railway service the hobo's capabilities are indisputable."

Indigestion Kills Dr. W. G. Richards.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 30.—Dr. W. G. Richards, for many years chief of the medical staff of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, died suddenly at his home in North Broadway this afternoon from an attack of acute indigestion. He was stricken while his wife and daughter were in church, and he died a few minutes after they reached home. Dr. Richards was the son of Augustus C. Richards of Irvington.

Winter Garden Ballet Postponed.

Owing to a delay in receiving the scenery and costumes for "The Ballet of 1830," the opening of the new entertainment at the Wnter Garden has been deferred for a week, and will take place about July 15. It was expected that the scenery and costumes would arrive on the same steamer with E. August, the producer of the ballet, but on his arrival here he discovered that they were still on the stocks, because of the transportation strike in England. Additional engagements for "The Passing Show of 1912," which is to form the other part of the Wnter Garden entertainment, include Geraldine Malone and Jobyna Howland.

The Right Choice

To-day sound investment bonds yield from 4½% to 6%. By choosing those issues which are recognized by EXPERTS as standing in the front rank of their respective classes, you can average a liberal return on your money. At the same time keep in mind that just as there are different kinds of investments, so there are different kinds of funds to be invested, and what might be a proper choice for one purpose would be entirely improper for another. If you will advise us frankly as to the nature of your funds, we will suggest to you diversified investments which should be well adapted to your particular requirements.

An Ideal Method of Saving

SAFE FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, yielding 5 to 6 per cent., when obtainable in denominations of $100 and exchangeable into $1,000 bonds, constitute, in our judgment, an ideal way of saving money for people of moderate means.

For example: We offer at a price to yield 6%, First Mortgage Bonds of a steam railroad issued at the low rate of $10,000 per mile. These bonds are in $100 pieces, and when ten are accumulated may be converted into $1,000 bonds. Meanwhile purchasers receive a return at least 50 per cent. higher than paid by most savings banks.

We have sold Bonds of this issue to conservative investors.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

If the stock market the last two weeks has been under the influence to any very important extent of the fact that the two great political parties have been holding their conventions, business has not been. Politics are becoming less and less of a restrictive influence. The hope in this direction which had been entertained was realized last week to even a greater extent than had been expected, even by those optimistically inclined. To consider only some of the features of last week's records, which bear out this view there stand out prominently the increases in the prices of steel products announced last Wednesday; the continued expansion in bank clearings; the increase in growth of railroad gross earnings, and the report of the American Railway Association, showing that the number of idle freight cars on the country's railroads is now smaller than at this season in any year since 1907. This latter points to a larger volume of railroad traffic than any which has been handled in the Summer of any year back to the exceedingly active period which preceded the financial disturbances in the Fall of 1907. These facts are in themselves impressive as an indication of the practical way in which business is throwing off the thraldom of political uncertainty. Sentiment has been shaping itself in a way to stimulate such a business movement, for even among those who are not favorably impressed with the political outlook there is beginning to grow up a feeling that business must shake itself free of injudicious political interference. This is helping to create a determination practically to ignore politics and to go ahead with business undertakings. But this is not the only motive underlying the feeling that trade and finance can with increasing courage proceed in normal development. When the business week came to a close the Democratic Convention had not yet named its standard bearer, but it had early in the week been indicated that the convention was not to be dominated by Mr. Bryan, just as the convention of the previous week had frustrated the attempt of Mr. Roosevelt to control the action of the Republican Party. This made for the feeling that business had little to fear from the choice which might finally be made at Baltimore, though admittedly there was marked differences of opinion as to the fitness of the several candidates who led the early balloting to meet the needs of the Presidential office. These views as to individuals, however, were subordinate in their influence to the strengthening conviction that the reasonable development of the country's resources, the upbuilding of its trade at home, and the expansion of its commerce abroad are not to be prevented by the course of politics. The very existence of such a conviction, and those who are voicing it are increasing largely in number, is a happy augury of the events of the near future in the business affairs of the country.

More noteworthy perhaps than any other single item of the week's business news was the advance of $1 a ton in bars and in other important steel products. The realization by steel manufacturers of the increased profits which these higher prices indicate will necessarily have to be in very large measure postponed until the mills have worked off the many orders at lower prices, which steelmakers have been entering upon their books in recent months. Ever since the beginning of the year, however, the tendency, though slow at times, has been toward higher prices, and each week that now passes increases the influence of these rising quotations upon the profits of the steel mills. With the advent of Summer there has been some letup in the inflow of new orders, but the willingness of steelmakers to commit themselves to higher prices on many products is an indication that the small decrease in new business is regarded as a seasonal incident and not as an indication of a retrogression in the general position of the steel trade. In the forward movement, which has been under way, copper has followed a more rapid stride than steel, and it is significant, therefore, that a somewhat violent break in copper metal in London at the beginning of last week found very little if any reflection in this market. Possibly the advance in the price of copper may have been overdone, but underlying it unquestionably has been a genuine demand for the metal for consumption just as unquestionably it has been a great demand for steel which has brought the activity of the steel mills practically up to their capacity and has placed orders on the books of manufacturers which it will take many months to fill. Such a record could not be presented if the underlying situation were other than sound.

Larger gross earnings by the railroads have been referred to as one of the indications of the expanding tendency in the country's trade. Current returns show steady increases in the receipts of the railways, but upon analysis it is found that larger receipts are not meaning larger profits. This inability of the great transportation systems of the country to convert in any proportion the increase in gross earnings into an increase in net earnings brings into relief one of the unfavorable elements in the general situation. Railroad net earnings are not as high as they ought to be, and apparently the managements of our railroads are finding no way of correcting this deficiency. One of the plainest reasons for this is the fact that railroad managements no longer manage except in a very restricted sense. The public, through the Inter-State Commerce Commission and other bodies, have taken over the control of railroad rates, and not of those alone, but of many other elements which enter into the profit and loss account of the railways. Up to this time the influence of this situation is finding reflection in a decreasing margin between the income and outgo of the railroads. Wages have been rising, and threaten to rise still further, and taxes have shown an even more pronounced tendency in the same direction. Take, for example, the showing of the railroads for the month of April. They report an increase of a fraction of 1 per cent. in gross, whereas operating expenses increased 5 per cent. and taxes 9.4 per cent., with the result that operating income is lower for the month by 15 per cent. than during the corresponding month of 1911. A somewhat similar showing has been made in each successive month so far this year. The latest returns of gross earnings show a much larger percentage of increase than that reported for April, and presumably increases in net will follow, but it remains to be seen to what extent even the present larger inflow of traffic to the railways will find reflection in operating income.

The turn of the half-year is an interesting period in the money market not only here but at the other great financial centres. All eyes have been on Germany as the point of probable greatest firmness because of the special circumstances governing the Berlin money market at the close of the half-yearly periods. The German market began some time ago to make preparation by drawing gold from abroad, by borrowing funds in other markets, and also, as it would appear now very effectively, by warnings from those in a position to give them against the too free use of banking credit. Rates were fairly high at Berlin, but not by any means as high as many had expected. It is clear that misgivings regarding that market had been exaggerated. There was some debate as to the ultimate use to which the $4,000,000 gold, which was taken in this market last week for shipment to Paris was to be devoted, but in some measure at least the German as well as the other European markets profited by these shipments. They entailed a loss in cash upon the New York banks at a time when heavy payments had to be made in other directions, and the combined effect of these shipments and of the other demands was a loss of over $12,000,000 cash by the Clearing House institutions and a decrease of more than $16,000,000 in surplus reserve. Here cash is being paid to the Government to complete the large payments on the corporation tax, and as these are converted into the Treasury the banks will feel the effect of this withdrawal of cash from use as reserves. It was expected at the close of the week that action to be taken by Congress to-day will meet the situation arising from the fact that the regular appropriation bills have not yet been passed, but if there should be any delay in this matter the influence of these cash withdrawals upon the money market will be somewhat more important. At the moment, however, the most that is expected is a slight, and probably only temporary, hardening of interest rates until the funds employed in the large July 1 disbursements again find their way back to the money market.

THE MARKETS OF EUROPE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 30.—The Bourse had a week that was far from cheerful, and the optimism which speculators have manifested recently, especially in regard to copper, gave way to a general reaction.

The bulling of Rios, which has lately been carried on by speculators, reached its limit, and heavy liquidation was forced at the beginning of the week.

Despite the satisfactory news about the Franco-Spanish negotiations, the moderate carry-over rates for London and the satisfactory balance sheet of the Reichsbank, business flagged and even French rentes declined.

The nearness of the settlement also led to considerable liquidation, thus producing a heavy tendency in most departments.

Berlin has been offering 6¾ per cent. in Paris for ten-day loans, which emphasizes the monetary stringency there.

In Bourse circles it is believed probable that after the settlement, which is causing no apprehension whatever here, a better market is insured, providing the foreign and political news continue of a satisfactory nature.

LONDON PUBLIC COY.

Markets Are in Better Condition, but Speculators Are Few.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 30.—The week was a quiet one on the Stock Exchange, for, although the markets were in a more healthy condition, the public is showing a disposition to keep aloof, one reason being the trade demands, which are diverting capital. Speculative commitments are light.

The money markets showed some pressure.

American stocks, which opened weak, improved as Mr. Bryan seemed to be eliminated as a Democratic candidate for the Presidency, but a reaction set in with the later developments from Baltimore.

BERLIN HAS A SHIFTING WEEK.

Satisfactory Course of Settlement Causes a Rally at the Close.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 30.—The week on the Boerse was another mixture of weakness and spasmodic firmness.

Depressing news from various domestic and foreign steel, iron, and copper centres kept the market in a state of slump and inactivity. The only transactions of note were those necessitated by the approach of the monthly settlement.

The evidence that the settlement would proceed without serious disturbance proved a rallying influence toward the close of the week.

STEEL OUTPUT IS HEAVIEST ON RECORD

Many Pittsburgh Mills Could Run on Present Orders Until December.

IRON MILL WAGES INCREASED

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, June 30.—The steel trade enters the second half of 1912 with the heaviest accumulation of forward business of any midyear period since 1907. The harder-driven lines could run till next December before clearing their books of present accumulations. Specifying for midsummer deliveries continues at an almost unprecedented rate, and the country's monthly output of steel is the heaviest in its history.

Because of the impending advance on the heavy lines—plates, shapes, and bars—which was finally realized during the week, specifications are very heavy for deliveries during July, contracting for third quarter having been well cleaned up. July will not be a heavy month in new buying, but the mill schedules for the month are filled up now. In some lines, notably plates, bars, sheets, and tin plate, mills are three to six weeks behind in deliveries. Jobbers who were tardy in stocking up are running on short assortments, and railroads and building lines are urging more prompt delivery of material already ordered.

Iron Mill Wages Advanced.

By the final settlement of the puddling wage demands, signed on Friday, the threatened tie-up of the iron mills after July 1 was averted, and the plants in the Pittsburgh district will run steadily through the present holiday week, taking only one day's vacation on the Fourth. The labor leaders, by taking advantage of the present press of business and the labor shortage that has affected the entire West, obtained unexpected concessions from the manufacturers, who were helpless.

The scale signed by the Western Bar Iron Association with the Amalgamated Association, in effect in the iron mills as far west as Newport, Ky.; East Chicago, and East St. Louis, gives the puddlers, under the present sliding-scale basis, $5.70 a ton instead of $5.37½, the rate paid during June, the scale base being raised from $5 to $5.25, with 15-cent instead of 10-cent graduations, as heretofore. In the settlement by the Pittsburgh and Valley district manufacturers with the Sons of Vulcan, the insurgent puddlers' union, the men obtained the unheard-of concession of a flat rate of $6 for puddling, with the abrogation of the sliding scale, under which the wage rose and fell with the price of bar iron. The sliding scale has been an institution in the bar-iron trade for over twenty-five years.

The new quarter opens with negotiations pending for upward of 30,000 tons of basic iron by two heavy consumers in this district, all for third quarter delivery, and upward of 20,000 tons of foundry and forge grades, yet unclosed. On the outcome of these negotiations depends to a great extent the amount of idle pig iron capacity that will be put in operation with the opening of the new month. There were rumors that Cleveland furnaces had practically closed for a good part of the tonnage wanted in basic.

May Affect Bessemer Prices.

Meantime the Steel Corporation, which has been pushing its Pittsburgh district furnaces at an almost unheard-of pace since early in the Spring, has been compelled to put four of them out of blast for relining and repairs, which has led to reports that the combine would soon be in the market for additional supplies of Bessemer iron from the merchant furnaces.

The prediction that no further advance in pig iron prices will be registered in this district during the coming month, because of the putting in blast of long-idle furnace capacity, would hardly hold if the Steel Corporation became a heavy buyer of iron from the merchant furnaces, but the market is not banking on this possibility, and is assuming a fairly stable iron market for the Summer. Present prices—$14.25, furnace, for Bessemer; $13.25 to $13.50 for basic and No. 2 foundry, and $13 for malleable and forge grades—do not seem likely to be seriously disturbed.

There were no signs of weakening up to the close of the week on the part either of the furnace or coke producing interests, in the deadlock over Connellsville furnace coke prices for last half. Not a single important contract for furnace coke has been closed for upward of ten days, although there are heavy coke requirements for July on which contracts have not yet been closed. Furnace interests made a move early in the week to circumvent the Connellsville coke producers in their stand for $2.50 for furnace coke contracts for last half, by buying up spot tonnages which were to be obtained at $2.15 to $2.20.

Coke Producers Have Monopoly.

The coke producers quickly got together and took all floating spot lots off the market, defeating this flank move, and by the close of the week the supply of spot coke even at $2.30 and $2.35 was meagre. The furnaces refuse to surrender. All inquiries for last half contracts in coke have been withdrawn. Accumulations of coke in this district, in furnace hands, will not last over a week, so that the situation will solve itself automatically within that time.

The week's advance in finished steel, by which $1 was added to the official price of bars, shapes and plates, caused scarcely a ripple, the advance having been predicted for over a month. The new base prices are 1.25c Pittsburgh mill, for bars, and 1.30c for shapes and plates. Stocks are low in almost all sections of the country, so that it is expected store prices will be advanced to conform to the new mill schedule within a fortnight. All the important independents had announced the new base price by the close of the week. Republic Iron and Steel was the first in the field with the announcement of the advance, and the Steel Corporation and the independents quickly followed.

JERSEY CORPORATION TAXES.

Most of the $2,529,059 Due the State Has Been Collected.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., June 30.—The records in State Treasurer Voorhees's office show that the State has collected the greater portion of the $2,529,059 assessed against the miscellaneous corporations chartered under the laws of New Jersey. The exact amount is not made public, but it is understood that there is less than $200,000 uncollected. To this will be added the money from railroad taxation when it comes in.

On July 1 the interest period of 1 per cent. a month on uncollected taxes due the State begins, and that there is less than $200,000 of the money out is considered a good indication of the prosperity of the corporations doing business under the laws of this State.

DULL WEEK IN KNIT GOODS.

Depression Particularly Felt in Hosiery and Underwear.

Last week was one of limited activity in the New York knit goods market, the depression being particularly felt in hosiery and underwear. Stocks of seasonable hosiery in the hands of jobbers moved slowly, despite the concessions granted by way of special sales. There was a fair demand reported for merchandise of a staple nature, but for the most part the results of the week's sales were not satisfactory.

According to a prominent factor in the hosiery field, the dullness was due to heavy preliminary buying on the part of retailers and the unfavorable condition of the weather in a large part of the early retail season, in which the consumers' call for lightweight hosiery was somewhat limited. Whatever the cause, the fact remains that the majority of important retailers require little replenishing of stocks at the present moment. This condition is said to be especially true of Chicago and other parts of the Middle West, where the feeling in the greater part of the current season has not been of the best. Reports from resident salesmen in that section say that hosiery can only be sold at practically prohibitive concessions, and lightweight underwear not at all. Underwear is also said to be a drug on the market in New York and vicinity.

In the primary market this inactive condition was reflected to a considerable extent. There was a fair amount of duplicate business reported from the jobbers on Fall lines, but the initial orders booked for next Spring by salesmen now in or on their way back did not, from all accounts, reach any great amount in the aggregate. Spot buying of these lines failed to assume any great proportion during the week, and in view of the agreement that is said to exist among the jobbers regarding the placing of Spring orders before their meeting in this city on July 8, little improvement in the situation is expected before that date.

FOUR BILLIONS IN TRADE.

Commerce of Fiscal Year Just Ended Breaks All Records.

Merchandise entering and leaving this country in its trade with foreign lands and our island possessions totaled during the fiscal year ended with June the enormous sum of $4,000,000,000. This represents the most active year of commerce that the United States has ever experienced. Of the total, the exports of manufactures made up more than $1,000,000,000, and in this branch of our trade steel and iron manufactures led, with a total of $273,000,000 exported. Copper and mineral oils each accounted for more than $100,000,000, and lumber and manufactures of wood for nearly $100,000,000. Other large items were leather and manufactures thereof, amounting to about $60,000,000, and cotton manufactures, amounting to about $50,000,000.

We imported about $1,000,000,000 worth of non-dutiable merchandise. Of this about $900,000,000 was from foreign countries and $100,000,000 worth from Hawaii and Porto Rico. Of the merchandise coming from foreign countries only 53.5 per cent. entered free of duty, against 44.8 per cent. during the entire period of the Dingley law, 48.8 per cent. under the Wilson law, and 53 per cent. under the McKinley law, when the admission of sugar free of duty made the percentage of duty-free imports unusually large, but not so high as that of the year just ended. In fact, the value of duty-free merchandise entering from foreign countries in 1912 not only exceeds by far that of any earlier year, but also forms a larger share of the total imports than in any previous year except 1892 and 1894, the opening and closing years of the operations of the McKinley law, when the imports of sugar free of duty were abnormally large. Imports of duty-free merchandise never reached as much as $100,000,000 prior to 1873.

The principal articles forming the billion dollars' worth of duty-free merchandise entering continental United States during the fiscal year 1912 are, according to the latest reports of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, foodstuffs and manufacturers' materials. The foodstuffs entering without payment of duty included about $120,000,000 worth of coffee, approximately $35,000,000 worth of tea and cocoa, over $20,000,000 worth of fruit and nuts, $5,000,000 worth of spices, and about $90,000,000 worth of sugar from Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippines. The manufacturers' materials entering free of duty included approximately $100,000,000 worth of hides and skins, over $100,000,000 worth of indiarubber and substitutes therefor, about $65,000,000 worth of raw silk, $50,000,000 worth of tin in bars, blocks, and pigs; $45,000,000 worth of copper in ore and pigs, $30,000,000 worth of fibres, including hemp, jute, and sisal, and about $20,000,000 worth of raw cotton.

ASK PARDON FOR BANK THIEF.

Friends of S. Lee Smith, 19, to Appeal to President Taft.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 30.—President Taft wil be asked to pardon S. Lee Smith, 19, who took $2,125 from the Worcester Bank.

Smth pleaded guilty. He took the money on July 3, one year ago, and went to Winnipeg, where he became conscience-stricken and sent back $1,000; then he went to the Indian Territory and obtained a position on the railroad. There he revealed his identity to a United States marshal.

Smith will receive a five-year prison sentence, but the court will recommend clemency.

This issue of bonds will be secured by a first lien on properties having net earnings largely in excess of the interest thereon. In addition surplus earnings from properties controlled through stock ownership are about three times the interest on the present issue.

Issue of additional bonds is unusually well safeguarded: Bonds reserved for improvements, additions, extensions, etc., can be issued only for 75 per cent. of cash cost when net earnings for the preceding twelve months have been at least one and one-half times annual charges on all bonds and prior securities outstanding (not including sinking funds) and those proposed to be issued.

Value of the properties is largely in excess of the bonded debt. The equity as measured by the total market value of the securities junior to the First and Refunding Bonds is approximately $10,000,000.

The location of the Company's properties in a number of different communities acts as effective insurance against local business depression or political disturbances.

Management of the Company is in the hands of men who have been conspicuously successful in the operation of public utility corporations which offers the best possible guarantee of the future success of the Company.

JULY INVESTMENTS

The bonds offered below are largely held by insurance companies, trust companies, savings banks and national banks. The significance of this statement lies in the fact that such institutions have on their boards of directors men of the highest order of financial, railroad and commercial ability. The ability and integrity of these men are such that any investor would, when making investments, readily act upon their advice if obtainable. When, therefore, individual investors buy the securities held by these institutions they are obtaining the benefit of the expert ability and integrity of these men as truly as though they had been advised in person to make such purchases.

All of them, with one exception, are listed on the New York Stock Exchange and a number of them are listed in Europe, thus giving them broad and active markets.

First Mortgage Gold 4s, 1949 .... @ 93½ & int., to pay 4.35%
Guaranteed principal and interest by Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. Co.
The fixed charges of both the St. Paul and Puget Sound lines are not much over 40 per cent. of the combined net income. The cost of constructing the Puget Sound line has reached $150,000,000, against which the public holds but $25,000,000 of these bonds.

$100,000 New York Central Lines.
Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Ry. Co., St. Louis Division, 1st 4s, 1990, @ 91½ & int., to pay 4.40%
These bonds are a closed first lien on the New York Central Lines' only entrance to St. Louis, where more than 87,000 miles (35%) of the railroads of the United States connect for interchange of traffic. Sinking fund is sufficient to retire entire issue before maturity, but bonds cannot be called.

$100,000 Chicago & North-Western Ry. Co.
Milwaukee, Sparta & North-Western First Mortgage Gold 4s, 1947 .... @ 94 & int., to pay 4.35%
Legal investment for Massachusetts insurance companies, Connecticut savings banks and for estates and savings banks in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.
These bonds are now the direct obligation of the Chicago & North-Western Ry. Co. They are a closed mortgage on that company's new main line to the Northwest.

San Francisco Terminal First Mortgage Gold 4s, 1950 .... @ 91 & int., to pay 4.50%
The Southern Pacific Co. has $272,672,405 stock outstanding, upon which it pays 6% dividends. Its total funded debt is but $129,143,410, or less than one-half its capital stock. $81,151,910 of this funded debt is unsecured, indicating the high credit of the company. These bonds are a first mortgage on 718 acres of terminals, valued at $30,000,000, against which there are but $18,995,000 bonds.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern System.
$50,000 Toledo & Ohio Central Ry. Co.
Western Division 1st Mtge. Gold 5s, 1933 .... @ 109 & int., to pay 4.35%
Legal investment for Massachusetts insurance companies.
The very conservative capitalized road earns nearly three times its fixed charges, and this closed mortgage covers all of its lines at the low rate of $6,355 per mile. It is followed by $12,208,000 junior securities, all of which are receiving interest and dividends.

Baltimore & Ohio System.
$50,000 Cincinnati, Dayton & Ironton R. R. Co.
First Mortgage Gold 5s, 1941 .... @ 104½ & int., to pay 4.70%
This closed first mortgage issue now underlies two mortgage issues, one of which, for $12,500,000, is guaranteed principal and interest by Baltimore & Ohio R. R. Co., which, in addition, is obligated to make still further large investments in the property in securities junior to these bonds. These bonds have been outstanding since 1891.

$100,000 New York, Susquehanna & Western R. R. Co.
Tax-exempt in New Jersey. Legal investment for New York and Massachusetts insurance companies.
These bonds have been outstanding more than 25 years. They now underlie two mortgage issues, and are protected by junior securities having a market value equivalent to 3½ times this issue. These bonds are a thoroughly matured investment and amply secured from every point of view.

$75,000 Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co.
Atlanta-Birmingham Division First Mortgage Gold 4s, 1933 .... @ 89¼ & int., to pay 4.82%
This $5,910,000 closed first mortgage covers property which cost $9,000,000. It is followed by $43,979,500 junior mortgages. Property covered lies between Atlanta and Birmingham, and includes valuable real estate and terminals in Birmingham.

$150,000 Missouri, Kansas & Texas Ry. Co.
General Mortgage Gold S. F. 4½s, 1936 .... @ 88½ & int., to pay 5.35%
These bonds have recently been bought by some very discriminating institutions and private investors who realize that by reason of the development of the M., K. & T. system they have now become an underlying lien at a very low rate per mile on all of the principal lines of the system. The mortgage is practically closed. They are largely held by Insurance Companies, Trust Companies and Banks, and are listed on New York, London and Amsterdam Stock Exchanges.

Improvement Mortgage Gold 5s, 1928 .... @ 97½ & int., to pay 5.22%
Legal investment for Rhode Island savings banks.
New railroad and financial interests now dominate this road's affairs, and the property is now responding with greatly improved physical conditions. These bonds underlie two mortgage issues. Earnings available for payment of this interest past six years have averaged more than thirteen times the interest on this issue.

$250,000 Chicago Great Western R. R. Co.
First Mortgage Gold 4s, 1959 .... @ market, to pay 5.28%
In the opinion of competent judges these bonds are among the cheapest bonds and the best purchases offered by the present market. With return of normal market conditions these bonds should work steadily upward until they reach a level in keeping with other similar bonds.

First Mortgage Gold 4½s, 1941, Guaranteed Principal and Interest by Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Ry. Co. .... @ 91 & int., to pay 5.10%
Legal investment for Massachusetts insurance companies.
These bonds are a first mortgage lien on high grade road forming essential portions of two important through lines in a propsperous system of 8,000 miles.
They are guaranteed, principal and interest, by the old underlying company of the Rock Island system, the guarantor having paid consecutive cash dividends for 45 years and earned last year $5,442,714 over all its charges save dividends.

$100,000 St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co.
Second Mortgage Gold 4s, 1989 .... @ 82½ & int., to pay 4.90%
These bonds, originally issued in 1891 as income bonds, have become an underlying issue at a very low rate per mile and fully protected by $29,761,750 junior bonds and $36,249,750 preferred and common stocks, which at present market prices represent an equity of $27,140 per mile of road against this bond issue, which is outstanding in the hands of the public at $1,480 per mile.

$50,000 Chicago Telephone Co.
First Mortgage Gold 5s, 1923 .... @ 102 & int., to pay 4.75%
This company is one of the more important subsidiaries of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., and these bonds are a first mortgage on its entire property. It has paid dividends of never less than 8% for past 28 years. Value of mortgaged property is more than twice present bonded debt.

People's Gas Light & Coke Co.
$35,000 Consumers Gas Co. of Chicago
First Mortgage Gold 5s, 1936 .... @ 103¼ & int., to pay 4.77%
These bonds, secured by a closed underlying mortgage, have been outstanding more than 26 years, and are a thoroughly matured investment security of the highest grade. They are followed by $18,400,000 refunding 5% bonds, selling above par, and by $35,000,000 stock receiving 7% dividends. Listed on New York and Chicago Stock Exchanges.

First Mortgage Gold 4s, 1949 .... @ 84 & int., to pay 5.00%
Legal investment for New York insurance companies and Rhode Island savings banks.
This underlying first mortgage bond issue covers a property serving over 1,000,000 inhabitants, and has been outstanding 13 years. It underlies junior securities having a present market value of $77,000,000, $55,000,000 of which have been sold for cash within the past six years. The United Electric Co. property alone earns three times the interest on these bonds.

5% Gold Loan of 1912 .... @ 94⅝ & int., to pay 5.35%
This loan already enjoys an international market. The strong probability is that it will repeat the history of the other Japanese loans and be gradually absorbed by London and Continental markets at advance in prices.

TO THE HOLDERS OF THE

THE OMAHA WATER COMPANY

The Omaha Water Company hereby gives notice that its consolidated mortgage bonds, dated July 23, 1896, with accrued interest to July 1, 1912, will be paid, on or after that date, upon surrender of the bonds with all unpaid coupons attached, at the office of The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, trustee, No. 16 to 22 William Street, in the City of New York, from the proceeds of sale of the water company's works to the City of Omaha received by said trustee. Certificates of the water company will then be issued, representing the five per cent. redemption premium in litigation, and entitling the holder of each thousand-dollar bond to fifty dollars with interest at five per cent. per annum from July 1, 1912, if the Court of Appeals of the State of New York shall decide that the completion of the city's purchase does not relieve the company from payment of such premium.

THE OMAHA WATER COMPANY,
By THEODORE C. WOODBURY,
President.

Dated, June 7, 1912.

THE WABASH RAILROAD COMPANY

In view of the financial difficulties of the Wabash Railroad Company, and in view of the announced intentions and purposes of the Committees representing First Refunding and Extensions Mortgage Bonds of that Company, it has become important that the holders of the stock of the Company (Preferred and Common) should unite for the protection of their interests.

For this purpose the undersigned, at the request of holders of large amounts of the stock of the Wabash Railroad Company, have consented to act as a Committee under an agreement dated December 19, 1911, (a copy of which is on file at the office of the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, Depositary, 60 Broadway, New York City,) and request the deposit by stockholders of their shares, under said agreement, with said Depositary. Stock certificates so deposited should be properly indorsed in blank or be accompanied by properly executed instruments for transfer, and properly stamped so as to comply with the laws of the State of New York in respect to the transfer of shares of capital stock. Against such deposit there will be issued certificates of deposit therefor under the agreement above referred to, copies of which agreement may be obtained upon application to the Depositary.

Application will be made in due course to list the certificates of deposit on the New York Stock Exchange.

PEACHES LOWER IN PRICE.

Larger Supplies Received During Past Week—Orange Market.

There was a marked decline in peach prices in the New York market last week, according to The Fruit Trade Journal, although the demand for desirable fruit was fairly active. Receipts were heavier than the previous week, the general movement was fair, but lower prices were registered. The weakness was attributed to increased supplies, large quantities of which were of small size, and to the scarcity of fancy stock. Fifty cars arrived on Monday from Georgia, and offerings during the week ranged from about twenty-five to thirty cars a day. The bulk of the offerings consisted of Carmens.

Developments of primary importance in the California orange market included a break in prices on Thursday, and moderate receipts of Valencias. The opening was strong and active, and excellent results were obtained in all varieties. Strictly fancy Valencias sold as high as $5.20, and navels up to $4.40 per box. Undesirable navels were in light supply, and sold as low as $1.20. Medium and small sizes had the preference during the greater part of the week, while large sizes received less attention, and were generally easier. A good many of the Valencias were very green, and bore indications of maturing earlier than usual. Navels are rapidly winding up.

WHEAT THREATENED BY HOT, DRY SPELL

ODER BIG FACTOR IN GRAIN

WHEAT.

The wheat market this week has been a weather afafir with the advance started originally on reports of dry, hot weather in the Canadian Northwest, and later helped by reports of unseasonably high temperatures in the American Northwest. While there were scattered showers in both the American and Canadian Northwest there was no general relief, and at the close of the week the market was at the high point, but considerable selling developed on the morning rise Saturday due to the predictions of showers in North Dakota and reports of scattered showers in other sections. The July deliveries in all grain were relatively weak on announcement that the trouble between the elevator owners and the Chicago Board of Trade had been adjusted, and the elevators which had refused the board's terms would now become regular again for the handling of contract grain.

The conditions which are influencing the wheat trade this year are so unusual that operators are finding difficulty in sizing up the situation. The distribution of the excess supply and deficient supply is such that the question of the distribution of the actual grain will be a considerable factor in pricemaking, as well as the location of shortage. There seems to be no question now, if the harvest weather is favorable, of a good crop in the Eastern Winter wheat districts, which will naturally restrict the buying from the sections east of the Alleganies. The deficiency in the Central West, which appears to be around 100,000,000 bushels, will make the Central Western States undoubtedly net importers of wheat. As a result, Central Western mills will have to depend on their local trade, as they will probably be able to get little surplus wheat to mill unless they are so situated as to take advantage of milling in transit condition.

The surplus crop in the Southwest is apparently of such volume that Oklahoma and Kansas will be sellers of wheat and flour for distribution into the Central West, the Northeast, and the East. The Southern crop seems to be sufficiently large so that a considerable portion of this demand, which was an influence last year, will be eliminated. The size of the Hard Winter wheat crop in Kansas is estimated at 80,000,000 to 90,000,000 bushels, or, say, 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels more than last year. In Oklahoma the crop will be in excess of last year, but not so much in excess as expected early, while recent Nebraska estimates are for 45,000,000 bushels, which would be a loss of about 8,000,000, compared with the early May figures for Nebraska, but about 4,000,000 bushels more than indicated June 1. The Kansas indications June 1 were 77,000,000 bushels.

Recent private reports for the entire Winter wheat crop indicated probabilities of slight improvement for the month, one report claiming a net gain equal to 12,000,000 bushels. The shortage is so great, however, that the need of a large Spring wheat crop is urgent. Up to the beginning of last week there appeared to be no question regarding the favorable situation of the Spring wheat. Maintained condition was generally claimed, which, accepting the Government basis of estimating, would be equivalent to an increase in probable yields per acre. Hot, dry weather, however, has been reported, with the need becoming urgent for rain in South Dakota. There are a few serious complaints of actual damage, however. Fear that the crop may be hurt tends to dominate the situation, and very few have shown any willingness to fight the advance. High-priced sentiment is more or less prevalent, particularly through the West, and this is not to be overlooked as a pricemaker.

The principal speculative influence during the week was the weather in the Canadian Northwest. The moisture supply has not been quite so generous in the Canadian Northwest as in the American, and the development of temperatures of 90 to 100 through the Prairie Provinces brought immediate report of damage, and apprehension expressed itself in a sharp advance of several cents a bushel. The moisture supply in the American and Canadian Northwest this season has been much better than last year, and therefore the conditions are better to withstand a period of drought than they were a year ago.

Abroad the markets have been steady. The world's export movement of wheat continues heavy, but there has been large absorption of wheat by the Continent in order to tide over until the new crop comes on the market. The conditions abroad show that spot supplies were allowed to run down lower than the situation warranted, and the consequent buying to carry the consuumer to new wheat has been very liberal.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—The corn market has been experiencing conditions where the market has been oversold on favorable weather and improved crop prospects for new corn, but decreasing receipts of old corn and hardening of spot corn values have created a congestion in near-by deliveries. The technical situation had dominated, and sellers of July and September on the weather have been forced to come into the market and cover. The stocks of old corn are not large, and with a scarcity of contract supplies the market seems likely to be under the influence of the technical conditions for some time, as the favorable appearance of the feedstuffs crop generally and favorable reports on corn naturally find expression in selling the future deliveries, but when the selling fever runs out the market is easily run up on account of the small supplies. The Government report to be issued next week is expected to show a large acreage, although it may show a condition below the average, owing to the irregular growth of the crop.

OATS.—The market movement has been influenced by the strength in other grain, although rallies have been slow and without much force. With the 1st of July at hand the conditions for the crop have been very satisfactory. A general rain through the Middle Mississippi Valley and from Southern Nebraska north to the Canadian line would be a very beneficial condition and probably mean a big crop of oats in all sections. The hot weather of the week in the Northwest has brought some complaints. Nevertheless, the trade is anticipating a very favorable Government showing and possibility of a crop record or close to a record if the desired rains come within a short time. The trade is also expecting a favorable report on the hay crop, as well as a large acreage of corn and a situation in corn where the prospects favor improvement.

PROVISIONS.—Trading in hog products [illegible] on a very limited scale during [illegible] with fluctuations narrow. There [illegible] lete lack of speculative interest [illegible] ket. Large interests seem to [illegible] ete control of the spot and [illegible] n and apprehending a later [illegible] the movement of hogs are [illegible] le in the way of efforts to sell, [illegible] rather waiting the decrease in [illegible] hog movement to create general [illegible] ting demand. The demand is sl[illegible] wever, for product and the moveme[illegible] hogs is comparatively liberal. Rec[illegible] of hogs this week has been quite la[illegible] on several days and the demand [illegible] hogs for packing has [illegible] rather li[illegible]ed. The packing re[illegible] the preceding week showed a decrease of 100,000 from last year and so far since March 1 the packing has decreased 1,000,000 hogs, but the movement last year was a record one.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The inevitable readjustment was gradually perfected in this market during the past week, but without excitement or unusual price movement. There was a larger volume of business, with considerable liquidation by speculative holders and the offerings freely taken at a slightly lower basis by the principal refining and speculative shorts. Interest was focused upon the July delivery, but apparently those not in a position to accept delivery of the actual oil had been fairly well eliminated from the situation prior to tender day. Moderate deliveries were made, but these were readily cared for without material depression to the market.

Sentiment has not undergone any radical change. The same clique which was conspicuous during the last several weeks on the bull side of the market has not abandoned their position entirely, and are still credited with having fair holdings of the fall months. Their faith in the prospect of light summer supplies ostensibly remains. The consensus of opinion is that the short account is comprised mainly of the same interests which have been covering the last week, and it is presumably of the same character. Bearish views still predominate, although there was evidence of less pessimism with the strengthened technical position and the decline of values. The gains registered Saturday were ascribed largely to an oversold market.

Partly serving to cause a modification in some of the expressions emanating from factors operating for a lower level was a slight betterment in the compound lard trade. The aggregate of advices, however, are indicative of only a continued limited inquiry for cottonseed oil, and it is obvious that until there is an expansion in this respect it will be difficult to awaken bullish enthusiasm in the old crop months at this late date. Of course the absence of speculative holdings and the probability of consumers having only light supplies on hand, due to their cautious buying of the last month, are features conducive to at least the maintenance of values, but due consideration must be given to developments of the cotton plant and of the feedstuff crops.

What occurs along those lines will actuate to an important extent the season-end demand for cottonseed oil. There seems to have been some accumulation of the distant deliveries in the market, but the belief is prevalent that it is based mainly on the discount of those options. New crude oil, on the other hand, has not been offered in impressing volume, but it would not be surprising to note an increment of Southern offerings in the event of the present crop prospects not being greatly marred.

COTTON.

At times during the last week the market was inanimate, and while the news developments ordinarily would have served to infuse spirit into the trading their effect recently has been to augment the caution which has been noted among all concerned. Unmistakable steadiness of the market inspired a great deal of comment, but nothing approaching bullish enthusiasm was noted, even though on the small or moderate recessions there was accumulation of contracts which suggested confidence on the part of certain interests. Adequate explanation for this attitude is still lacking, but the assumption in most quarters is that there remains sufficient uncertainty as to the crop outlook with the inevitable crop scares to be encountered to at least justify aversion to the short side of the market, if not a tenable stand for higher levels.

It will be remembered that a bullish position was most agreeable to many last season, with purchases of cotton freely made on the theory that a large crop was imperative, and that until it was assured there would be a great deal of nervousness among consumers, as their stocks were depleted. The result is a matter of history. With the progress of the crop last year, it gradually dawned upon the trade that the big yield which was considered a necessity was materializing, and a slump of more than 3 cents a pound occurred. Of course, there are but very few who are inclined to anticipate a recurrence of this, but many are to be found who are obsessed with the idea that there has been a recovery in the cotton prospects from the unsatisfactory start, which is not to be ignored, particularly as the season is not analogous to that of last, inasmuch as spinners have freely supplied themselves, and the visible supply contains approximately 1,000,000 bales more of cotton than at this period in 1911.

A survey of weather conditions which were experienced during the last week would suggest that, on the whole, the basis for complaint is far from general. The seasonable weather over many localities was best emphasized in the majority of optimistic crop accounts and willingness of the South to sell moderately. However, there was reiteration of the claims that many sections of the Eastern belt are receiving an excess of precipitation, which is not permitting the best development of the plant. There have also been cool nights in part of the Central West and the East, but this has not resulted in much apprehension, at least not when compared with the nervousness created by the showery weather or with the belief that the trade is again going to be the recipient of numerous insect damage reports, not only from the boll weevil in the Central West, but from the army worm and caterpillar in Alabama and Georgia. Sight was not lost of the benefit which scattered sections, especially those of the Carolinas, received from the recent moisture.

Several private crop estimates were compiled and issued during the past week which indirectly confirmed the suitable weather of the last few weeks. The correspondents of Weld & Co. reported an average condition of 83.9; those of Norden & Co. 82.9. The estimate prepared by a prominent Memphis authority for E. F. Hutton & Co. was for a condition of the plant of 80.1 and a reduction in the area of 6½ per cent. Rumors were in circulation of a prospective estimate by the National Ginners' Association which would disclose a percentage condition of the plant of from 83 to 84, and while confirmation was lacking the consensus of opinion was that the Government report to be issued on Wednesday will indicate a higher June condition of the plant than the ten-year average of 80.7. Much confusion prevails as to the acreage figures which will be made public on that day, and while the trade has been educated to look for an area of from 5 to 7 per cent. below that of last season, there is no unanimity of opinion that the curtailment will be equal to the maximum estimates. As to what interpretation the report will receive, in the event of the statistics coming beyond the line of expectations, remains to be seen, although it has been pointed out that invariably the market advanced after the June report, last year not being an exception to this, but naturally the day-to-day climatic changes during the Summer will be the governing influence.

A reduction in the volume of spinners' takings has not been unnoticed and furnished opportunity for those of the belief that the recent large "spinners' takings" were confused with "consumption," to assert their ideas more forcibly. There is a disinclination to view the American trade situation as other than hopeful, but with the replenished stocks and the heavy exports, the belief persists in some quarters that the buying power of the next several months may be under that of this last year due to the assimilation of this last enormous crop which more than satisfied an expended consumptive demand. While the foreign market has not displayed symptoms of weakness, there have been smaller spot sales at Liverpool and the Manchester accounts, although far from pessimistic seem rather irregular. It is well realized that the unprecedented exports the last season largely aided in the enhancement of values, but a repetition of this is not looked for by some people who argue that aside from the more independent position of spinners, there are political and other disturbances in foreign countries which until remedied will deserve consideration, even though betterment is noticeable in several directions.

Overlooking the River Thames and Embankment Gardens

Engaging Rooms at the World's Most Famous Hotel By Wireless Telegraphy

"The rush of tourists from America has begun. The Savoy is one of London's big hotels which is full. Never so early in the season has there been such a demand for suites of apartments. Hours before the 'Carmania' was in sight of land Wireless Telegrams were arriving at the booking offices of the Savoy, and soon every free suite was ready for its occupants."

—From "The New York Herald" (Paris)

The comforts and luxury of the SAVOY HOTEL, its cuisine and service, combined with the most moderate charges, place it absolutely in the front rank of all hotels in Europe. The beautiful suites, with bathrooms attached, overlooking the River Thames and Embankment Gardens, away from the noise and bustle of street traffic, although in the centre of London, are greatly appreciated by all American travelers.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The building of an area of high barometric pressure over the region of the Great Lakes has been attended by cooler weather in the region, the Ohio Valley, and the Middle and North Atlantic States. There have been local rains in the last twenty-four hours at widely scattered points in the Middle Atlantic and Gulf States, Tennessee, the Upper Mississippi Valley, the Rocky Mountain region, and on the North Pacific Coast. The indications are that the warm wave in the Northwest States will be dissipated during the next forty-eight hours, and it is also probable that warmer weather will overspread much of the country east of the Mississippi River during the next two or three days. Over the New England and Middle Atlantic States, the Ohio Valley, the lake region, and the Southwest, the weather will continue generally fair Monday and Tuesday.

The winds along the New England Coast will be light variable; Middle and South Atlantic, and East Gulf Coasts, light to moderate.

Steamers departing Monday for European ports will have moderate north winds and generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND TUESDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania, and Southern New England—Generally fair Monday and Tuesday; rising temperature; light variable winds.

3 A. M.	62	73	4 P. M.	80	73
6 A. M.	63	65	6 P. M.	81	71
9 A. M.	70	65	9 P. M.	74	67
12 M.	75	66	12 P. M.	72	65

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 0; for the corresponding date last year was 71; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 72.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 5; at 8 P. M. it was 69. Maximum temperature, 76 degrees at 12:40 P. M.; minimum, 63 degrees at 7 A. M. Humidity, 41 per cent. at A. M., 34 per cent. at 8 P. M.

CALL LONGSHOREMEN OUT IN SHIP STRIKE

Strikers Say That Their Ranks Will Be Increased to 9,000 by To-night.

FIGHT ON AMERICAN LINE

After Vessels Arriving To-day—Hope to Get Freight Checkers, Teamsters, and Coal Passers.

At a meeting of the striking coal passers, firemen, oilers, water tenders, and seamen of the National Transport Workers' Federation of America held yesterday afternoon at strike headquarters, 229 West Street, assurance was given by representatives of the longshoremen's unions that a strike of longshoremen would be called to-day and that by nightfall at least 2,500 longshoremen would be out. The strike will involve workers on the piers in Hoboken and Brooklyn, as well as in Manhattan, and the Transport Workers' Federation expects that by the end of the week 25,000 longshoremen will have quit. To-day, according to the officers of the union, will also see 3,000 freight checkers on the piers walk out in sympathy with their fellow-workers.

There were probably 2,500 men at yesterday's meeting, and of this number 1,200 were said to be longshoremen. Speeches were made by a number of leaders encouraging those now on strike and urging a spread of the strike to effect a complete tie-up of the steamship companies who have refused to sign the union agreement.

Longshoremen are not well organized at present, it is admitted, and those who are are combined into several different unions. They have held no meetings at which to consider a strike, though there has been plenty of strike talk among the men. At the meeting in the West Street hall it was said that there were present men from each of the longshore unions, and these men were addressed by G. Walker, representing the men on Pier 15, North River. His talk was frequently interrupted by cheering, and when he closed a strike vote was called for by the upraising of hands. It was said that without exception the men signified their desire to strike and promised to quit work to-day.

Their action was entirely unofficial, this is admitted, and as soon as the strike sentiment was apparent the men were instructed to go out on the piers where men were working and to go among their friends and do missionary work. They left the hall to do so, and the federation leaders are confident that this morning will see the beginning of a longshoremen's strike which will in the end involve 75,000 men.

Appeal to Longshoremen.

The appeal to the longshoremen to strike was circulated among the men at the meeting, and it contains this paragraph:

> Don't let us stay away from our meetings, but go there and change them. Call the fellows out on strike and draw up demands. Don't let us mind our "leaders" when they order us to keep at work. They never want a strike for fear of losing their graft and their jobs. Don't let petty politicians rule us. They are looking out for themselves. We must look out for ourselves.

This appeal was signed by the Committee of Organized Longshoremen. This is what the men demand:

Day work, 7 A. M. to 6 P. M.	35c. an hour
Night work, 7 P. M. to 12 M.	50c. an hour
Night work, 1 A. M. to 6 A. M.	60c. an hour
Sunday, 7 A. M. to 6 P. M.	70c. an hour
Sunday night	Double Sunday rate
Meal hours (12 to 1 noon, 6 to 7 P. M., 12 to 1 morning, 6 to 7 A. M.)	70c. an hour

Fifteen minutes before or after an hour, to call for a half hour.

Men to be hired or knocked off on even time, hour or half hour.

Five minutes to be allowed for putting hatches on.

No bonus or extra pay is to be allowed to gangway men or headers.

No timekeeper is to have the power to hire men or blackball them.

No dockmen are to be used to load or discharge lighters for outside contractors, excepting over the side.

No bagstuffs weighing over 100 pounds to be carried on the docks. Trucks to be used inside when possible.

No case goods to be carried on docks.

The strike of longshoremen will probably start, the leaders say, on the Mallory, Clyde, Southern Pacific, and Savannah Line piers in Manhattan; the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American Lines in Hoboken, and the Fabre Line and the Bush Stores in Brooklyn. Affiliated with the National Transport Workers' Federation is the International Longshoremen's Association, comprising locals in Manhattan, five locals in Brooklyn, four in Hoboken, one in Jersey City, and one in South Amboy. These unions contain scow trimmers, ship riggers, coal handlers, copper workers, and cargo packers. There are other longshoremen's unions, too.

Additions to the Strikers.

George C. Bodine, Secretary of the Atlantic Coast Seamen's Union; James Vidal, Secretary of the Firemen's Union, and other officers of the federation spent the day laying out a plan of campaign. There was plenty to do and a great part of the day was given to explaining the strike and reinstructing recruits. The Savannah liner City of Savannah got in from Savannah and within an hour after her arrival it was announced that the engine room force and the seamen had struck. The firemen on this vessel, it was said, are Greeks, and when they came to strike headquarters they said that the officers had told them that the trouble in New York was simply a strike of Spanish firemen. They were told to go back and get their bags and join the strike.

The Morgan liner El Sol got in from Galveston in the morning, and the strikers had a delegation on hand to call the men on board out. Secretary Vidal said that both seamen and engine room force quit. The same announcement was made after the arrival of the Clyde liner Sabine, from Galveston. The Old Dominion liners, the Jamestown and the Jefferson, got in from Norfolk. The strike had begun before they left that port, and they were manned by non-union crews. There was no hostile demonstration upon their arrival, and to-day the pickets of the union will endeavor to get the men to desert. It is expected that to-day will see a great increase in the number of striking employes on the coastwise lines, for, while there are but few vessels leaving this port there are an unusual number due to arrive, and as each vessel comes to her pier, the Federation leaders expect that the men will quit at once in obedience to the strike call, issued while they were at sea.

An action, which will have a far-reaching effect, is planned for to-day or tomorrow by the Transport Workers' Federation. Mr. Vidal announced yesterday after the meeting that a strike of firemen, oilers, seamen, coal passers, and water tenders would be called against steamships of the American Line. The company inquired last week as to the new agreement. It was notified, but up to yesterday had not signified any intention to sign. What a strike on that line would mean to the unions was explained by Mr. Vidal. He said that it would bring about a great demand for strikebreakers, and as the supply was apparently limited, it would force the transatlantic line to compete with the coastwise lines for men to man their vessels.

The strikers declared that about 150 engineer department men, and at least 100 seamen were taken off incoming vessels yesterday, and that by to-night 9,000 men who work on steamships will be out on strike.

Lines Held Up Elsewhere.

Reports that reached strike headquarters were declared to be most encouraging. In the morning the Guffy Oil Company, which operates seven oil carrying steamships, signed the union agreement. Mr. Vidal said he had received a cable that the dockmen in Colon had gone out on strike in sympathy with their fellow workers in this city. At least seven schooners are reported to be held up short of hands. The union also announced that the Morgan liner Antillies is held up at New Orleans, the Clyde liner Katahdin at Boston, two Clyde liners at Philadelphia, where at least 800 men are out, and in Norfolk the strike is said to be spreading, and six vessels at Galveston have been deserted by their crews.

What the federation is now planning and working to bring about is a union of all the trades which have to do with transportation by water, and to this end it issued yesterday an appeal to all longshoremen, warehousemen, teamsters, and truck drivers to come into the federation. One big union combining steamship workers, dock workers, and freight handlers at every port along the Atlantic seaboard and the Gulf is the object in view.

Just at present trouble has developed within the federation ranks. The National Transport Workers' Federation embraces the Marine Cooks and Stewards' Association. The cooks are not inclined to heed the strike call. At a meeting of the organization a few days ago Henry B. Griffin, the head of the organization, was reported to have said that the cooks and waiters would not strike. This is because, they say, it is the firemen who are constantly making complaints as to the food and the way it is cooked. Some of the union men, it is said, have lost their positions because of the complaints of their fellow workers.

The federation leaders are now working with the cooks and waiters to have them declare for a strike. The complaints, they say, come from men who are either ignorant or misinformed and do not realize that bad canditions are not the fault of the cooks, but the system under which they work. Already, it was said, at strike headquarters, many waiters on the steamships Brazos, Arapahoe, and Saratoga had joined the strike. Secretary Vidal also received word that in Philadelphia the cooks and waiters had asked that a vote be taken in their union on the question of a strike without regard to the opinion of their leaders.

The strikers hope that the teamsters will decide upon a strike, and if that happens they believe they will tie up the port. If they can also get the coal handlers to strike they will tie up vessels by preventing their coaling. This will include all classes of craft and affect the transatlantic passenger trade.

There were two or three cases of disorder yesterday. Manuel Riaz, a fireman, was arrested for disorderly conduct on the Morgan Line pier. He was fined $10 in Jefferson Market Court. Two other men were arrested on the North River front, and also fined in court. The union paid all the fines.

Eastern Steamship Company Yields.

BOSTON, June 30.—Announcement that the Eastern Steamship Company had signed the new wage agreement demanded by the Marine Firemen's and Atlantic Coast Seamen's Unions was made to-day at the close of a union meeting. Two other companies are expected to sign the agreement, according to the union officials. At present there are in port some 400 seamen and 250 marine firemen.

HEAVY LIFE PAYMENTS.

Insurance Companies Distributed $592,640,000 in Benefits in 1911.

More than half a billion dollars was distributed to beneficiaries of life insurance policies last year in death claims, matured endowments, and other benefits and dividends to policy holders by the life insurance organizations of the United States and Canada, according to computations made by The Insurance Press. The payments were $401,140,000 for death claims, matured endowments, and other benefits under the policies of level premium companies and various life organizations, including assessment concerns and the like. An additional $191,500,000 is the estimated amount paid by regular companies in dividends to policy holders for surrender values, to annuitants, and on claims in foreign countries. This brings the grand total up to $592,640,000.

All benefits under policies in the transactions of regular life insurance companies increased in 1911. The amount of insurance written and revived, by the regular companies alone, was nearly $3,000,000,000, or about $400,000,000 more than in 1910.

Something of an index to the general business conditions of the country is the amount of life insurance that is surrendered or allowed to lapse. The disbursements in 1911 of the companies that report to the New York Insurance Department for lapsed, surrendered and purchased policies reached $75,710,000, an increase of $2,853,000 over 1910. This compares with a decrease of $187,000 in 1910, an increase of $3,059,000 in 1909 and an increase of $14,543,000 in 1908. More persons found it necessary to let go of their life insurance policies in 1911 than in 1910, although financial pressure or the other causes that compel the surrender of life insurance were not so intense nor so generally operative in 1911 as in 1910.

Last year was remarkable for large distributions to policy holders in the form of dividends. The New York reports show that the sum of $80,095,000 was distributed in dividends, against $72,875,000 in 1910, an increase of $7,220,000. Millions of dollars of dividends were applied for the purpose of annuities and paid-up additions to insurance carried. In two years more than $152,000,000 has been disbursed in dividends to policy holders by the life insurance companies whose annual statements are filed with the New York Insurance Department.

That the dividend payments to policyholders exceeded by several millions the amount of the disbursements for lapsed, surrendered and purchased policies is a notable and a wholesome feature of last year's operations of life insurance companies.

In addition to the more than $80,000,000 paid in dividends in 1911, the large sum of $84,897,000 was set aside to cover dividends declared or apportioned for payment in 1912.

On the ledgers of the companies the further sum of $222,000,000 was credited to policy holders, on Dec. 31, 1911, for dividends calculated or provisionally ascertained under deferred dividend policies.

The records of 1911 show a large increase in the amount paid in death claims, but only a small increase in the total payments under endowment policies.

Borrowing on life insurance occurred in smaller volume in 1911 than in 1910. On a larger amount of insurance in force the loans on policies increased only $40,949,000, against an increase in 1910 of $44,400,000. The use of insurance policies as collateral for loans negotiated with insurance companies was greatest in 1907, in which single year the policy loan account increased $72,587,000. Loan liens at the close of 1911 amounted to $482,345,000. This means that setlements under life insurance contracts have been anticipated in this vast sum; and to the extent that the insurance contracts call for payments upon the death of the insured, the loans secured by borrowers must be paid by widows and orphans. Teh moral is plain—do not borrow on your life insurance policies if you can help it.

Of the $482,345,000 of policy loans outstanding on Dec. 31, 1911, $275,629,000 was incurred in the six-year period 1907-1911, both inclusive; $206,716,000 was incurred prior to 1906.

WRECKS AUTO MAKING TURN AT HIGH SPEED

Chauffeur for M. W. Mundy of Hotel Plaza Leaves Two Women and a Man Hemmed In.

DRIVES MILES TO GET HELP

When Help Was Near — His Wife Among Those in Landaulet He Left for Others to Rescue.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., June 30.—Motorists and persons living near the corner of the Roslyn Road and the road running by the Fair Grounds in this village saw a big motor landaulet speed along the Roslyn Road at dusk this evening at about fifty miles an hour. Other cars gave it plenty of room and those in the Fair Grounds Road pulled up, expecting to see the landaulet continue along the Roslyn Road.

That a man driving at such speed should attempt to make the turn into the Fair Grounds Road never occurred to any of those who saw the speeding landaulet, and they were amazed, therefore, to see the big car swing suddenly to the turn.

It swung fairly into the Fair Grounds Road, but so great was its speed that the driver could not keep it on the road. It dashed across it, plunged down into the ditch, crossed it and, mounting the bank opposite, overturned.

The driver was thrown clear of the wrecked machine. Another man and two women were pinned in the closed car, the windows of which were smashed, as was also the framework.

Motorists and others ran to the car just as the driver picked himself up and began running around wildly. He seemed not to know what he was doing, but kept shouting that he had been making nearly fifty miles an hour. Then he suddenly jumped into an automobile and asked the occupants to take him to Manhasset, several miles away. They agreed, and off he started, leaving the other occupants of the wrecked car still pinned beneath it.

Several automobiles had come up by this time, while folk in the neighborhood had telephoned for Dr. G. F. Cleghorne. Rescuers started at once to liberate the victims pinned in the body of the car, and they got all three out, though they had to cut the skirt from one woman and remove her shoes, the soles of which were caught so that with the shoes on she could not move her feet.

Dr. Cleghorne found that the man was badly cut and bruised and that both women were cut about the face, while one had her right wrist dislocated. She was Miss Catherine Marsh; the man was her brother, Lawrence, and the other woman, Mrs. F. E. Nichols, wife of the man who had started for Manhasset, and who was chauffeur for M. W. Mundy, who lives at the Hotel Plaza.

The man and the women had been helped into the home of Frederick Boer, near by, when Nichols returned from Manhasset, where he said he had left word at a garage to look after his car, and where he had tried to get a doctor. He seemed so clearly out of his mind that Motor Cycle Policeman Seaman arrested him and led him before Justice of the Peace Buhler, who held him for examination to-morrow.

Nichols apparently had been uninjured in the accident, though Dr. Clerghorne said that he might have received a blow on the head, which would account for his strange actions. The physician telephoned to Mr. Mundy, who said that he had expected his chauffeur back at 4 o'clock, and had not heard from him since he took the car out. Apparently Nichols had been hastening back to New York when he tried to take the turn at high speed.

Mrs. Nichols and Marsh and his sister were allowed to go home after Dr. Cleghorne had assured himself that their injuries did not require hospital treatment. They left for home by train.

W. E. D. STOKES'S CAR HIT GIRL.

Victim Carried to Hospital by Mrs. Stokes—Her Condition Serious.

W. E. D. Stokes of the Hotel Ansonia, recovering from a recent operation, was riding in his automobile with Mrs. Stokes and another woman yesterday afternoon when the car ran down and seriously injured Alma Benson, 15 years old, of 47 East Forty-sixth Street, Bayonne, N. J. The girl, with her mother and six sisters, had been visiting a relative in New York and at Sixty-sixth Street and Broadway one of Alma's younger sisters ran ahead while crossing the thoroughfare. Alma called her sister and ran toward her, not noticing the Stokes automobile, which bore down on her. Stokes was upset by the accident and nearly fainted. Mrs. Stokes then took charge of affairs, and ordered the injured girl taken to Roosevelt Hospital.

Mrs. Stokes then told Mrs. Benson and the six sisters of Alma to climb into the machine. It was a large car, but with Alma stretched out on the rear seat, most of the others had to stand. At the hospital, Dr. Hildreth found Alma had received a fractured right thigh and multiple contusions and abrasions. She was immediately taken to the operating table. Later at the hospital it was said that the girl was in a serious condition, but that her recovery was expected.

No arrest was made as the police regard the accident as unavoidable.

UPSET ON OILY ROAD.

Two Cars Turn Turtle Because Too Much Dust Destroyer Was Used.

PATERSON, N. J., June 30.—The road between this city and Pompton was oiled yesterday, and too much oil was applied, so that traveling was made dangerous for automobiles and motor cycles.

D. A. Speight of Maywood was driving his automobile near Pompton with his married sister, whose name was not learned, and three other women, when the car skidded, whirled around, and turned turtle. Mr. Speight's left arm was broken and his sister was severely bruised. The other occupants of the car were not hurt.

A similar accident occurred about a mile from the scene of the first, about an hour later. Skidding on the slippery road, the car of James Turpan of this city turned turtle, but the hood was up, and Turpan and the three other persons in the car escaped injury.

Two motor cyclists met with accidents on the same road. The machines of both were upset. One of the riders had several teeth knocked out, and the other was bruised about the body and head.

BOY SOMERSAULTS INTO AUTO.

Cycler Hits Car, Hurdles Hood, and Rebounds to Road with Broken Leg.

Charles A. Seaman, 17 years old, of Hewlett, L. I., was riding his bicycle at fairly high speed along Broadway in Woodmere yesterday afternoon. His side of the road furnished a practically clear speedway, but the other side was filled with the Sunday afternoon automobile traffic, so numerous that the string of cars looked like a parade. Just as young Seaman came abreast of the string, Chauffeur William Michaelson, driving the second car, owned by Otto Kruger of East Rockaway, decided to take the lead and swung out to the left.

The car passed immediately into the cycler's pathway, and Seaman drove straight into it. The impact was severe. The boy's body shot into the air, somersaulting over the hood and crashing through the glass windshield, to land in the bottom of the car and from there to rebound and fall to the roadway. There was instant commotion in the line of cars. From one Dr. O. H. Rodie of 113 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, jumped out and gave first aid. With a rope he tied up the arm where a vein had been cut. He found that the boy had fractured his left thigh and his chin was badly cut by the broken glass of the windshield. The car belonging to L. D. Sharp of Far Rockaway volunteered as an ambulance, and in this the injured boy was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital in Far Rockaway.

LOST HOME AND HIT BY AUTO.

East New York Man's Misfortunes of a Single Day.

Tobias Fabricant had to stand helplessly by yesterday afternoon and see his home, at 70 Louisiana Avenue, East New York, destroyed in a blaze which swept over four two-family houses from 66 to 72 Louisiana Avenue, destroying all, and damaging slightly the adjoining houses in the block of frame two-story double dwellings. He saw Max Schars climb from one window to a window in his sister-in-law's home, on the second floor of No. 68, and help Mrs. Schars and her 18 months old infant, Harry, to safety, cutting his hands so badly in doing so that he was taken to the Bradford Street Hospital.

Then Fabricant, the fire over, started out to tell his friends about his misfortune. He was crossing Vesta Avenue at New Lots Road, when an automobile gave him a bump and continued on its way. Fabricant lay in the road, and when Dr. Albora came from St. Mary's Hospital he was taken there, the surgeon saying he was somewhat bruised and might have internal injuries.

The police are investigating the fire which cost Fabricant his home, and they are also looking for the motorist who knocked him down and didn't wait to see how badly he had injured the unlucky man.

KILLED IN AUTO PLUNGE.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 30.—An automobile containing five persons plunged into the Ohio Canal at "Sixteen-mile lock" this afternoon when the auto skidded. Frederick Call was instantly killed. His neck was broken. His brother, M. F. Call, suffered a broken back, and is not expected to live.

The wives of the two men and M. F. Call's young son were rescued unhurt. The dead man's body was found an hour later. He had been caught under the motor.

The auto was running slowly when it struck loose dirt along the edge of the canal. M. F. Call, who was driving, lost control of the car, which slid into the canal.

BULLET HITS WOMAN IN AUTO.

Ambushed Shooter Is Started Up, but Escapes Pursuit.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERBURY, Conn., June 30.—Mrs. B. Chatfield of this city, while riding in an automobile this morning with her son-in-law, H. B. Dow, was hit by a bullet from the gun of some one in ambush in Chase Park. The bullet struck a bone near the left eye, and the physicians say she had a narrow escape.

Mr. Dow left the car and ran into the park, starting up two young men, who fled, one with a small rifle in his hand.

There has been many complaints of attacks on the highways, and several days ago a Mrs. Sandland of New York received a skull wound from a stone which damaged her hat.

Mrs. Dawson Seeks Divorce.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., June 30.—Mrs. Bessie Haynes Dawson of New York has filed a suit for divorce here against Harry William Dawson, a business man of New York. The complaint has been put upon the secret files. It is said the complaint alleges desertion and mental cruelty.

PEDDLERS PREPARE APPEAL TO GAYNOR

SUGGEST MARKET PLACES

And These Should Give Way in Time, They Say, to Permanent Centres for Tradesmen.

In convention assembled, ninety-six delegates, representing more than 5,000 citizen peddlers of New York City, met yesterday afternoon to co-operate with Mayor Gaynor in his efforts to better their condition. The meeting was held at the University Settlement, at Rivington and Eldridge Streets, and the clamor of the delegates, as they shouted their dissensions and opinions, could often be heard for a square block around. It required nearly two hours of eager debate before Hyman Goldstein of 126 Second Street was eventually elected Temporary Chairman. Even then a large faction, headed by a fiery, red-haired delegate from the far west side, doubted the righteousness of Mr. Goldstein's election, and for a time there was a question of a bolt.

But Mr. Goldstein, with the aid of an active Sergeant at Arms, had the rebellious member reinserted in his seat, and order was resumed. It was then explained that the convention was to hear suggestions for remedying conditions and to appoint a committee, consisting of one member from each local organization present, to wait on Mayor Gaynor.

"The Mayor wants this committee to consist of none but real peddlers," said the Chairman. "He wants neither lawyers nor walking delegates to explain our troubles for us."

A vote of thanks was cast for Sigmund Schwartz of 107 Forsyth Street, for fifteen years President of the United Citizen Peddlers' Association of New York, for his disinterested work in the past. Mr. Schwartz then took the floor to outline the troubles of the pushcart population of New York. His remarks included an attack on the policy of Commissioner Waldo in crowding all the peddlers of the city into the east side, and in failing to clear the streets of the 22,000 unorganized vendors who were making the life of the minority, who had licenses, unbearable.

"There was passed in 1906," he said, "an ordinance whereby pushcart vendors were permitted to move their wares in such a manner as to avoid the sun. This rule is no longer enforced, with the result that the peddlers must stand in the broiling heat until their goods rot and themselves fall from prostration. The manner in which peddlers' positions are now shifted in this city has opened the way to wholesale graft, for those men who care to retain favorable positions must pay for them, and pay well."

Complain of Women and Children.

Another evil which Schwartz pointed out was the abuse by women, children, and shopkeepers, all unlicensed, of the city regulation. He declared that the unorganized, worthy peddlers should be compelled to organize and that children, women with wage-earning husbands, and shopkeepers should be barred from the streets.

It was unanimously agreed by the convention that the one remedy which would at once protect the vendor and the consumer lay in the creation of definite markets.

"Abolish the pushcart!" was the cry. And as a step toward that end it was decided that the police must set aside certain squares and other sections of the city for the establishment of markets of the kind found in the great Continental cities. A resolution to this effect was forwarded by means of the Committee on Resolutions to the Mayor and to the Board of Aldermen. In these appointed places, only licensed peddlers are to be permitted to sell their wares, and these in fixed posts which they shall rent by the month and consider exclusively their own.

Thus the stand will replace the pushcart, and eventually, with the erection of permanent markets, great buildings will replace the stand.

Places for Pushcarts.

The following places will be suggested by the committee when it waits on the Mayor as the most feasible for permanent markets:

The New York Central tracks between 110th and 119th Streets, daily until 4 P. M.

First Avenue, from Third to Fourteenth Street.

East Houston Street east to Lewis Street and the East river, south to Delancey Street.

Under Manhattan Bridge, from Henry to Monroe Street.

Cross streets at Avenue C, from Union Street to Fourteenth Street, the Bowery to the East River.

The absolute abolition of pushcarts from all other streets of the city, insistence on licenses, and protection of all wares from the Summer sun will also be suggested to the Mayor. At the close of the session it was announced that a mass meeting open to all pushcart peddlers would shortly be held at Cooper Union.

Suspect Suicide at Niagara.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 30.—A watchman on Luna Island found a woman's hat and coat from which all identifying marks had been removed, to-day. It is feared that some woman has committed suicide by jumping over the falls. The hat is a black turban, trimmed with white lilacs, and the coat a black broadcloth. No woman has been reported missing in Niagara Falls.

BACK FROM SHAN COUNTRY.

American Civil Engineer Saw One White Woman in Four Years.

Among the passengers arriving yesterday from Glasgow on the Anchor liner Columbia was Charles Illingworth, a civil engineer from West Virginia, who has spent the last four years among the Shan tribe on the frontier of Burma and China. It is a wild country, over a thousand miles across country from Maulmain, and he went prospecting for tin for a Scotch corporation of Glasgow. Mr. Illingworth, who is a well-built man about 30 years old, and thoroughly bronzed by the tropical sun, said that, with one exception, he did not see a white woman during the four years he was there. The exception was an Englishwoman who was unhappily married to a half-breed Burmese and Chinese, who was his nearest neighbor.

Mr. Illingworth spoke in high praise of the work of the officials of the Indian Civil Service in Upper Burma in protecting the valuable teak forests. They watch the agents of the companies who have concessions to cut the trees and not only see that new ones are planted according to contract, but each official overlooks the pruning and caring for the forests in his own district, where they live alone among the natives. Every five years the officials of the Indian Government get leave to go home for six months on full pay.

After spending two weeks with his relatives in West Virginia, Mr. Illingworth will leave for San Francisco and sail for Shanghai, whence he will travel by boat to Tien-Tsin and then by rail to Peking.

Other passengers on the Columbia were Dr. F. R. Fraser, son of the well-known Scotch surgeon, Sir William Fraser, who has come to study at the Rockefeller Institute, and the Rev. John McClure of Cape Town, South Africa, who was an intimate friend of Cecil Rhodes. He said that conditions in South Africa were not very good at present, but they would improve. He admired the Boers and said that the early Dutch settlers had left their imprint on the country everywhere, and that the Boers were pracically the Governors of the land to-day.

Capt. John Black, commander of the Columbia, reported that on June 26 the liner passed eight icebergs and much drift ice in latitude 47 to 48.50 north, and longitude 42.50 to 46.42 west. Four of the bergs were very large, he said. The position is considerably further north than that where the Titanic foundered in latitude 41.45 and longitude 50.14. The Anchor line course is by way of the north of Ireland, taking her much further north than the course of the transatlantic liners to England and the Channel ports.

TO APPEAL TO AMBASSADOR.

Newport Cabmen Say Mme. Bakhmetieff Will Not Disturb Their Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 30.—The Russian Ambassador, George Bakhmetieff, recently leased the James Gordon Bennett place for the season. It is in Bellevue Avenue, near the Casino, and cabs and automobiles make a public stand directly in front of it. As the Ambassador takes possession this week, the police have ordered the cab drivers and chauffeurs to move on.

James Boyle, master cabman of Newport and President of the Hack Drivers' Union, has decided upon diplomatic tactics. He says he will write a letter to the Russian Ambassador and to Mme. Bakhmetieff as soon as they arrive in Newport, asking that the order be rescinded.

"Just think, here we have been waiting ten months for the Casino to open. Now the cabmen are driven away from earning their daily bread. It's un-American, and I hear," said Boyle, "that the Ambassador's wife will help us."

Henry A. C. Taylor has promised to bring the matter before the Newport Improvement Association.
